League Council Votes Saar To Be Part of Germany

Unanimous Decision at Geneva For Annexation of Territory Where Plebiscite Held

Many Refugees Cross Into France

Canadian Press and Associated Press

Geneva, Jan. 17. — The League of Nations Council to-day unanimously voted for the annexation of the Saar basin territory to Germany.

An earlier dispatch, which told of events leading up to the League Council's vote, read:

Canadian Press

Geneva, Jan. 17.—German representatives to-day announced a complete agreement with France on conditions preliminary to the restoration of the Saar basin territory to Germany.

It is understood the agreement provides Germany acknowledges the Saar is to be considered an integral part of the demilitarized border zone, and if any outstanding questions, particularly economic or financial matters, are not settled by February 15 the League of Nations Council will deal with them.

The agreement provides for the annexation of the entire Saar territory to Germany under the conditions of the Treaty of Versailles, which ended the Great War and which originally took the territory from Germany and placed it under the jurisdiction of the League of Nations for fifteen years.

VISITING CAR TOTALS HIGHER

Figures on Last Tourist Season Compiled By Publicity Bureau

Figures on foreign cars which visited Vancouver Island during the tourist season have just been issued by the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau. The total for 1934 is 5,010 against 3,945 in 1933.

An interesting feature of the figures is the increase in California cars of approximately 45 per cent. The total last tourist season was 2,520 against 1,696 the previous year.

The California car total was 50 per cent more than the Washington total. Over 400 per cent more California cars came to Vancouver Island than Oregon cars came to Vancouver Island. There was a 20 per cent increase in Hawaiian cars, 300 per cent increase in Utah cars

COLDER SPELL IS PREDICTED

Ten Or Twelve Degrees of Frost For To-night, Says F. Napier Denison

As sub-zero weather swept some parts of British Columbia to-day and the thermometers in Dawson and the Yukon dipped to 54 degrees below zero, a colder spell for Victoria was predicted by F. Napier Denison of the Gonzales Observatory.

After a minimum of 22 degrees above recorded on the grass early this morning, Mr. Denison said the weather map indicated it would be colder to-night with possibly 10 or 12 degrees of frost.

The north wind which started this morning freshened slightly as the day progressed, said Mr. Denison adding there would possibly follow a cold spell without snow.

Frosts to-day extended as far south as California and there were five inches of snow in Portland. Below zero temperatures continued at Prince Rupert and Kamloops, while on the prairies they ranged from 20 to 30 degrees below.

The steady fall of snow this morning made automobile travel hazardous. City streets were covered with packed snow. Traffic while in the outer areas centres of ice were on the roadways.

SNOW NOW TO-DAY

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Jan. 17.—Another five inches of snow added to-day to the difficulties of automobile traffic in Vancouver as several hundred men found employment clearing streets, sidewalks and street railway tracks. The new fall brought the total since December 20 to 20 inches.

The heavy snow, however, has caused little delay on the waterfront, where port activity is unusually heavy. Longshore gangs have been brought from New Westminster to assist in handling the cargoes. Twelve ships were being worked yesterday and twelve to-day.

Seattle, Jan. 17.—The worst blizzard to strike Mount Baker this winter swept down on Lonetta Young, Jack Oakie and some sixty others of a Hollywood motion picture troupe yesterday afternoon and forced them to turn back to Bellingham after they almost had reached Mount Baker Lodge.

WIGS AND GOOSE-QUILL PENS

Unique among Canadian courts is the Admiralty Court conducted here by Mr. Justice Martin. This court which is a division of the Exchequer Court of Canada, preserves the accoutrements that have been traditional with the high English courts down through the centuries, but which have been abandoned in modern times by most Canadian courts. Lawyers who have a case in this court have to wear wigs, as they cannot be heard unless so adorned any more than if they appeared ungowned. Also, Chief Usher William Jones has to provide real old-fashioned goose-quill pens for use on the bench, in place of the modern fountain pen or even the other most nib. In this photograph, Mr. Justice Martin, with goose-quill in hand, is seen presiding in the trial of the King vs. Simon K., a coastal rum-running vessel, being heard here to-day. The Justice bears a thick, unwarbled, wooly wig with a special tail. The other wigs worn in court by officials and lawyers are curled with the traditional parallel and elevated crenulants waves, with two ribbon, curled tails. In front of the Judge is Registrar Gerald Burton and to the far side of him Justin Gilbert, official reporter. Standing, addressing the court, is W. Chandler Thomson, counsel of Vancouver, who intervened in the case for the assignee of the mortgage. Seated in the centre with his back to the camera is H. W. R. Moore, counsel for the King. The man seated, without a wig, is James Beatty, one of Mr. Moore's witnesses. Admiralty Marshal H. W. Goggin, in special Admiralty Court dress, is not shown in the picture, but occupies a special place to the left while the court is in session and precedes the Justice on the parade to and from the bench. Some persons visit the Admiralty Court to witness the unusual proceedings. The proceedings to-day ended in the court adjourning sine die pending a settlement over the intervener which Mr. Moore indicated was probable.

Hauptmann Shouts At Witness He Is Telling Falsehoods

Associated Press

Flemington, N.J., Jan. 17.—Bruno Richard Hauptmann lost his restraint in his trial to-day and shouted to a witness:

"Listen, mister, you stop lying!"

The German carpenter, accused of the kidnapping and murder of Baby Charles A. Lindbergh, leaped from his chair and buried the demand at Special Agent Thomas H. Sisk of the U.S. Department of Justice.

The crowd packing the courtroom rose to its feet and gasped as one. Hauptmann's guards yanked him back.

URGED TO BE QUIET

"One moment," commanded Justice Thomas W. Trenchard. "Let me suggest to the defendant that he keep quiet. If he has any observations to make, let him make them quietly through counsel."

Sisk had been testifying on the finding of part of the Lindbergh ransom money in Hauptmann's Bronx garage after his arrest.

He told of finding a jug.

"We questioned Hauptmann as to that jug," he said. "He denied knowing anything about it, but the next day when we questioned him, he admitted he had that money in there three weeks before he was arrested."

"In that jug?"

"In that jug."

"All right, sir, what did you do that day?"

IDENTIFIED BY WITNESS

Earlier to-day the man who owned Hauptmann's street identified him as the payer of a Lindbergh ransom bill, and a physician told the jury that Baby Charles A. Lindbergh died of a skull fracture caused by external violence.

John J. Lyons, filling station attendant, said Hauptmann purchased gasoline last September 19 and gave another attendant at the station, Walter Lyle, a $10 gold certificate. The certificate was produced in court and Lyons identified it.

HUNDRED LEFT

He said Lyle said to Hauptmann: "You don't see many more of them," and that Hauptmann replied:

Lyons said Lyle wrote the serial number of Hauptmann's car on the gold certificate and that he (Lyons) subsequently took it to the bank. It was this incident that caused seizure of Hauptmann, discovery of $14,000 of the $50,000 ransom money in his garage in the Bronx, and the charge that he kidnapped and murdered the Lindbergh baby.

Trial Fans Eat Great Quantities

Cook of Hotel in Flemington, N.J., Works Eighteen Hours a Day

As staff chief of the Union Hotel's dining-room she has seen the army of visitors consume a half-ton of onions and almost two tons of potatoes since the Hauptmann trial began.

They have eaten 400 loaves of bread, 60,000 rolls, 2,000 minute steaks, 1,000 chickens, 400 pies, sixty cakes and ninety-six legs of lamb. Almost 1,000 quarts of milk have disappeared, 200 quarts of cream, twenty-four puddings and 720 gallons of coffee.

RULING SOON ON VERDICT

Canadian Press

Edmonton, Jan. 17.—Judgment was reserved in the appellate division of the Supreme Court of Alberta to-day on the appeal of Miss Vivian MacMillan and her father, A. D. MacMillan, against the rejection by Mr. Justice W. C. Ives in a lower court of a jury's award of $15,000 damages resulting from a civil action against former Premier J. E. Brownlee.

In his argument, H. H. Milner, K.C., said the damages of $15,000 were "beyond reason" and "a shock to the conscience."

"In no case in England or Canada," he said, "had such extravagant damages been awarded. They were vindictive or condemnatory, in a sense punishment of a political figure."

Four Provinces Lose Timber Dues Appeal

B.C. and Prairies, Not Dominion, Must Repay Amounts to Settlers, Says Privy Council in London

Canadian Press

London, Jan. 17.—The Privy Council to-day dismissed the appeal of the four western provinces of Canada against a ruling of the Supreme Court of Canada holding they were liable for payment of timber dues to settlers in connection with the transfer of natural resources from Dominion to provincial jurisdiction.

The appeal was carried to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council by Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia. The timber dues were paid by homesteaders to the Dominion government for all timber cut on their premises for sale, the Dominion retaining the dues when the homesteaders received patents on their land.

The provinces contended the Dominion was liable for outstanding dues not refunded, after the natural resources had been turned over to their control.

ARGUMENT REJECTED

The judges of the Privy Council ruled they were unable to accept the arguments of the appellants that the dues paid were merely deposits which Dominion received and held simply as a stakeholder, subject to the obligation to refund to settlers, and that therefore they could never be properly described as payments which never belonged or could continue to belong to the Dominion.

The judgment found the dues were paid as they should belong to or become the property of the Dominion and were simply attached to the Dominion on payment of a contingent

Police Ready to Make Tobogganing Safe in City By Diverting Traffic.

If the fall of snow yesterday and to-day has provided any really good toboggan slides in the city the police department is prepared to send out men to divert traffic from them in order to let children enjoy them in safety, Chief Bentley announced this morning.

Several complaints have been received by police that treacherous slides are being developed by the youngsters in dangerous portions of the city and although some of them have been dropped, the chief intimated he would be prepared to allow the children to have their fun while the snow lasts.

Many amateurs skaters who are not using the fall of snow hampers them, have been skating on paths in the Beacon area, including Beacon Hill and Quadra Road on the West Saanich Road. King's Road has also attracted a few.

Inquiry Follows Deaths In Fire In Montreal

Aged Woman, Three Grandchildren and Neighbor Child Lose Lives as Flames From Movie Film Sweep Home

Canadian Press

Montreal, Jan. 17.—A coroner's jury will investigate the fire which yesterday evening took the lives of an aged woman and four child spectators of a show in an east end private home here.

Mrs. Joseph Demartigny, seventy, three of her grandchildren and a little neighbor were burned to death when a moving picture at a children's party at the Demartigny home and the blazing celluloid set fire to the house.

Maurice Demartigny, three and one-half, Yolande Demartigny, ten, Gerard Demartigny, six, and Madeleine Lamontagne, ten, were the four children burned to death. Nine other members of the audience had their city frocks were burned and injured before the fire was extinguished.

Chief witnesses at the coroner's inquest will be Gerard Demartigny, thirty-five, said to have operated the motion picture machine.

TRAPPED ON STAIRS

A score of children and their elders crowded the room in the Demartigny home where the pictures were being shown. A flicker of flame interrupted the show and bigbothered screams of pain and terror rose to adults and

TRIALS FOLLOW PRISON BREAK

Three California Convicts Face Capital Charges; One Killed

Associated Press

San Quentin, Jan. 17.—Three convicts who survived the gunfire of prison guards may pay with their lives for two brief hours of freedom, prison officials said to-day as they launched a sweeping investigation into yesterday's sensational prison break here.

The leader of the quartette was killed. The paroled convict who supplied the guns used in the daring flight was trapped with four companions on a deserted island.

The three survivors of the prison break were described as customary liberties, victims of their brutality. Wesley James B. Holohan, veteran prison official, lay dangerously injured in his home to-day. Four members of the board of prison terms and parole were obliged by their harrying experiences in hostages in the flight in which two of them were wounded.

Death on the gallows faces the three surviving convicts, said Julian H. Allen, acting chairman of the prison board.

He pointed out a recent California law makes the death penalty mandatory on life-termers convicted of assault. Fred Lemley, twenty-seven, San Francisco gabbie, and Joe Kristy, twenty-six, Los Angeles kidnapper, were serving life terms.

He said both of them and Alexander Mackey, Los Angeles robber, would also be tried under California's new kidnap law, providing death or life imprisonment for kidnapping under force of arms.

"THROW THE BOOK"

Other prison officials said prosecutors would undoubtedly "throw the book" at the trio, filing charges of assault, battery, riot, prison escape and perhaps even murder for the death during the prison break of their leader, Rudolph Straight, thirty-five-year-old Alameda robber.

Girl Wife Happy As Judges Cut Term

Alex York, the Vancouver youth who became a barrender in a bootlegging establishment so that he could earn money to support himself and his girl wife rather than go to a relief camp, will be free in a few days after being sentenced by County Court Judge Lennox to one year in Oakalla jail.

The judge found York guilty of being in possession of stolen property, to wit, a clock worth $3. York had taken the clock as security for fifty cents' worth of drinks from a thirsty man who dropped in and did not have any cash on him. York had not committed the clock in any way.

Yesterday a police escort brought York to Victoria as he could appeal to the B.C. Court of Appeal. Accompanying him here in court was his young wife. The court during the morning ruled against York's appeal against conviction. But during recess they gave him opportunity to appear before Mr. Justice M. A. Macdonald and get leave to appeal against his sentence, so that when the case was called in the afternoon the five justices were able to cut the sentence to five months. As York was sentenced on November 21, and has been in jail since, he will be due for release on Monday. He now has a job awaiting him in the Bridge River. He has never been in trouble before.

Henry G. Hall, K.C., for the prosecution, said there was no objection to the decision of the court.

Associated Press

Ottawa, Jan. 17.—James L. Bowman, K.C., Conservative member for Dauphin, Manitoba, was elected Speaker of the House of Commons this afternoon on the nomination of Prime Minister R. B. Bennett and Minister of Justice Hugh Guthrie. The election was unanimous. Rt. Hon. W. L. Mr. Bowman succeeds Hon. George Black, member for the Yukon, who resigned as Speaker this week because of ill-health.

BORN IN ONTARIO

The new Speaker, a lawyer and former mayor of Dauphin, was born in Thornhill, Ont., in 1870, of United Empire Loyalist stock. Bowman was first elected to the House of Commons at the last general election and has taken an active part in the proceedings of the House of Commons and the committees. ## C. GUY HADDON SENT TO JAIL

London Man Who Claimed to Be the King's Nephew Violated Peace Bonds

Associated Press

London, Jan. 17. — Clarence Guy Gordon Haddon, who was bound over to keep the peace last January after pleading guilty to a charge of attempting to blackmail the King, was sentenced to a year's imprisonment to-day for violation of his peace bonds.

The forty-three-year-old Haddon claimed to be the King's nephew, and was charged with having written letters demanding money, asserting he was an illegitimate son of the King's late elder brother, the Duke of Clarence. The claim was of course disproved at the hearing a year ago.

The chairman and two secretaries of the South Islington Conservative Association testified to-day Haddon had made several visits to association headquarters and stated he wanted some recognition of being the late duke's son.

He appealed to them, they said, to get a member of the House of Commons for South Islington to demand legal help in the Commons for him. He had signed three bonds to keep the peace for three years.

The reform measures to be submitted, said the speech, would be "part of a comprehensive plan designed to remedy the social and economic injustices now prevailing, and to ensure to all classes and to all parts of the country, a greater degree of equality in the distribution of the benefits of the capitalist system."

STORMY DAY

A blustery winter storm ushered in the opening of the seventeenth Parliament for its last session. Windswept Parliament Hill presented a bleak setting for the time-honored pageantry associated with the occasion.

Vancouver, Jan. 17.—The British Columbia Government is attempting to attain the "port of economic security" by the shortest possible route, and criticism of its methods is based largely on misunderstanding, Premier T. D. Pattullo declared here to-day.

The Premier is here for a two-day business visit, and will return to Victoria Friday night after attending the annual dinner of the Board of Trade.

Assistance to the municipalities, including the city of Vancouver, was a feature of the Premier's address, he said, citing annual grants made and pledges on hand.

PUBLIC ENEMY NO. 1 Must Go!

Kill that cold at once!

The real No. 1 Public Enemy is the "common" cold. It is a constant menace to our health and well being and should be "killed" quickly.

A cold is an infection produced within the system by a germ. Common sense dictates that you want to immediately or an internal infection. When a cold attacks don't waste time. Use Grove's.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is an internal treatment that goes directly to the source of the trouble. It does the four things necessary: First, it opens the bowels. Second, it combats the cold germs in the system and reduces the fever. Third, it relieves the headache and "grippy" feeling. Fourth, it tones up the system and helps fortify against further attacks.

At the first signs of a cold buy a box of Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine (the large size is the most economical to buy). Make sure you get Grove's. There is a white box. Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine has what it takes to stop a cold quickly and effectively.

FAIR TRADE BOARD URGED

Retail Merchants of B.C. and Prairies Make Suggestion to Bennett

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Jan. 17.—Establishment of a fair trade board by the Dominion Government is being sought by retail merchants of British Columbia and the three prairie provinces, according to George R. Matthews, secretary of the B.C. branch of the Retail Merchants' Association, who yesterday returned from Winnipeg, where he attended a conference of the provincial secretaries.

The board would work in conjunction with the provincial governments to regulate chains which have crept into retail trade with the result that individual merchants have been crushed, labor and producers exploited and customers deceived, he said.

Endorsement of the proposal would be sought of each retailer and a brief would be prepared and presented to Prime Minister R. B. Bennett.

Square Deal Association Urges Louisiana End H. P. Long's "Dictatorship"

Associated Press

Baton Rouge, La., Jan. 17.—A slim, dynamic, twenty - eight - year - old fighter, with the fire of French ancestry, is the leader of the latest Louisiana revolt against U.S. Senator Huey P. Long's dictatorship.

Ernest J. Bourgeois, who proudly says his name in the language of his Gallic ancestors denotes "the people," is the president and the driving head of the Square Deal Association of Louisiana, which is demanding repeal of Long's dictator laws.

He arose from obscurity and the ranks of unemployment two weeks ago to the directorship of a militant people's organization that has told old line politicians it does not want their guidance in an attempt to topple Huey Long from his throne of absolute political ruleship.

Its ultimatum to Long's dictatorship flaunted, the Square Deal Association to-day prepared to train an army to force its demands.

Bourgeois issued a statement declaring companies would be organized immediately throughout the state and "drilled and taught the rudiments of military science, an organization that is instantly mobile and that can be controlled and made effective."

FACE EXILE OR SOVIET PRISON TERMS

GREGORY ZINOVIEFF

LEO KAMENEFF

Associated Press

Moscow, Jan. 17.—Editor gave among Moscow's foreign observers to-day that Gregory Zinovieff and Leon Kamenoff, once powerful Bolshevik leaders, would be saved from the firing squads that have meted out death to 117 assorted terrorists.

They recalled that no old Bolshevik of such prominence as the two former leaders have been executed heretofore.

The indictment against Zinovieff and Kamenoff, who at their trial spurned Tuesday at Leningrad pleaded guilty to engaging in counter-revolutionary activities, said there was no proof the Moscow march earlier with which they were identified directed or agreed to the assassination of Sergei Kirov, Soviet official, December 1.

That was lifted as an indication the two might get off with quite such as was imposed on Leon Trotsky, or with prison terms of ten years or less. Ten years is the maximum term possible under Soviet law.

Also on trial at Leningrad are seventeen others, assorted counter revolutionists, among them Gregory Sokolnikoff, another formerly prominent figure in the Communist Party and the Soviet government. He was chairman of the Leningrad Soviet and a member of the central committee of the party before he disagreed with the present party direction, headed by Joseph Joseph Stalin.

All pleaded guilty, the government announced, and Sokolnikoff, it said, confessed that "Zinovieff, Kamenoff, I and others were guilty of intriguing against the party and must be regarded as enemies of the people."

Will Weed Out Crowded Houses

Bills For England, Wales and Scotland Before Commons in London

Canadian Press

London, Jan. 17.—A new war has been declared on the tenement and the slum. Two government bills—one for England and Wales and the other for Scotland—made public to-day, lay down by statute for the first time in history a country-wide standard for the overcrowded home.

The bills state definitely how many persons may live in a room of specified floor area. Subject to certain safeguards, they make it a punishable offence for that limit to be exceeded.

The bills form the second stage in the battle with "the miserable house on the mean street." The first stage of the battle was a five-year programme for total abolition of slums and the construction of 200,000 houses to replace them. That programme already has got well into its stride. The new bills complete the picture by an attack on overcrowding.

GREAT PROBLEM

The magnitude of the problem is revealed by the Scottish census returns. These show that 1,000,000 persons, representing 25 per cent of the population of Scotland, were in 1931 living with more than two in a room.

Under the new bills a house will be reported as overcrowded if adequate accommodation in separate rooms is not available for occupants of opposite sexes more than ten years of age, other than persons living together as husband and wife. The standard also will regulate the number of persons for whom houses of particular sizes will be regarded as providing sufficient accommodation.

It proposes to allow for two persons in a single apartment, three in a house of two rooms, five in a house of three rooms, seven and a half in a house of four rooms, ten in a five-room house and an increase of two persons for each additional room above five.

The safeguarding clause protect existing occupants until new accommodation is ready. But the basis of the measures is that new accommodation will be provided without delay in the right places at the right rents.

In each district the local authority will be required to make a direct survey.

The total annual subsidy available to provide working-class houses in England will be £6 per house for forty years. Of this amount the Exchequer will contribute approximately £62.75 and the local authority £16.25.

MAN SHOOTS AND KILLS HIS WIFE

Burlington, Ky., Jan. 17. — A divorce suit brought month yesterday by Mrs. Lotie Huff Wilder in a shooting in the Boone County courthouse that interrupted a murder trial.

Milliard Wilder, forty, a former city policeman, shot his wife and himself, in the second floor hallway adjacent to the courtroom. She died in a hospital. He wounded himself in the head.

Mrs. Wilder, thirty-two, had filed suit for divorce last week alleging cruelty and neglect. The couple had been married fourteen years and had five children.

The shots suddenly rang out as a jury was being selected to try Bill Young for the murder of Joe Obrand at Beaver on Christmas Day. There was a rush from the courtroom, but deputy sheriffs soon restored order and Circuit Judge James M. Gilbert continued the trial.

Murder and Kidnapping Charges Against Trio in Illinois

St. Salle, Ill., Jan. 17.—The state planned swift punishment to-day for three surviving members of a quartette of bank bandits who yesterday shot it out with armed posses, leaving three dead—including one of their own number.

State Attorney Elmer E. Mohan announced he would go before the grand jury Monday to seek indictments against the trio, charging murder, kidnapping, attempted robbery with a gun, and larceny of an automobile.

The gunmen killed a bank official, Charles Bundy, fifty-four, and Sheriff Glenn Aultice of Marshall County and wounded three others. One of the marauders, Melvin Isles, Rockford, committed suicide just before the band was captured.

The three prisoners are Arthur Thielen, Fred Gerner, thirty, and John Houff, twenty-five.

BRITISH FARMERS MAKE REQUESTS

London, Jan. 17.—J. E. Wills, new president of the National Farmers' Union, at the annual meeting yesterday voiced a demand for intervention of foreign trade parts and revision of the Ottawa agreements.

The meeting unanimously adopted a resolution voicing anxiety at the position of the British livestock industry, particularly in view of the Anglo-Irish cattle-exchange agreement, and pressing for a government statement on the subject as soon as Parliament reassembles at the end of January.

Australia Wants More U.S. Trade

Sydney, Australia, Jan. 17. — The Commonwealth government was informed to-day to be planning to seek tariff concessions from the United States, possibly under the threat of imposing a special tax on goods imported from the United States.

Australia has an annual favorable balance of trade with the United States.

Kim Dixon, a Seattle Times reporter, forced to abandon his automobile at Camp Four, mushed two miles through a fifty-mile blizzard and four-foot snow drifts to Mount Baker Lodge, where the actors will stay while filming the snow scenes of Jack London's "Call of the Wild."

"The 'Call of the Wild' was too much for the movie folks," Dixon reported from the lodge. "This is the worst storm they've had up here this year. It's almost like the Jack London's stories."

The movie troupe, in trucks and automobiles, left Bellingham at 6 o'clock yesterday morning, Dixon said. They fought the blizzard until they reached Camp Four shortly after 2 o'clock. The blizzard and snow drifts halted them there, and Ralph Simson, in charge of the party, ordered them to turn back. Some of the sound trucks still were trying to reach the lodge, however.

Municipalities Aided States B.C. Premier

The government offered to loan municipalities the moneys necessary to finance municipal shares of relief costs this year, pending adoption of a permanent national relief system at Ottawa.

Implementation of city or municipality arrangements with bondholders for a reduction of interest rates by validating legislation had been promised by the government.

VANCOUVER TAX SALE

Agreement to help Vancouver preserve the status quo by validating its failure to hold a tax sale, which would have deprived many citizens of their property, had been made by the government.

While it did not follow that this substituted the measures of temporary assistance and co-operation the government might render to the municipalities, the Premier said the province was not yet in position itself to put into effect permanent policies.

INTEREST CUT

Mr. Pattullo stated the government was strongly in favor of lower interest rates and was insistent that public finance could not be stabilized enough by this method. To bring about this result, he said the government had chosen to seek to balance its budget and improve its credit to the point where refunding would be possible rather than to defy the whole existing financial world and the Dominion Government by refusing to carry out its contracts.

He said if the latter course had been followed, all industry and business and development would have been penalized.

The government expected to be able to enter the prevailing cheap money market, he said, and obtain at low interest a fund with which it could give its bondholders the option of taking 100 cents on the dollar for their principal or accepting new bonds at lower interest.

WORKS SCHEME

Mr. Pattullo reiterated his belief that the cure of unemployment and the revival of business depended on adoption by the Dominion Government of a national works programme on a vast scale financed by the national credit without interest.

Rapid and extraordinary changes had taken place in the last twelve months in Dominion policy were evidence, he said, that the necessary action would not be much longer delayed.

GERMAN REPLY IS AWAITED

Britain Warned Reich Against Independent Action in Deciding on Armaments

Canadian Press

New York, Jan. 17.—A British warning to Germany against further independent action to free herself from the armament restrictions of the Versailles Treaty, has been conveyed to Berlin, said a special cable to-day from London to The New York Times.

The cable said it had just been learned this warning was given Berlin at the same time the British asked Germany to send a representative to the League of Nations Council for the Saar discussions. The latter invitation was rejected, but no reply has yet been made to the armaments warning, it was understood.

NO DEFIANCE WANTED

The warning was accompanied by a friendly intimation a way was being sought for giving Germany the equality she demanded and that this work would be jeopardized by any aggravating defiance from Berlin.

In conveying this warning, Britain, although acting entirely on her own initiative, supplemented and strengthened the agreement reached by Premier Mussolini and Foreign Minister Laval in Rome that they would consider it ground for consultation should any power take unilateral action to change its arms status.

League Council Votes Saar To Be Part Of Germany

DEMILITARIZATION

This means the Saar will be considered exactly as are all other German territories on the left bank of the Rhine with respect to demilitarization.

The Saar will be transferred to Germany March 1. In the meantime negotiations will be conducted between French and German experts on outstanding questions.

If these questions are not settled by February 15 a League committee will present a plan for settlement to the Council.

TWO REPORTED KILLED

Sarreguemines, France, Jan. 17.—Saar refugees, pouring into France over the border, reported to-day two Communists had been killed at Neunkirchen and a dozen other anti-Nazis had been beaten at other towns in the Saar Basin territory.

The scenes along the road leading from the Saar into Sarreguemines were reminiscent of war times.

Sixty men, women and children, carrying large bundles, walked several miles from the frontier to the railroad station in this town where the French offered them protection. Three hundred others had arrived by train and on foot by afternoon. All of them, said French officials, asserted their lives had been threatened.

They said the two Neunkirchen communists were killed in their own homes "by Nazis" and said another man's house was wrecked.

A refugee from Saarlouis said he had seen a man badly beaten and his face cut and that salt was then rubbed into the cut.

PROTECTION ASKED

Saarbrucken, Saar Territory, Jan. 17.—Two hundred anti-Hitlerites from Saarlouis were reported to-day to have sought refuge under the French flag while asserting their lives had been endangered by alleged bands of Nazi terrorists.

Men, women and children who fled from their homes were said to have slept on straw in the territory' territory of a French mine.

The fugitives said they had been threatened by shots fired in the air outside their dwellings and that windows of their homes had been broken.

The French mine officials said they had received several appeals for protection from families which voted for maintenance of League of Nations control over the territory.

Sulzbach police officials, however, most of whom are Nazis, denied any acts of terrorism had occurred.

FRANCE TAKEN TO FRANCE

Saarbrucken, Saar Basin Territory, Jan. 17.—French finance are fleeing the Saar as fast financiers said to-day France would get in cash only about half of what Germany agreed to pay for the territory's great coal mines.

The France - German agreement reached in Rome provided Germany should make a lump sum payment of 900,000,000 francs (about $60,570,000), to be drawn from francs circulating in the territory when she repurchased the mines. (The arrangement calls for 900,000,000 francs in all, 90 per cent in cash and the remainder in coal.)

Financiers, however, say only about 600,000,000 francs are left in the territory after the overwhelming vote Sunday for union with Nazi Germany.

AVOIDING LOSS

French officials had calculated there were about 1,800,000,000 francs in the Saar, twice the amount needed. But the population, especially industrialists and merchants, have been depositing their holdings in France and Switzerland to avoid a heavy loss when they will be forced to exchange francs for less valuable marks.

The flight of capital, however, has not yet brought a noticeable shortage of cash in circulation.

Outwardly all was orderly to-day. A rumor that five persons had been killed and several injured in political fighting was not confirmed.

Parliament Told Bennett's Bills Being Drafted

Senate entrance more than two hours before the Governor-General was scheduled to arrive.

Within the buildings brilliantly-gowned women, uniformed members of the consular service, military and naval officers made the Hill of Fame a parade of fashion and color.

Assured of reserved seats, wives and other female kin of Ottawa's officialdom, Senators and members of parliament were later in arriving. They swept majestically to their seats, ushered thither by attaches of the chamber.

NEW SPEAKER

Already J. L. Bowman, Conservative member for Dauphin, Man., whose election to the speakership had been foreshadowed, was hospitably greeted with Arthur Beauchesne, Clerk of the House of Commons, and Major Milton F. Gregg, V.C., Sergeant-at-arms about his duties.

MR. KING HAS GUEST

Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King arrived at the Parliament Buildings accompanied by Chief Justice Sir William Mulock of Ontario. Sir William's grandson, W. P. Mulock, was one of the five new members of the Commons to be introduced. The distinguished jurist will be the guest of Mr. King while in Ottawa.

MARCHED THROUGH SNOW

Only a meagre handful of spectators was present when the guard of honor from the Governor-General's Footguards arrived. Like wraiths the soldiers trudged through the deep snow, their band bravely striving to inject some spirited music into the march.

Shortly after 2 o'clock Rt. Hon. Sir Lyman P. Duff, Chief Justice of Canada and Deputy Governor-General, arrived and proceeded direct to the Senate chamber.

It was 3.20 before the Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod, the traditional messenger of the Senate, summoned the House to the upper chamber. The members trooped down the corridor.

To-day's opening held an interest above the previous sessions of this Parliament. When the next session comes a new House of Commons will have been elected.

TEXT OF SPEECH

"Honorable members of the Senate:

"Members of the House of Commons:

"I welcome you at a time when our country stands upon the threshold of a new era of prosperity. It will be for you, by your labors, to throw wide the door.

"During the past year the grip of hard times has been broken. Conditions show marked improvement. Employment is increasing. Our trade is expanding. The national revenues are higher. These evidences of recovery attest the wisdom and efficacy of the measures you have taken. In these improved conditions, there may now successfully be carried forward those great tasks of reform upon which the well-being of this country depends.

"In the anxious years through which you have passed you have been the witnesses of grave defects and abuses in the capitalist system. Unemployment and want are the proof of these.

"Great changes are taking place about us. New conditions prevail. These require modifications in the capitalist system to enable that system more effectively to serve the people. Reform measures will therefore be submitted to you as part of a comprehensive plan designed to remedy the social and economic injustices now prevailing, and to ensure to all classes and in all parts of the country a greater degree of equality in the distribution of the benefits of the capitalist system.

"Upon this plan you have made a beginning.

"Parliament, during recess, approved by vote of the last session of Parliament of the Saar Agreement, signed at Rome, between Canada and the other Powers concerned, and the Agreement was duly ratified by His Majesty.

"Pursuant to the agreement made between the Government of Canada and the governments of Saskatchewan and Alberta, royal commissions have been appointed to determine what, if any, compensation is payable to these provinces in respect to the period since 1930, in which their natural resources were under the control of the Government of Canada.

PRAIRIE DROUGHT

"My ministers are co-operating with the governments of the prairie provinces in a survey of those areas which have been stricken by recurring periods of drought, for the purpose of determining what steps may be taken to provide a permanent solution to this grave problem.

LABOR CONDITIONS

"Action will be taken to ameliorate the conditions of labor, to provide a better and more assured standard of living for the workers, to secure minimum wages and a maximum working week, and to alter the incidence of taxation so that it will more directly conform to capacity to pay.

"You will be invited to enact measures designed to safeguard the consumer and primary producer against unfair trading practices and to regulate, in the public interest, combinations in production and distribution.

"You will be invited also to enact measures to provide the investing public with means to protect itself against exploitation.

"You will be invited to enact legislation to amend and consolidate the acts relating to patents and inventions.

"My government has under consideration the adoption, throughout the penitentiaries of Canada, of a system similar to that which is known in England as the 'Borstal System,' and is making investigations as to its operation.

CIVIL SERVICE REORGANIZATION

"My ministers have under preparation a plan for the reorganization of the government services so that they may be better equipped to discharge the onerous duties which devolve upon them. You will be invited to consider measures, the purpose of which will be to authorize the first stage in this plan of reorganization.

ECONOMIC COUNCIL

"You will be invited to authorize the constitution of an economic council, the functions of which will be to advise my ministers upon all economic questions which concern the national welfare.

"The four hundredth anniversary of the landing of Jacques Cartier was fittingly commemorated in the chief centres connected with his voyages of discovery. Representatives of the governments of the United Kingdom, France and the United States took part.

"The celebration and the visit of a large and distinguished mission from France knit new bonds of understanding.

PEACE REPORTS

"The maintenance of peace and the good understanding between nations upon which peace depends have been the constant concern of my ministers. There are definite signs that the political tension and unrest in Europe which have intensified rivalry in armaments and economic restrictions are lessening, largely as a result of the renewed determination to make use of the agencies of conciliation and co-operation provided by the League of Nations. It will be the object of my government to support this policy and to work towards the progressive reduction of armaments and the stabilization of international economic relations.

KING'S JUBILEE

"The year 1935 will be memorable for all subjects of His Greatness Majesty King George V. On May 6 we shall celebrate, throughout the British Empire, the twenty-fifth anniversary of His Majesty's accession to the throne. On that day all of us will wish to unite in an act of thanksgiving to Almighty God for having thus preserved His Majesty, whose wisdom and devotion to the well-being of his subjects have proved an inestimable blessing. My ministers are considering means, shortly to be announced, by which the people of Canada may be afforded an opportunity of suitably commemorating this great honoured in the history of our Empire, and of testifying their loyal devotion to their liege lord and sovereign.

"Members of the House of Commons:

"The public accounts for the last fiscal year, and the estimates for the coming year, will be submitted to you at an early date.

PAYER AND DETERMINATION

"Honorable members of the Senate:

"Members of the House of Commons:

"I know you will be diligent and resolute in the country's service. Through the problems which confront you are, in extent and degree, far different from those which in the past you overcame, I know that those present once you will surround with the same spirit of faith and determination which has carried Canada to a forward place among the nations.

"May God give you strength to support, by your unremitting labors, this great movement towards happier days."

Inquiry Follows Deaths In Fire In Montreal

children alike were trapped by flames on the stairs leading to the street, the Demarteau home being situated on the second floor over a paint shop.

Terrified women and children, their clothing ablaze, plunged blindly through the searing heat and hurled themselves through the windows, jumping to the street below. Many were cut by shattered window glass as they leaped, or injured when they landed on the icy sidewalk.

City firemen played a heroic role, grimly battling through the blistering heat to rescue many victims. Firemen groping through the thick smoke, found the bodies of Maurice Demarteau, Thereese Demarteau and Gerard Demarteau where the children had huddled together in terror under a bed. All three were dead. Nearby was the body of Madeleine Lamoureux, neighbor and playmate of the Demarteau children.

FIREMAN'S BRAVE ACT

Fireman Arthur Gagnon saw Therese Mamoux, twenty-one, screaming for help at a second story window. He shouted for a ladder. Two rungs broke beneath his feet as he climbed. He found the girl trapped with her shirt caught on something. A blow of his fist smashed the window.

Flames seared the other hand holding to the ladder as he wrenched the girl's dress free and swung her to his shoulder with a hand cut to the bone by the window glass. Descending the ladder with Miss Mamoux, he slipped when he reached the broken rungs, and slid the rest of the way to the ground clinging to the sides of the ladder with his injured hands. He was among those taken to the hospital with Miss Mamoux, who is in a serious condition due to burns.

Police and firemen commandeered taxis and police cars and rushed the injured to the hospital.

LOSS IS $10,000

With the dead laid out on the snow covered street awaiting the morgue wagon and the injured being treated at the hospital, firemen turned their attention to the task of subduing the fire. The house was gutted and the damage was estimated at about $10,000.

Sobbing, fear-stricken parents of children from the neighborhood who had not come home yet besieged firemen with plans that they search for possible additional victims. Firemen dug in the smouldering ruins but found no more victims, except for a bull terrier pup and two stricken canaries, pets of the family.

Four Provinces Lose Timber Dues Appeal

personal obligation to refund a corresponding amount if or when an entrant secured his first patent.

OTHER READJUSTMENTS

The judgment said it might seem at first sight unfair that a province should refund amounts which the Dominion had received. It should be remembered, it added, that this was only one of the terms in a complicated agreement containing other financial readjustments. It was clear the agreement in itself in no way bound the tenant. He was not a party to it and so far his rights had not in any way been affected.

British Columbia becomes immediately liable for about $1,000, and an undetermined amount in the future, as a result of the Privy Council's decision in London that the western provinces must pay refunds of timber dues to settlers in lands turned back to them by the Dominion government.

Fifteen claims, aggregating just over $1,000, are now on file at the Department of Lands, it was explained. Settlement of these was held up during the litigation.

How many others there may be, it was not possible to estimate here to-day. The province has been unable to secure a statement from Ottawa as to the outstanding claims, but will no doubt press for this information now the case has been decided.

AGREEMENT OF 1930

The history of the case goes back to 1930, when the Dominion returned to British Columbia the railway belt lands and the Peace River Block.

In the agreement for return of the lands it was stipulated the Dominion should retain all moneys paid up to that time and the province would collect future charges.

Moreover the question of timber dues was regarded by the province under a different heading. These dues were imposed by the Dominion on settlers to prevent exploitation of timber by persons who did not intend to remain. They were paid by the settlers on the understanding that when they proved their property and acquired title the money would be returned. For this reason the province claimed they were trust funds and did not come under the general financial arrangement.

British Columbia joined with the other western provinces in arguing the case before the courts.

FIRE AT NANAIMO

Nanaimo, Jan. 17.—The home of William J. Hacker, Five Acres, was completely destroyed this morning. Mr. Hacker and his daughter escaped in night attire from the burning building. A few articles of furniture were saved. The house is partly covered by insurance.

Calgary, Jan. 17. — Norman F. Priestley, vice-president of the United Farmers of Alberta, was re-elected by acclamation to his fifth consecutive term at the annual convention here yesterday.

FACTORY GIRLS TELL OF PAY

For Second Day Federal Board Hears of Conditions in Toronto Plant

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Jan. 17.—Women operators in a Toronto women's garment factory of the T. Eaton Co. Ltd. became "nervous wrecks" in 1933 from the driving and the low piece-work rates, the Royal Commission on Men Buying was told to-day by Kate Nolan, a former employee.

"It almost drove me insane," Miss Nolan said. She claimed girls, including herself, had become hysterical at their machines from the constant campaign to "hurry up, speed up" the work. Conditions in the factory were better in 1930 and 1929 when she first went there, Miss Nolan said. After the first of 1934, conditions again improved and the driving eased off.

For the second day in a row the commission listened to former employees of the Eaton factory, known as P-3 and mentioned many times earlier in the Eaton evidence.

Miss Nolan said when she first went there the piecework rate on a dress was $2.00 a dozen.

In 1933, the rate for a different style, of cheaper material, but requiring just as much work, was $1.75 a dozen. The price for two-inch hems dropped from 35 to 10 cents a dozen.

MINIMUM WAGE

This drop in the piecework rate, Miss Nolan said, forced the girls to speed up their work in futile efforts to earn the $12.50 weekly set by law as the minimum wage in Toronto. "We were told to hurry up, speed up. We were told, 'We are not going to keep anybody here who cannot make the $12.50'."

Miss Nolan told R. L. Bellock she seldom had earned the legal minimum at that time, but she retained her job.

"Nothing ever happened?"

"No."

"I used to go home crying and hysterical," Miss Nolan declared, "crying at the uniformes of it all—paying me 99 a week when I was worth three times that much."

The commission adjourned until to-morrow morning.

ERROR WAS MADE

Ottawa, Jan. 17 (Canadian Press).—In a schedule of the relation of goodwill to shareholders' investment in mill-controlled bakeries included in a Canadian Press report from Ottawa January 8, the names of Dempster's Staff-of-Life Ltd. and Geo. Weston Bread and Cakes Ltd. were erroneously mentioned.

Neither of these companies is a mill-controlled company. In fact a representative of Dempster's Staff-of-Life Ltd. testified some months ago before the Royal Commission on Men Buying at Ottawa and appeared there as a representative of the independent bakeries.

The Canadian Press regrets its error and apologizes for any inconvenience it may have caused Dempster's Staff-of-Life Ltd. or George Weston Bread and Cakes Ltd.

TRIALS FOLLOW PRISON BREAK

While San Quentin officials began their investigations a posse of San Francisco police trapped Clyde Stevens, paroled convict and San Francisco bank robber, named by the escaping convicts as the one who supplied the pistols used in the break. Captured with Stevens on unfrequented Sherman Island, fifty miles from San Quentin, were four companions—Albert Kessel, Stuart Lowe, his wife, Babe Lowe, and Eugene Martini.

FAILED IN DASH

San Francisco, Jan. 17—Clyde Stevens, alleged plotter of yesterday's San Quentin prison break, broke away from his captors at Antioch to-day with his hands manacled and made a desperate dash up the main street. A rain of bullets followed and he was captured, unwounded.

Captain of Detectives Charles Dullea of San Francisco said the escape attempt was made as Stevens was being taken from a speedboat in which he had been brought to Antioch from Sherman Island.

BETWEEN TWO FIRES

The police party then left with Stevens for San Francisco.

The reason Stevens halted, officers said, was that he found himself facing the Antioch city hall, from which other officers were pouring in response to Dullea's gunfire.

MAN ARRESTED AS KIDNAPPER

U.S. Attorney-General Announces A. Barker Held; Brother and Mother Slain

Associated Press

Washington, Jan. 17. — Arrest of Arthur (Doc) Barker, Bremer kidnap suspect, on January 8, was announced to-day by Attorney-General Homer Cummings.

The Attorney-General's announcement came after J. Edgar Hoover, director of the division of investigation, had declared the backbone of the Barker-Karpis gang "had been broken."

Fred Barker and Kate (Ma) Barker, brother and mother of Arthur, were killing by Federal agents yesterday at Oklawaha, Fla.

Mr. Cummings said Arthur Barker had been captured at about the same time that federal agents shot and killed Russell Gibson, a minor member of the mob, in Chicago.

Barker along with other members of the group was indicted by the federal district court at St. Paul, Minn., on May 4 of last year for the abduction of Edward Bremer, who was kidnapped a year ago. The St. Paul banker paid a $100,000 ransom.

Hauptmann Shouts At Witness He Is Telling Falsehoods

Dr. Charles H. Mitchell, Mercer County physician, who performed an autopsy on the body of the baby, testified its skull was fractured while it was alive and that death was either instantaneous or within a few minutes.

START OF SESSION

As the hour of the start of to-day's session approached the snow and sleet which sifted down on Flemington failed to reduce the size of the crowd which filled the courtroom.

Hauptmann looked grave and pale. The slight smile he usually had worn was absent.

Edward J. Reilly, chief defense counsel, said he had not changed his plans and would not challenge the identification of the body of the Lindbergh baby.

Justice Thomas W. Trenchard was later than usual to-day.

A dozen executives and employees of the J. P. Morgan banking firm were assigned seats near the front of the courtroom. They were to testify to the preparation of the ransom money after evidence of the finding of the body of the baby had been introduced.

NEGRO TESTIFIES

William J. Allen, negro laborer, who found the body in a shallow grave near the Mount Rose road seventy-two days after the kidnapping, was called to the stand.

The humble, bashful negro was directed immediately to tell of finding of the body on May 12.

Q.—Were you on the Mt. Rose Road on May 12?

A.—Yes.

Q.—Who was with you?

A.—Orville Wilson.

With Assistant Attorney Robert Peacock examining him, Allen then related how he had gone into the woods.

Q.—How deep in the woods did you go?

A.—Thirty yards.

Q.—What did you see?

A.—I saw a skeleton on the ground. I looked at it and said: "Gee, that looks like a human being." I saw a foot. I called Wilson. I told him not to touch it and we went on.

Allen told how he had hurried to Hopewell to notify authorities.

The state completed questioning of the negro in short order and C. Lloyd Fisher, defence counsel, immediately objected to introduction of a photograph of the body lying in the thicket.

NOT USED TO MAPS

Chief Defence Counsel Reilly, in cross-examination, asked him if he could designate on a map the Mount Rose Road near which the body was found. The laborer pored over the map exhibits for some minutes, then shook his head ruefully. He was not able to indicate the roads Reilly wanted.

Q. Can you stand on that road and see Col. Lindbergh's home off to the right?

A. Right straight ahead. Yes, sir.

Reilly then carefully led the witness through a faltering account of how the body looked when he found it.

Q. The body was lying on its face? Correct?

A. Yes. On its face.

Q. Did it indicate to you it (the grave) had been freshly dug?

A. No, sir.

NEAR HIGHWAY

Orville Wilson, a pink-cheeked man with thinning brown hair, was called to corroborate Allen's story.

In his first few questions, Counsel Peacock had the witness bring out that the spot where the body was found was only a short distance from a concrete highway which led to Hopewell.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, who had come into court during the previous testimony, listened gravely.

Q. There wasn't any path leading to the spot then?

A. No. I don't recollect any path. There was dead grass. There was brush—low, squatty brush.

Q. Mr. Allen spoke of the body as a skeleton. Is that the way you found it?

A. Well, I suppose the foot and bones were skeleton. He probably noticed them.

Q. The foot—?

A. The foot lay a little way from the body.

Q. Away from the rest of it?

A. Yes, a little distance.

Wilson said Allen had disappeared only "a few seconds" before he called to tell of his gruesome find.

Fisher asked if the Hopewell orphanage was more than half a mile from the spot.

Wilson replied, "Probably not; I don't really know. I've only been there once in my life."

POLICEMAN TESTIFIES

Sergt. Andrew Zapolsky of the state police was then called. He was one of the three officers who went to the spot where the body was discovered.

He told how he had gone to the scene with Hopewell police.

A.—Turned the body over. It had been lying face downward—on its face.

Sergt. Zapolsky told of comparing the features of the body, the curls about the head with a photograph of the Lindbergh baby he carried.

Fisher took up the cross-examination, bringing out from the bespectacled, round-faced officer, that he was the third man to see the body.

Fisher again attacked the authenticity of the photograph of the body. He pointed out Zapolsky had turned the body over and, consequently, the officer could not describe definitely what was the condition before he moved it. The photograph was taken before the body was moved.

Fisher had the witness carefully describe the condition of the body.

NO HAMMER FOUND

Fisher, shooting his questions quickly at the officer, brought out Sergt. Zapolsky had found no chisel or lock hammer near the body, nor made any analysis of the dirt.

Sergt. Zapolsky was asked if he could identify the face from the picture of a living child.

"Yes, the features were intact."

Fisher then brought out again a Catholic orphanage was about three-quarters of a mile away.

The object of such cross-examination seemed to mystify court spectators, who took it to mean the defense might be planning to attack the identification of the baby's body. The defense lawyer had previously said they would not attack the identification.

POLICE INSPECTOR HEARD

Sergt. Zapolsky was excused and Inspector Harry Walsh of the Jersey City police took up the story and identified the discovered little garments, and related how he had taken them back to the Lindbergh estate.

Fisher took Walsh for cross-examination. He had him describe the dimensions of the shallow grave.

Q. There is a possibility, isn't there, that the child may have been left on the surface, and nature worked it down to where it was?

A. It is entirely possible.

The persistent young defense attorney asked if Walsh had found a newspaper, dated March 1, 1932, a tack hammer or a broken shovel near the grave.

Attorney-General D. T. Wilentz objected to the "inference," but Walsh's negative answer was allowed to stand.

Walsh said he had found a burlap bag at the site.

New U.S. Social Security Plans

Roosevelt's Unemployment Insurance and Old Age Pay Schemes Before Congress

Washington, Jan. 17.—Staking his long-heralded attack on the problems of "social security," the Roosevelt administration laid before the United States Congress to-day a five-point programme designed as protection against what it terms the "hazards" of modern existence.

Topped by a special message from President Roosevelt, the programme was unveiled in a 60,000-word report by the President's cabinet committee on security and specifically in a bill drafted by Senator Robert F. Wagner, New York Democrat.

In brief the Wagner bill, following closely the recommendations of the cabinet committee headed by Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, provides:

(1) Compulsory unemployment insurance to be paid for by employers through a payroll tax. This would start at 1 per cent next January 1 and would be increased to 3 per cent January 1, 1938. However, if business picked up fast the 3 per cent level would be reached sooner.

(2) Compulsory insurance against poverty-stricken old age, for wage earners and small salaried workers, to be paid for by employers and employees on a 50-50 basis.

(3) Old age pensions for the needy who could not be covered by the compulsory insurance, to be paid for by the federal and state governments.

ANNUITY PLAN

(4) A voluntary federal annuity system for those who would not be included in the compulsory plan and who could afford to save for their old age out of incomes larger than those to be affected by the compulsory plan.

(5) Large federal grants to states for aid to needy and ill mothers and children; extension of the public health service.

BIG FUND NEEDED

The Wagner Bill carries appropriations totaling nearly $100,000,000 to finance the programme during the fiscal year starting next July 1. Authorizations for spending more than $200,000,000 each year thereafter also are included.

To finance unemployment insurance, every employer having four or more persons on his payroll would be subject to the tax. The employer would receive up to 90 per cent credit on the tax for contributions made by him to state unemployment insurance funds.

U.S. CUTS BEER DUTY IN HALF

Washington, Jan. 17—A 50 per cent reduction in the import duty on beer was decreed to-day by President Roosevelt.

Plant Stones To Grow Palms

Save a few stones from the basin of dates and plant them in a well-drained pot, putting a good layer of compost siftings over the drainage crocks. Use quite sandy soil, filling the pot to within one inch of the rim.

Space out the stones and cover them with half an inch of soil. Make the surface firm, water well and stand the pot in a room or in a corner of the greenhouse.

Do not expect the young shoots to appear before two or three months or even more have elapsed. Some of most are sure to germinate and then later the palm seedlings, when of a leathery or pavement-like texture and four or five inches high, will pot separately and grown on in the home or greenhouse.

"THE HEARSE IS AT THE DOOR"

PEOPLE WOULD BE HARD-HEARTED indeed if they did not sympathize with old-time Conservatives in the dilemma in which Premier Bennett has placed them by his latest jumping-jack performances. We quite understand that they are at their wits' end to know what to do because they do not know what the Prime Minister is going to say next. After six broadsides over the air they have not had a chance to get their breath. They have watched him, as one commentator observes, "cascade from the heights of Toryism to the depths of Radicalism—all without consulting members of his own party, apparently."

At least one stalwart Conservative newspaper, however, The Montreal Gazette, has made up its mind that it will have none of the reform which Mr. Bennett proposes. It says in part: "It most certainly can not be represented as the policy of the Conservative party, since the party has been given no opportunity of saying whether or not it is disposed to fly the flag of Socialism side by side with the historic banner under which Conservatism heretofore has always made its appeal to responsible, sober-minded Canadians. And up to now the people of Canada, in times of stress and disturbance, have always turned to the Conservative party in the assurance that their national affairs would be managed upon safe, sound and well-established lines, with a maximum of benefit to the community and a maximum of freedom to the individual. All that, if Mr. Bennett has his way, is past and over and Conservatism stands for something diametrically opposite to all that it has ever stood for in the past. And be it noted that the Prime Minister puts forward his new policy not as representing the considered judgment of his party, which would be impossible, but as something of his own: it might, indeed, be called the policy of the first person singular."

"Very remarkable" is the term The Gazette applies to Mr. Bennett's statement that though the economic system had broken down the government was not able to get to work reforming it "until the fury of the storm had abated." The Montreal daily expands itself on this point as follows: "It is likely to prompt a great many people to ask why, if the system were broken down, it could still be strong enough to get the country through the worst stages of the depression, and why, if it could withstand that supreme test, there is any present necessity for scrapping it. And there will come back to the minds of many listeners the Prime Minister's early assurances that NRA methods would not be tried in Canada, that a nation of ten and a half millions could not afford to make experiments, and that the Conservative government would maintain its stand against Socialism. In the late autumn of 1932, when, to use Mr. Bennett's own phrase, 'the ship was pounding in mountainous seas,' the public mind was turned against radicalism and radicals. They were being told that what these people would substitute for the Conservative principle of government is a Soviet administration.' And Mr. Bennett also said: 'If people wish to meet at the efforts of this government to protect property, they may if they like, but this government will stand firmly by that principle.' And, curiously enough, in those dark and stormy days when it was so necessary to rely upon the old system, Canada, according to the Prime Minister, was emerging from the world crisis more successfully than any other nation. His note was one of optimism, of courage and of confidence—at that time."

The Gazette puts still more sting in its comments when it asks the following questions:

> When was it, then, that the government, faced with the tragedies of the depression, unemployment, the suffering of the poor, the perils which assailed business, etc., found it so hard to resist the temptation to reform the system out of hand? "I can assure you," says Mr. Bennett now, "that it was not easy to say no. I had to harden my heart. I did so, but with more sorrow and sadness than I have ever known in my life before." To whom was it necessary to say no? And is Mr. Bennett endeavoring to humbug himself or the people of Canada?

Our Tory Montreal contemporary then recalls the speech which the Prime Minister delivered in Winnipeg in October, 1933, in which he declared that any Canadian government would be recreant to its duty if it launched out on a policy similar to that laid down by the NRA programme in the United States. Such a course, he said, would be folly. The Gazette also reminds the Prime Minister that he said in Montreal in August, 1933, that as Canada was not a self-contained country it could not make experiments. "Now," the Montreal paper says, "he proposes to borrow from the NRA, or perhaps go one better."

Incidentally, in western Canadian circles, in such cities as Winnipeg, for example, it is being suggested that the number of Conservative members sitting in the House of Commons to-day who will feel like seeking the nomination for the next general election will not be many more than a corporal's guard. They are so confident of the government's defeat that they are in no mood to risk their money by putting up deposits. One Winnipeg Conservative said the other day: "The hearse is at the door, the people are waiting to see it bear away the last vestige of the Bennett government."

A NEIGHBORLY TRIBUTE

WRITING IN THE BALTIMORE SUN last week, Mr. John O'Ren paid a compliment to The Times of London when it celebrated its 150th anniversary. "And for this we must all, even in America," he says, "be thankful." Here is part of the lengthy article Mr. O'Ren has written:

> There are British newspapers whose position I envy—The Manchester Guardian, for example; there are those in which the writing is more sparkling with strong feeling—that that rattling good paper, The Morning Post, for instance.
> But as England, a United Kingdom, a British Empire—I am about I must go further, indeed, and say, a world—without The Times would be not only immeasurably less a power, duller world by far. The Times may be, and oh, it is, an obstinate stuffy; there are days when its effort to weigh all points and judge with the grand deliberate of a retired Jove irritates me to the exploding point; and whole editorials on and when the other magazine and Latin fortnightly of its columns turn me into a shouting admirer of the dipped, hard-bitten, kick-in-the-teeth school of writing. But there are, after all, by the way: inevitably one accepts The Times as one does current events; and the intractable facts meet as stubborn and indestructible a force as themselves in the solid public school style that turns them regularly into An Orderly and Comprehensive View of Our Own Day.

Only recently, it will be recalled, the 150th anniversary of the death of Dr. Johnson was recorded editorially in The Times which gravely remarked, says The Baltimore Sun contributor, in part, as follows:

> "Without his weakness the man would have been too far above us to be lovable. Johnson was (it is an old view) altogether English, the quintessence of England, flower and bark of it together. And so indeed is The Times. The boom of the doctor's voice, the bulk of him, the ranging curiosity of his deeply conservative mind, his devotion to his native land, his learning, the authority of his pronouncements, the deference shown him—are not these qualities one expects, finds also in the long, crowded columns of The Times?
>
> "When death was approaching 'no man could appear more collected, more devout, less terrified.' In the welter of the present The Times looks up the scene as Dr. Johnson did upon his end: 'This tremendous fellow who, besides being a great classic author—comes down to us as the greatest personality, the most absolute man that England has ever produced. Johnson was at the heart of things, known to all; not hidden nor overwhelmed in the crowd and the rush of life but overtopping it and dominating it'."

U.S. AND THE WORLD COURT

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT HAS URGED the United States Senate to put his country into the World Court to make "international justice practicable and serviceable." He does not consider that the sovereignty of the United States would in any way be diminished or jeopardized by acceding to his request. "At this period in international relationships, when every act is of moment to the future of world peace," he said, "the United States has an opportunity once more to throw its weight into the scales in favor of peace."

This plea which the President has sent to the Senate is typical of the Roosevelt outlook. It discloses his breadth of mind, his liberalism of thought, and the other members of the World Court will watch with more than passing interest the action of the Senate. It will be fought, of course, as it has been fought before. Senator Johnson and Senator Borah seem to regard the entry of the United States into this international tribunal as something akin to jumping into a volcano.

Senator Johnson, for example, puts it this way: "To say that our entry into this court will bring peace to the world is to me the most silly thing ever advanced by sensible human beings. There is no peace. War is in the air everywhere. Why do we enter it? Not for America, not for our beloved republic. We enter it to meddle and muddle under a hysterical internationalism in those controversies that Europe has and that Europe will never get rid of."

Nobody will deny that Europe has had the unhappy knack for centuries of getting itself thoroughly messed up. But when Senator Johnson implies that the United States would gain nothing by becoming a member of the World Court he reveals a narrow conception of the enormous influence 130,000,000 people could wield for peace.

Nor must it be forgotten that it was a distinguished American citizen, Mr. Elihu Root, who accepted an invitation from the League of Nations to become a member of the Advisory Committee of Jurists which met at The Hague in 1920 for the purpose of devising a plan for a Permanent Court of International Justice. His presence enabled the committee to frame a plan acceptable to all by which the judges were to be elected. Indeed, Mr. Root was the author of a proposal for the establishment of such a court when he was a delegate to the Hague Conference in 1907. Thus, thirteen years later, this distinguished United States jurist's original proposition saw its fruition.

In other words, before the World Court was established, and since, the United States, through Mr. Root's connection with it, and also by reason of the fact that at all the sessions of the existing body there always has been present an American unofficial "observer," Mr. Roosevelt's natural desire to see his country have a definite association with it is easily understood.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

ONE UP FOR GENEVA
The Washington Post

Critics of the League of Nations will find it very hard to minimize the value of its latest constructive achievement. The current resolution of the Council, bringing an end to the dangerous crisis between Jugoslavia and Hungary, is so clearly an advance on the method—or lack of method—of twenty years ago, that the most confirmed cynic cannot fail to be impressed. The peace-preservation machinery of the League is far from perfect. Much harm has been done by trying to pretend that it is more competent than is the case. But that it represents a very real step forward in the relations of organized peoples with one another is no longer subject to question.

BENNETT, MAN OF ACTION
L'Action Catholique, Quebec

Mr. Bennett is, we believe, a man of will power, of discipline, of action, of organization and of justice. In fact, we have at head of the state a veritable man of policy, whose faults can be seen with the naked eye. In the Prime Minister's statement will no doubt be seen an impartial and dispassionate judgment, if not a complete and absolutely exact one. Mr. Bennett as a champion of social reform is something unexpected. Frankly, Mr. Bennett should give guarantees of his new state of mind if he wishes to be taken seriously. For example, he should close to the trusts and their men the two doors to the Senate at present open, and also that of the Bank of Canada. He should refuse to the reorganized Beauharnois (i.e., Montreal Light, Heat and Power) the privileges they are asking for. He should take away from the financial state the control levers of the commercial machine and put them in the hands of real manufacturers and merchants. The Companies Act should be revised on a basis of honesty. Stock watering should be severely punished.

Loose Ends

The Legislature may end the most solemn rites of our local civilization — we prepare to point to Portland — we overlook an drivers that — and a few significant phrases are translated.

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

SAD RITES

THE LEGISLATURE of British Columbia, according to the public prints, is about to debate the question of allowing the sale of wine and beer by the glass with meals in eating places. This plan would be likely to lead to grave abuses, yet nothing could be more appalling than our present system of dispensing beer in places other than Victoria. Here we have the sense not to open beer parlors and most people are satisfied, particularly so those who desire the convivial association of a glass or two, can always get it at certain resorts well known to everyone.

But in other places, like Vancouver, the dispensing of beer by the glass has become one of the most revolting and melancholy features of our civilization. The average British Columbia beer parlor seems designed, with infinite care and cunning, to make beer drinking the saddest experience of your life, like the last rites over an old friend. No music is allowed, no food, no light, nothing but the smell of stale beer and the haggard faces of men who are here, from a stern sense of duty, to swell the revenues of the government.

The average British Columbia beer parlor seems to be designed by an undertaker, decorated by a grave digger and managed by a hangman. It affects the customer in one of two ways. Either it drives him home to his wife and family, cold sober and a confirmed prohibitionist and probably a Communist as well; or it impels him to drink himself into immortality to forget the chill horror of it.

If the present style of beer parlor is designed to discourage the sale of beer it is a masterpiece of devilish skill on the part of the prohibitionists. If it is designed to encourage the sale of beer rather than more dangerous liquors, it is hideous. It is evidently conceived on the theory that beer drinking is a deadly sin, but that the carnal appetites of men must be satisfied somehow and that, therefore, they should be satisfied in secret in a dark corner, where the innocent public may not be revolted by such a degrading spectacle.

It is made, apparently, with the deliberate purpose of converting conviviality into a deadly vice and, I think, with considerable success. But the fact remains that this system must discourage the drinking of beer and, in the interests of temperance, the Legislature would probably be unwise to change it. There is always the danger that people might enjoy themselves while getting drunk. The present excellent law assures that they will get drunk without enjoyment and this makes them more holy. It also makes them go home and beat their wives and vote against the government and become dangerous Reds.

QUAINT PEOPLE

THE OFFICIAL plan to advertise the charms of Victoria to the neighboring United States by means of a cavalcade of Victorian cyclists, pedaling gaily down the Pacific Highway, is just another evidence of that vivid Victorian imagination which outsiders consider so quaint. It is probable, of course, that most of the patriots who carry Victoria's banner south on bicycles will be run over by the automobiles which travel about sixty miles an hour and at the rate of one a minute on the Pacific Highway. But that won't deter the project, I feel sure. If only one cyclist gets through to Portland and drops dead at the gates of the city, at least his precious message will have been delivered and he can die content.

The idea of this great expedition on bicycles, I suppose, is to give the Pacific Coast at large a proper appreciation of Victoria's peculiar charm, of its old-fashioned quaintness. When the Pacific Coast beholds Victoria's ambassadors coming not in vulgar automobiles, but pedaling laboriously on bicycles, it will immediately perceive that Victoria is different from other places. It will know that we have not been overcome by the vicious machine civilization of America, that we are still pure and undefiled.

But if we are determined to demonstrate thus forcibly that we are not vulgarly modern, that we still belong to the Victorian age in spirit as well as name, why stop at bicycles? Why not be really historical and go back beyond the age of bicycles? Why not walk to Portland? That would give the Pacific Coast a picture of Victoria utterly free of machinery of any kind.

It would be better still, perhaps, if our ambassadors went back still further and traveled in the disguise of Indian aborigines of this country in the skins of wild animals. That would convey still better the primitive character of our island. Still better, let them go back beyond the Stone Age, and go as nudists, then they could make a real impression.

OBVIOUS FACT

AFTER having bicycled to Portland, these enterprising gentlemen might come back and devote their minds to this simple and obvious fact—the tourist business on Vancouver Island will never reach any really large proportions so long as the average motorist cannot and will not pay the present cost of transporting his car here. Cut that cost in half and your traffic will double at least, or better, without any pedaling to Portland. What should be remembered is that most tourists nowadays don't possess our elevated outlook on life. They don't ride bicycles. They come in cars and they won't pay the present costly rate for bringing them from the mainland.

TRANSLATION

NOW THAT Canada is rushing toward a general election and Heaven knows what else, strange tongues are heard in the land. Aspiring statesmen are speaking mysteriously in parables which baffle and confound the ordinary man. Since they never say what they mean, I have prepared this brief glossary of common political phrases which you may find useful in the days ahead:

"Of course, I don't want to run for Parliament, but I'm always in the hands of my party."

This means: "I'm hot after the party nomination."

"I never ask anyone to vote for me."

This means: "I'm asking you to vote for me."

"I really haven't considered running at all."

This means: "I'm doing everything I can to get nominated, but I'm not sure yet whether anyone will nominate me."

"Of course, I could have been nominated, but I wouldn't stand for it because I can't agree with Mackenzie King's policy."

This means: "I couldn't get anyone to nominate me."

"Ah, all the parties and politicians are the same, so what's the use?"

This means: "I don't know anything about public affairs. I never bother to read about them. I just sit back and complain. I find that the most comfortable way."

"Premier Bennett's policy is just what I've been advocating for years."

This means: "I never believed any of this Planned Economy stuff and interference with business, but if the Party has to preach it to get elected—well, I'm sticking to the Party."

"I believe in a reasonable measure of reform, but no radicalism."

This means: "I'm against doing anything about it."

"High interest rates are responsible for our troubles. Until the moneylenders have been scourged out of the temple we shall have no prosperity."

This means: "I gambled all my savings in real estate and mining stock and lost it. The fellows who put theirs into government bonds should lose theirs, too. They were poor sports anyway."

THE ONE BRAVE MINUTE

I saw him brave for just a minute,
And that is all I have.
Except that deed had something glorious
In it
Despite what else he'd do.

What if he'd faltered in the past now and then
And men might fall again?
I saw him in that fleeting minute golden
Stand with the best of them.

But since I have not all that was behind him,
Nor all that is to be,
I'm not going to judge him when I chanced to find him
He seemed a man to me.

So strange is life! So much is woven in it
Which time we never see.
That to be brave for just one fleeting minute

THE C.C.F.

To the Editor:—"Imprimatur" will find my quotation in Marx's last editorial in The New Rhenish Gazette (May 19, 1849) which caused the Prussian Government to suppress the paper and his second retirement to Paris from whence he was again driven by the police and took up residence in London for the rest of his life. Ten months later, in March, 1850, he emphatically endorsed this blood-thirsty creed: "The leaders of the proletariat must see to it that the revolutionary excitement shall not subside immediately after the victory is won. On the contrary this excitement must be kept up as long as possible. For from stamping so-called excesses, examples of popular vengeance upon hated individuals and public institutions with which bitter memories are associated, one must not only tolerate these examples, but lead and constitute them." Your encyclopedic correspondent's ignorance of the article I cited, which altered the whole future course of Marx's life, shows how little the ordinary Communist knows Marx, and I intend to demonstrate in the pamphlet I contemplate writing that he is also blatantly ignorant of the innumerable fallacies in the whole chain of the reasoning of his idol.

Royal Bank of Canada Presents Strong Statement

Sydney G. Dobson, General Manager, Reviews Financial Statements—Reports $50,000,000 Increase in Deposits.

At the Sixty-sixth Annual Meeting of The Royal Bank of Canada, held in Montreal, Morris W. Wilson, President and Managing Director, paid tribute to the distinguished service rendered to the bank by Sir Herbert Holt, who had presided at successive Annual Meetings for over a quarter of a century, and whose outstanding ability and prestige have been important factors in the sound and consistent growth of the bank during his regime.

In commenting on the strong Statement presented to the meeting, Mr. Wilson said that it reflected a year of operations under distinctly improved conditions, both at home and abroad.

Referring to the recent revision of the Bank Act and the Act incorporating the Bank of Canada, he stated that at the public hearings preceding these enactments, the bankers were able to justify their administration. He warned that the curtailment of earning power resulting from restrictions upon interest rates chargeable by banks and the withdrawal of note-issuing privileges will inevitably reduce the ability of banks to maintain unproductive branches in small communities. Banking profits have never been excessive, and if an efficient banking system is to be maintained, there is a point beyond which enforced economies to meet falling revenues on one hand, and increased taxation on the other, cannot safely be carried.

Referring to taxation, Mr. Wilson said:

"For every dollar paid in dividends last year we paid 67 cents to the Canadian tax-gatherer. This does not take into account the income tax paid by our shareholders themselves on dividends received from the Bank. Surely these figures require no comment."

In discussing the improved conditions in Canada, Mr. Wilson pointed out that during the past year manufacturing and employment have approximated the levels of 1930; iron and steel production, the output of automobiles, textiles and electrical energy had increased and the value of exports, notably lumber and minerals, had advanced substantially. The wheat crop was no larger, but fortunately, higher prices prevailed. The value of field crops had increased over $100,000,000 and the enhanced purchasing power of the farmers had stimulated trade throughout the country. There has been increased demand for Canadian mineral products abroad and it is anticipated that the output of Canadian gold mines will exceed $100,000,000, as compared with $93,000,000 in 1933. The building boom in Great Britain created unprecedented demand for Canadian lumber and a record volume of shipments has been made during the past year. He mentioned the importance of the tourist trade to Canada, which had amounted to over $200,000,000 a year and for several years brought more money into Canada than our wheat exports.

Newsprint

"Demand from the United States for newsprint has been strong, with the result that the output of the Canadian mills in 1934 was more than 35 per cent higher than in the previous year. In fact, it was within 5 per cent of the peak year of 1929. Prices, however, were even lower than in 1933 and, despite the most rigid economies, operations have continued on an unprofitable basis.

The Railway Situation

"The railway situation continues to be the most important economic problem in Canada. Obviously, the Canadian people cannot stand indefinitely a weekly drain of over $1,500,000 for railway deficits, and the time is rapidly approaching when more drastic and effective action will have to be taken if we are to maintain national credit and solvency."

Referring to world affairs, the President said that in spite of tense political situations during the past year, business has continued to improve. Production in Great Britain and several other countries was greater than in 1929.

"It is only in the countries of the gold bloc where business has become materially worse during the year. World trade, however, must be released from the multitude of new restrictions which were among the worst products of the depression, if it is to regain healthy vigor. Excessive economic nationalism has proved a dangerous boomerang, striking down home industries as well as those of foreign countries. I believe that the pendulum of opinion has begun to swing toward better economic relationships between countries, and I look upon this new attitude as a happy augury of further favorable developments during the coming year.

The Capitalistic System

"It is not surprising that new social experiments should have been undertaken in many countries in the hope of mitigating the suffering incident to violent booms and depressions. Undoubtedly, the war placed a great strain upon the capitalistic system. That system has been the result of a process of evolution and as such has been subject to modifications from time to time to meet changing conditions. Further modifications and changes may be a necessity if we are to be rid of the evils of major depressions. The difficulties in the distant past were the outcome of shortages. At the present moment the major difficulties have to do with the distribution of an increasing surplus which tends to cloud purchasing power. Increasing attention must be given to measures which will provide for a freer and more even flow in the exchange of goods and services. In so far as the 'New Deal' in the United States, or economic experiments in other parts of the world, may provide a workable answer to this problem, we should not hesitate to profit by that solution. Social and economic experiments which fail, however, are usually costly and it is prudent and wise to "make haste slowly" in changing fundamental principles of the existing system.

The Outlook

"For more than a year and one-half there has been a distinct upward trend in business activity; improvement has been general in practically all branches of agriculture, industry, mining and trade. At the beginning of the new year conditions, both at home and abroad, favor a continuation of this upward trend. It is true that in Canada there remain a number of difficult problems for which practical solutions are necessary, but I believe that the Canadian people have the courage and ability to solve such problems in a rational manner. It is upon the basis of past performance that I look forward to 1935 with renewed confidence."

GENERAL MANAGER'S ADDRESS

In his remarks, Mr. S. G. Dobson, newly appointed General Manager, referred to the very satisfactory nature of the Annual Report and Balance Sheet presented. He said in part: "After several years of declining figures, due to general conditions, I am glad to say the trend has not only been arrested, but under most headings has been reversed, in some instances to a substantial degree."

In reviewing the Financial Statement, he said: "Perhaps the most gratifying feature of the balance sheet is the increase of over $50,000,000 in total deposits by the public. The total is now $612,570,488. Canadian branches contributed $41,000,000 of this total increase, of which $11,000,000 is in the savings category. It is interesting to note that an increase in deposits was shown by every province in the Dominion.

"Current loans in Canada show an increase for the first time since 1929, and are up over $10,000,000. This is a significant change, reflecting, as do other items in the Balance Sheet, a heartening increase in Canadian business activities."

Mr. Dobson pointed out that all banks in Canada, because of their easy cash position, are looking for desirable loaning business, and the comparatively small increase under this heading reflects a lack of demand for loans, rather than a restriction of credit.

"Profits for the year were $4,800,217 but are not properly comparable with published profits for the previous year because heretofore they were reported after deducting Provincial taxes but before Federal taxes. For the sake of uniformity, and the fuller information of shareholders, both classes of taxes are now disclosed in the published report. Making allowance for the resulting increase under this heading, profits are lower by $268,448, leaving $1,506,804 to be carried forward in Profit and Loss Account, after the usual deductions for dividends, taxes, etc.

"In keeping with the downward trend in interest rates and the resulting difficulty in employing funds profitably, the banks and most other institutions accepting deposits reduced their rates in interest-bearing accounts ½ of 1 per cent from November 1, 1934. This has had a beneficial effect upon bond prices, and has helped to reduce the cost of Dominion and provincial financing."

Mr. Dobson made special reference to the satisfactory results achieved by the branches outside of Canada and the valuable assistance they have given to exporters in the development of their trade in the countries where the bank is represented. In conclusion, he said:

"On the whole, 1934 may be regarded as a year of substantial recovery for Canada. While we still have many problems to solve, we have, I believe, every justification for looking forward with confidence to a further improvement in conditions during 1935."

As chief usher Dr. Russell was again elected, with Mr. Clements as envelope clerk. The auditors are J. A. Armstrong and A. E. Morrison. Miss Beatrice Parfitt was named as agent for The West Baptist newspaper.

ANNUAL MEETING OF ESQUIMALT CHURCH

At the annual congregational meeting of the Esquimalt United Church excellent reports were presented by officers of the various organizations, showing splendid work done during the past year. Finances are in good shape, with each organization carrying over a credit balance into the new year. The presbytery's allocation for missions was met in full.

The church building has been greatly improved in appearance by a fresh coat of paint, paid for by the Ladies' Aid Society, and the mortgage indebtedness was reduced by $150.

Encouraging work was done by the Sunday school in charge of W. A. Danville, superintendent, and a splendid staff of helpers.

An interesting feature of the services of this church is the regular attendance of sailors and soldiers from the Esquimalt naval and military establishments.

The minister in charge, Rev. F. W. Anderson, M.A., presided over the meeting and refreshments were served at the close.

Shawnigan Public Library Affairs

Shawnigan Lake, Jan. 16.—The eleventh annual meeting of the Shawnigan Public Library Association was held in the library on Monday afternoon, R. J. Heald being chairman. The annual report submitted by Mrs. Mason Hurley, secretary, showed that the library was in a flourishing condition. The membership stood at 62, 2,840 persons visited the library during the year, and 4,261 books were issued. There were about 1,000 books on the permanent shelves, 400 books had been received from the Victoria Library on contract, 200 books loaned from the provincial library and in addition fifty books of latest fiction are being constantly renewed with a Victoria circulating library. The financial statement showed a substantial balance on hand and the building is the property of the association.

The election of five directors resulted in re-election of all, namely, Mrs. Mason Hurley, Mrs. A. I. Dyson, Mrs. H. Twist, Mr. O. Gibson and R. J. Heald.

It was decided to continue the contract with the Victoria Public Library and to subscribe to the National Geographic Magazine. An effort will also be made to develop a juvenile section.

A vote of thanks was given the directors.

Discussion took place relative to the proposed regional library service for the island north of Victoria, and the directors will investigate its feasibility. After the general meeting the directors met and elected R. J. Heald, chairman; Mrs. Mason Hurley, secretary; Mrs. A. I. Dyson, librarian; Mr. O. Gibson, treasurer, and Mrs. H. Twist and F. C. Mason-Hurley assistant librarians.

The monthly meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of the Malahat Canadian Legion was held in the S.L.A.A. Hall.

Committees for the year were named by the president as follows: Visiting committee, Mrs. Van Valkenburg and Mrs. A. Sutton; relief committee, Mrs. A. Price, Mrs. G. Duggan and Mrs. W. J. Maynard; ways and means committee, Mrs. G. Page, Mrs. A. I. Dyson, Mrs. A. Price, Mrs. J. C. Davidson and Mrs. W. J. Maynard; social convener, Mrs. F. L. Watson; correspondent, Mrs. J. S. Bell.

The monthly meeting of the Shawnigan Women's Institute was held in the S.L.A.A. Hall last Thursday. Mrs. A. I. Dyson was in the chair.

Committees were announced as follows: Community betterment, Mrs. R. P. Weber, and Mrs. W. Brocke; school, Mrs. F. M. Dale and Mrs. A. I. Dyson; entertainment, Mrs. A. Layton and Mrs. W. Brocke; legislation, Mrs. F. T. Elford; health and child welfare, Mrs. M. E. Kinloch, and Mrs. F. M. Gannon; home industries, Mrs. E. Kinloch.

Arrangements were made for an old-time dance in the S.L.A.A. Hall February 1. Mrs. M. E. Kinloch read an interesting article on Canadian industries.

YOUNG GIRL COMMENDED

Eight-year-old Doreen Trenfield, Gladstone Avenue, who displayed remarkable presence of mind in rescuing her six-year-old chum, Joan Rennie, from the icy waters of the Gorge old quarry on Sunday, was warmly commended for her feat by the Saanich School trustees yesterday evening.

In recognition of her action the trustees entered a letter forwarded to Doreen's parent school, where she is a pupil, to be publicly read at the school in front of the student body.

Doreen seven years after the incident, visits the quarry by dropping her in safety with a long pole.

INTRICATE COIFFURE MAKES COMEBACK

DEBUTANTE AT STYLE SHOW WEARS BUN

By ALECIA HART

New coiffures, like evening gowns, are even more intriguing at the back than they are around the face. At smart gatherings it is obvious indeed that most of the best-dressed women had had their hairdressers spend a good deal of time getting the right effect across the back of their heads.

Girls with long hair are going in for intricately arranged buns that are a far cry from the tightly knotted ones we used to see. At the Mount-Bilmore fashion show, one of the debutante models in a glamorous gown of white net had her long, golden blonde hair done up in a flat-shaped bun that completely covered the back of her head. Another, with long brown hair, had created braids which seem to be gaining in popularity again.

Bobbed heads have just as much—perhaps even more—opportunity to express individuality in hair styles. Pat Patterson, the screen star, apparently a little weary of plain rows of curls across the back of her head, has had a new coiffure created especially for her.

Miss Patterson's hair is parted in the middle, as are her thin, fringy bangs, and then is drawn softly backward behind both ears. There are two rows of curls low across the back, two curls placed about one inch above the top row and one more arranged above these. The general effect is that of a pyramid.

B.C. Fruit Crops Show Increase

Provincial Horticulturist's Report Notes Higher Production of Apples, Apricots and Grapes; Broom Corn Experiment

Seasonal conditions during 1934 were very satisfactory from the standpoint of fruit and vegetable growers due to the extremely mild winter a year ago, and the early spring, the latter resulting in spring crops being on the market from two to three weeks ahead of what they would be in a normal year, states W. H. Robertson, Provincial Horticulturist, in his annual report to Hon. E. C. MacDonald, Minister of Agriculture.

Although the late spring and early summer were dry, shortening the strawberry and loganberry crops in the coast districts, the lack of rainfall was particularly advantageous to the cherry districts of the Okanagan, which often suffer considerable loss of crop during the cherry picking season.

Apple production for the year 1934 is set in the report at 4,047,575 boxes, being a slight increase over 4,815,107 boxes for 1933. In apricots a very considerable increase is noted from 102,237 crates in 1933 to 352,530 for the past year.

GRAPES

Grape yield for the past year is estimated at between 450 and 500 tons from plantings in the Okanagan Valley and the Lower Mainland. The former cover approximately 175 acres and the latter slightly over 100 acres. Success so far obtained encourages the Provincial Horticulturist to state that there would seem to be future possibilities in grape production in certain sections of the province, from the standpoint of table use and for wineries.

Little attempt has been made to date to grow grapes in the Okanagan Valley without winter protection. Mr. Robertson states, and points out that in addition to yield, the question of hardiness will have to be considered. In this connection he mentions the Pearl of Csaba as having possibilities so far as hardiness is concerned. On one vine which has been growing without protection the fruit was ripe in July, the bunches being well filled with good stand, excellently flavored grapes.

Growers of cantaloupes in the Oliver-Osoyoos district have been systematizing their picking and packing for the last two years with the result that there is a demand for their product on the markets of British Columbia and the prairies, the report shows. In that district the cantaloupe acreage last year was approximately 182 acres. Although the quality was good the returns were reported as unsatisfactory.

A marked increase in the plantings of asparagus is shown in the report. The total acreage in 1933 was 304 acres, whereas in 1934 this had increased to 364 acres, the North Okanagan having 304 acres and the Lower Fraser Valley 160 acres.

Experiments in the growth of broom corn have shown the possibilities to be promising in the Kamloops district and may lead eventually to commercial production. These tests were carried out in 1934 on the farm of Mr. Stewart Wilson of North Kamloops; one-fifth of an acre being available for each of three varieties, "Illinois Favourite," "White Italian" and "Imperial Evergreen."

An estimate of the crop is about 800 pounds per acre of cleaned brush, but officials of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind have pointed out that the acreage could be increased considerably by planting earlier and by spacing the plants a little closer than was done this year. At the prices paid for broom corn in recent years the results obtained are considered by departmental officials to be encouraging.

SMALL FRUITS

A small-fruit survey carried out in co-operation with the Statistician of the Department of Agriculture, O. H. Stewart, shows 6,198 acres devoted to such plants, being little short of the figures for 1932 and 1933, which were 6,302 and 6,310 acres respectively; but the figures for 1934 are greatly in excess of those for 1930 and 1931, which were 4,812 and 4,969 acres respectively.

Nursery inspection was carried out last year, the Provincial Horticulturist states, throughout the province, and 109,[illegible] trees were inspected, from which 2,616 trees were condemned. This work is carried out annually, as a basis for issuance of licenses for sale of nursery stock.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

FOUNTAINS

Water is always beautiful:
Quiet streams and placid pool,
Rain falling,
Brook brawling,
Lake in the mountains, blue and cool

Rivulets with merry call,
Roaring, mist-wrestled waterfall,
Then with gay,
Dancing spray,
Fountains, loveliest of all.

Fountains of pearl-fringed expanse,
Through their lace like rainbows dance,
By their gleam
Lovers dream
In the gardens of romance.

MUTUAL LIFE HAS GOOD YEAR

Annual Report Shows Steady Increase in Assets During 1934

With the closing of the year 1934 the Mutual Life Assurance Company of Canada completed sixty-five years of operations, having commenced business in 1870. The company's sixty-fifth annual statement shows that its assets, which have been accumulated to discharge its insurance and annuity contracts, increased during the year 1934 by approximately $8,000,000 to $145,611,[illegible]702.01. The major portion of the increase in assets is required as an addition to actuarial reserves in order that these reserves, calculated in accordance with government requirements, will, with future premiums, discharge all obligations as they mature. The total of insurance contracts outstanding, excluding annuities, is $931,179,[illegible].

The Mutual Life's income for 1934 was over $27,000,000, and the outgo for death claims, endowment maturities and other policy obligations approximately $19,300,000. The rate of interest earned on invested assets was 4.89 per cent, and a substantial addition was made to surplus funds in view of the tendency to lower interest rates. Earnings for the year totaled $4,[illegible], the greater portion of which sum will be disbursed in 1935 as dividends to policyholders.

Altogether the statement is one indicative of steady growth and financial strength, which will be read with much satisfaction by the Mutual Life's thousands of policyholders.

Council Taboos Birth Control Discussions

Sterilization Also Forbidden Subject Under Non-sectarian Policy, National Council Rules, Reports Mrs. Rex Eaton

"The subject of birth control and sterilization has never been passed upon by the National Council of Women, but the time has come when it is necessary to make our non-sectarian and non-political stand plain to our federated societies and to the public at large, so I would urge that we who have so many problems facing us as citizens of this great Dominion, will not discuss these two questions in the National Council of Women."

This statement by Miss Winnifred Kydd, national president, was quoted by Mrs. Rex Eaton in giving her report of the National Council's meeting before the Local Council yesterday afternoon.

"But it was drawn to our attention that a council woman was free to work for or against sterilization in another organization without in any sense being unfaithful to the council policy," Mrs. Eaton observed.

WOMEN IN EMPLOYMENT

Clarification of the stand taken by the National Council of Women in defending the position of women in industry was made by Mrs. Eaton in the course of her interesting report.

"If you attack the position of the married woman in industrial life you are taking the first step toward driving both married and unmarried women from industry," she said. Furthermore, even if all the married women in industry were dispensed with and sent back into the home, the problem of male unemployment would not be solved. This was the stand taken by the National Council.

HOUSING PROBLEMS

The national meeting had spent some time discussing the problem of housing and town-planning, in which the west was conceded to be ahead of the east. Mrs. Eaton commented on the fact that, since the last previous annual meeting of the national, it had declared itself in favor the abolition of private manufacture of armaments. Referring to some of the entertainment provided for the delegates, the speaker recalled with special pride the brilliant address given by Mrs. Paul Smith, M.P.P., at the complimentary banquet at which the delegates were guests at Ottawa, the other speaker of the evening being Sir George Perley.

The reports of convenors of several standing committees occupied time both at the morning and afternoon sessions of the Local Council. Mrs. Bertha Parsons covered the activities of the Victoria branch of the League of Nations Society, which included a number of meetings for the dissemination of information as well as several undertakings for raising finances. A survey of the gender activities of the international society was also included in the report, with special reference to the demonstration of the efficacy of the League of Nations recently sent in connection with the Saar plebiscite, which had passed off practically without untoward incident, thanks to international police supervision.

"The holding of this plebiscite without disturbance in such a tense atmosphere, spoke volumes for the power of the international police," the speaker commented before concluding with a plea for the formation of League of Nations study groups.

NATURAL RESOURCES

The ruthless denudation of beautiful forest land owing to logging operations, was feelingly referred to by Mrs. J. D. Carlson, convener of the standing committee on conservation of natural resources. She particularly spoke of the denudation of the once-beautiful Cowichan Lake country. Conservation of the wild flowers was also referred to, in connection with which she spoke of some of the beautiful flower paintings made by local artists.

The importation of foreign canned goods, particularly those brought in unlabelled, came within any survey of natural resources, she thought. Women should watch the labels and see that fruit and vegetables did not come from across the line when they could be supplied by local growers.

NAMED HISTORIAN

Mrs. R. B. McMicking, for many years convener of the standing committee on natural resources, was appointed "scribe" for the local council, on the president's recommendation, and will compile a scrapbook covering the reports of the council activities since the inception of the organization.

The report of the corresponding secretary, Mrs. A. C. Ross, showed that the local council has a total of forty-four affiliated societies, with an average attendance of forty-one at the regular monthly meetings. New societies affiliated during the year were the Women's Benefit Association, the Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club, the University Women's Club (renewal), the Hebrew Ladies' V.R.P. Auxiliary, and the P.E.O. Sisterhood.

Satisfaction was expressed at the success of the local council's sponsorship of Mrs. D. L. MacLaurin for school trustee. Dr. Jardine, convener on citizenship, had been appointed to the advisory board of the City Council.

Operation Gives Baby a Throat

Associated Press

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 17.—A tiny girl, born here without a throat opening, faced life—and that none too certain—with only a rubber tube for a throat, unless surgical skill can give her something better.

The baby, now four days old, was doing "very well," taking food through the tube. It was inserted through an incision made in the stomach by surgeons at the Maryland General Hospital when the throat was found to be closed by a congenital stricture.

Dr. S. E. Proctor, hospital superintendent, gave the tot "about a fifty-fifty chance to pull through," and said if she did efforts would be made to provide her with normal throat functions.

"The esophagus, or throat, is there all right," Dr. Proctor said. "But it is closed by a stricture. We are going to try to dilate it so that it will function normally."

Harvey-Boggs Chapter—The Valentine Harvey-Beaumont Boggs Chapter, I.O.D.E., met yesterday afternoon at headquarters. Mrs. F. B. Corby was confirmed as national executive and Mrs. W. H. Sayer, Mrs. R. H. Shanks and Mrs. F. F. Burkett provincial councillors.

Heron obtaining consolation award for the ladies. The gentlemen's prize went to Mr. Stowe, Mr. K. B. Hincks, Mr. E. F. Le Quesne, and consolation to Mr. A. A. F. Calland.

At the home of her mother, Mrs. W. H. Beach, 466 Kingston St., Mrs. R. Day entertained at a miscellaneous shower, assisted by her aunt, Mrs. W. J. Pilling, in honor of Mrs. G. Pilling junior, a recent bride. The rooms were tastefully decorated in a color scheme of rose and green. The many beautiful gifts were presented to the bride by Evelyn Day from a prettily decorated wagon, on which a large Christmas stocking concealed the gifts, and drawn into the room by "Toby," a Boston bull dog. A very pleasant evening was spent in music and guessing competitions, the prizes being won by Mrs. Hubert and Mrs. Bentley. A dainty buffet supper was served to the guests. Assisting at the buffet were Mrs. W. Beach, Mrs. W. J. Pilling and Miss Marcia Beach. Musical numbers were rendered by Miss Peggy Bently. The guests were: Mrs. G. # Weddings

STRANG—HOLLAND

At St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay, yesterday evening, the rector Canon A. E. de L. Hunter united in marriage Kathleen Marjorie, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Holland, 1264 Monterey Avenue, and Mr. James Strang, youngest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Strang, of Victoria, and formerly of Edinburgh, Scotland.

White chrysanthemums and greenery were used in decoration of the church. The wedding music was played by Mr. F. T. C. Wickett and during the signing of the register, Mrs. Georgina Watt sang "O Perfect Love" and at the reception later she sang the solo, "Repose."

The bride was given in marriage by her father and looked charming in a smart gown of cocktail blue velvet, with a silver hat and slippers, and carried a sheaf of Arum lilies. The only bridesmaid was Miss Frances Smith, of Nanaimo, in a pretty frock of shell-pink moire, and a smart turban of pink mohair and velvet, she carried a bouquet of pink carnations and blue iris. Mr. S. Gurney, brother-in-law of the groom, was the best man, and acting as ushers were Mr. B. D. Holland, brother of the bride, and Mr. D. W. Carter.

An informal reception was held after the service at the family home, where pale pink carnations, and others of a darker hue, and white chrysanthemums were attractively arranged in the rooms. Mr and Mrs. Holland received the guests, the latter wearing a dress of vintage red lace and a black hat trimmed at the back with an ostrich plume, and assisting them was Mrs. S. Gurney, in a gown of black satin trimmed with white, and a black hat. They both wore corsage bouquets of roses and freesia.

The bride and groom stood beneath an arch of ivy hung with strands of gypsophila, and white chrysanthemums, to greet their friends. Supper was served from a table centred with the wedding cake, and arranged with vases of two shades of pink carnations, and eight candles in the same tones.

After a short honeymoon on the mainland, Mr. and Mrs. Strang will live at 1320 Hampshire Road.

CAMERON—WRAGGE

Nelson, B.C., Jan. 7 (Canadian Press).—Helen Alice Wragge, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Wragge, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Wragge of Nelson and granddaughter of the late Sir John and Lady Thompson, yesterday became the bride of Douglas Irving Cameron, only son of Lieut.-Col. and Mrs. D. W. Cameron of Ottawa.

Very Rev. J. C. McKenzie performed the wedding ceremony in the Church of Mary Immaculate here. The bride was attended by Miss Ruth Crawford, Miss Gale Taylor and Miss Binki Wragge as bridesmaids and Mrs. C. H. Hamilton as matron of honor. The groom was supported by C. H. Hamilton.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride appeared lovely in an imported floor-length wedding gown of ivory Blanchini velvet fashioned on princess lines with cowl neck, long sleeves and a diamante buckle fastening the narrow belt.

The groom's gift to the bride was a string of pearls; to the bridesmaids and matron of honor, silver marcasite bracelets and to the best man a silver cigarette case. The bride's gift to the groom was a set of gold cuff links.

Function of Domestic Science Course Defined

Not Intended For Training of Household Servants, Miss McLenaghan Tells Local Council; Soroptomists Want Housewifery Course Instituted

The functions of the domestic science course in the schools is to teach the girls to be of use in their own homes. It is not intended to train girls as household workers, nor is there room for such a course in the ordinary school curricula, Miss J. L. McLenaghan, provincial director of home economics, told the Local Council of Women at its annual meeting yesterday afternoon.

Her observations were made in the course of an interesting address in the course of discussion evoked by a resolution from the Soroptimist Club asking for the institution in the schools of a course of "housewifery" to include a full and complete instruction in all household work, as a means of raising the standard of household help.

Miss McLenaghan defined the present place of the home economics course in the school curricula. These courses, in the words of the survey commissioner's report a few years ago, were designed not to train girls for domestic service, but to train them to use their hands and heads and become useful helps to their mothers.

During the last few years the number of home economic centres in B.C. had been decreased only seven per cent, despite the financial stress, and over 13,000 girls are studying at the various centres, the speaker noted. She briefly outlined the nature of the training in the elementary schools and in the more advanced course in the high schools, which is a fully accepted science on a par with other matriculation subjects. This matriculation option extends over three years, and these courses are established in practically every high school in the province except in Victoria. This lack, she explained, was due, not to the department of education, but to the local school board.

VOCATIONAL WORK NEEDED

But there is definitely a place for vocational work in the schools, she continued, and proceeded to tell of an experiment just started in Vancouver. Taking twenty-four unemployed girls between the ages of sixteen and twenty-two years, the department was giving these girls three hours a day from 3.30 till 6.30 in the schools to train them for domestic service, the experiment being carried on with the co-operation of the Y.W.C.A.

A special class for domestic servants in a vocational school would be the best solution to the problem of training girls to take up domestic work as a career, in her opinion.

Mrs. D. L. McLaurin expressed the hope that when times improve, and opportunity presents itself, the long-continued effort of the local council to introduce a domestic course into the Victoria High School might meet with success.

OFFICERS CHOSEN

Officers elected were as follows: President, Mrs. C. C. Spofford; vice-presidents, Mrs. W. J. H. Holmes, Mrs. W. L. Thomas, Mrs. Bertha Parsons, Mrs. D. L. MacLaurin, Mrs. J. L. White, Mrs. V. S. MacLachlan; recording secretary, Mrs. A. E. Hopkins; corresponding secretary, Mrs. A. C. Bone; treasurer, Mrs. J. W. Gibson.

Conveners of standing committees were named as follows:

Arts and letters, Miss Doris Holmes; cinema and printed matter, Mrs. W. Llewellyn Thomas; citizenship, Dr. Jardine; finance, Mrs. J. W. Gibson and Mrs. Bertha Parsons; economics and taxation, Mrs. J. L. White; housing and town-planning, Mrs. Sylvia Holland; national recreations (parks and playgrounds), Mrs. Hugh Mackenzie; laws for women and children, Mrs. C. C. Spofford; League of Nations, Mrs. Blanche Bird; migration, Miss Mabel Blackley; natural resources and industries, Mrs. J. D. Gordon; press, Mrs. H. P. Hodges and Miss Bruce; public health, Mrs. V. S. MacLachlan; trades and professions, Mrs. A. E. Johnson; and education, Mrs. Edna Godson.

Among the affiliated societies that gave reports at the meeting were the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, through A. R. Sherwood; the Victorian Order of Nurses, through Miss Ethel Thornley; the Hebrew Ladies' Auxiliary, through Mrs. Mendus; the Daughters of St. George; the Sir James and Lady Douglas Chapter, I.O.D.E., Mrs. Colin Cummins; Victoria Women's Institute; the Catholic Women's League, Miss O'Brien; Allies Chapter, I.O.D.E., North Saanich; Florence Nightingale Chapter, I.O.D.E.; Native Daughters of British Columbia; the Women's Union of the First Baptist Church; the Woman's Auxiliary of the Typographical Union; Frances Willard W.C.T.U.

Mrs. Hugh Mackenzie, convener of the standing committee on parks and recreation, brought a most able report.

The few minutes immediately preceding the tea hour were enjoyably filled with a vocal solo by Mrs. T. Southern, who was ably accompanied by Miss Phyllis Deaville. Mrs. Bertha Parsons and her committee very competently managed the tea arrangements, and Miss Savory was responsible for the attractive decorations of the hall.

Weddings

RAE—LLOYD

A pretty wedding was solemnized on Tuesday morning at St. John's Church, Courtenay, by Rev. P. C. Chapman, when Alianora Mary, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Lloyd of Courtenay became the bride of John Rutherford Rae, son of Mrs. Hackett of Minstrel Island and the late Mr. Rae. Chrysanthemums, daffodils and ferns made an effective setting for the ceremony. Mr. C. W. Sillence officiated at the organ and during the signing of the register Mrs. Ben Hughes sang "I Love You Truly."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore the wedding dress of her great aunt, which with the accessories had been sent from England especially for the ceremony. The gown was fifty-five years old, but the only signs of age was a slight mellowing of the rich satin to a deeper ivory hue. It was shirred and tucked elaborately at bodice, waist and sleeves, with ruchings of pleated satin at the hem of the skirt and at the neckline. The waistline was carried to the back in a bustle effect, which spread into a short train edged with ruching. The slippers of satin were also part of the costume of the bride of fifty-five years ago. Veil and orange blossoms completed the bridal ensemble and the flowers were appropriately an old-fashioned posy of pink carnations, yellow daffodils and white hyacinths.

The two bridesmaids, Miss Nina Lloyd and Miss Mabel Duck, were dressed alike, the former in green satin and the latter in pink, similarly designed, with small Dolly Varden hats to match and carried white chrysanthemums.

Mr. Epworth Lloyd, brother of the bride, was best man. Mr. Tom Hughes was usher and the church decorations were arranged by Mr. Geo. Edwards.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, attended by many friends. The three-tier wedding cake was cut by the bride, and assisting in serving the guests were Mrs. Jenkins and Miss Ethel Nahelin.

The bride and groom left later in the day on route to Vancouver, travelling in their own boat, and will return to Courtenay for a brief visit before leaving for their future home at Minstrel Island.

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Jan. 17.—Richly-gowned women from all parts of Canada assembled to-day in a brilliant gathering which filled the Senate chamber for the opening of Parliament. Long before the arrival of the Governor-General the impressive red chamber of the Upper House, with its ceiling of gold and its luxuriant fittings, was filled with guests.

On the floor of the Senate, in the galleries, and overflowing the adjoining corridors, wives and daughters of leading men of the nation and women who have won distinction in many fields of activity listened as the Earl of Bessborough, surrounded by a resplendent entourage, read the Speech from the Throne.

Seldom in years has the demand for tickets of admission been so keen as during the past few days.

Hundreds of women were unable to gain places owing to the restricted capacity of the upper chamber.

Mrs. C. H. Dickie, wife of the member for Nanaimo, was in a coral georgette and she wore gold shoes and ornaments to match.

Mrs. Hugh Guthrie, wife of the Minister of Justice, chose a Molyneux model of midnight blue velvet made on long graceful lines. Rhinestones completed this lovely gown and a cape of blending tones gave a graceful effect.

Mrs. Julius Griffith of Vancouver wore a gown of imported white faille heavily fringed with diamonts. Her court train of white embossed velvet was edged with faille and her necklace was of diamonds.

Mrs. Arthur C. Hardy, wife of Senator Hardy, was in an effective gown of blue velvet.

Junior Catholic Women's League—The monthly meeting of the Junior Catholic Women's League was held on Monday in the library of the Bishop's Palace. The meeting was well attended. Bishop MacDonald spoke on the subject of mission work. Mrs. Stockwood, national convener of Girl Guides for the League, also addressed the members, her subject being "Girl Guides." Both these fields of work provide worthy incentives and are to be supported by members of the junior branch. Arrangements were made for a silver tea on Sunday, January 20, in aid of the missions, at the home of Mrs. Regan, Pandora Avenue. The juniors have been asked to supply candy for the home cooking stall at the tea in aid of the poor Clare Monastery on Wednesday, January 23. There is to be a series of telephone bridge parties, from January 28 to February 11. The conveners are Miss E. O'Neill and Miss L. Fletcher and members who are able to aid in this are asked to notify either of the conveners.

Serial Story

Blonde Goddess

By HERBERT JENSEN

The pilot's jaw dropped. "Grahame . . . my God! Why . . . the whole United States is looking for you and— Where've you been, man?"

CHAPTER XLVIII

Their story was quickly told. The setting sun found Grahame sprawled across the cockpit penciling a note that was to be sent from the nearest cable office.

Within an hour or two, he hoped, duplicates of this message would be in Myborg's office and at Spin Winslow's apartment in Hollywood, two thousand airline miles away.

Grahame gave the pilot parting instructions. "It's hurry-up that counts. This beach here is about fifteen miles long. Good landing spot for a land plane.

"We'll be here at the northern end. Spin could land one of the big Lizzies on it if he can't get anything smaller and faster at short notice. Get going, now, and thanks."

Greene said importantly. "That's it. Make it snappy. You make it snappy and some day I'll give you a write-up that will make your worst enemy proud to know you."

The pilot grinned broadly. He said to Grahame:

"What's this guy do? Own a newspaper?"

Frank chuckled. "He's a press-agent."

The man reached for his controls. "Oh, so that's it. Funny, he doesn't look crazy, but now I get it. So long . . . ."

* * *

In the great square before the pyramid, the column of priests and guards began their slow march measured by fist drum beats vibrating through the steamy air.

The up-borne litter of the high-priest led the procession. The cage of the jaguars was immediately behind it. Side by side, and blached in by a square of guards walked Janice and Langton.

"Billy," she whispered. "Is there any chance at all? Have you made any plan? . . ."

Langton's eyes were red rimmed. Obviously his nights had brought him little sleep. His face was drawn with lines of impotence and bafflement. He answered with a voice husky with fatigue—wavering with compassion.

"Afraid not, Janice. If Frank had gotten to the coast—and it hadn't rained—there might have been a faint chance, but—"

He made a little gesture of despair.

A tenuous apathy settled upon Janice's mind. Objects about her became unsubstantial, illusory—as if she walked in a half dream. Vaguely she remembered that it was said that drowning persons reviewed their lives in one queer illuminating flash before oblivion swallowed them.

But, it was not her life that paraded before the mirror of her memory, but the web of circumstances that had been spun about her since that grimly night in Hollywood when Frank Grahame had forestalled her abduction by the mad priest of the Mayan Rain God and his emissary Don Raoul Ortega.

A vicious plan, and a daring one surely—to attempt with such an elaborate scheme the luring of a prominent and wealthy girl into hidden jungle fastnesses just so that she might enact the death role of the Daughter of Ich-Kin, the Sun God. What a sequence of horror had this priest of a dead race revived in his madness!

* * *

Hogarth, her director, dead. McGrath, the advance man, murdered as were the two cameramen. Greene and the boy Juan gone.

Frank, too, was gone—gone as surely from her life as was Ortega who had lost his life on the pyramid top by the hand of his master. In a little while she and Langton would join them all.

Janice brushed her wrist across her forehead. Her gesture could not scrape away the unreality. This was a dream; no, it was a part she was playing on some realistically appointed studio set at home.

She felt that if she listened intently she would be able to hear the hum of traffic on the streets beyond the hot—comforting sounds, sounds that would assure her of the proximity of civilization.

There was a hum undoubtedly. The noise instantly overbore the feal monotone of the altar drum. Perhaps it existed only in her mind—or else it was the crowd murmuring as bits of information were passed between its individuals.

She was aware that Langton was talking to her—rapidly, incoherently. She lifted her head; her eyes focused; from out of that queer state of unreality her mind began to function normally.

The litter supporting the high priest had been carried halfway up the pyramid's steeply slanting steps. The jaguar cage was being slowly advanced up the slope.

She stumbled a little as her feet hitted the first step. The hum, the murmur was tangible. It was louder—a deeply stabbed drone that was curiously familiar.

Then quite suddenly she understood Langton's shouted words.

"It's a plane! Janice, look up!"

She glanced skyward. Her glance focused on a point above the eastern horizon almost in the eye of the rising sun. She saw vanguard silver wings; topes flashed upon the fore-shortened body.

The dark lumps of the three radial motors were silhouetted sharply. It was approaching with amazing rapidity, slanting in a long power glide toward the pyramid. Above the growl of its engines she heard the voice of the ahkin screaming to his guards.

She saw the body of the column spread out. The armed guards were racing in various directions. They appeared like tiny pawns on a huge checkboard.

The rifles began to crack sharply. Suddenly the plane was over the square. It zoomed and lifted. She saw a body hang out of one of the ports, pointing something that looked like a rifle downward, yet was bulkier than a rifle.

* * *

Langton cried out hoarsely. "They have a machine gun! Why don't they shoot? Don't they realize—" Then in the next breath he shouted with despairing anxiety:

"They can't. They don't dare. The ahkin knew! A fallen body in their way would wreck a landing!"

The plane made a steep bank over the western buildings. Back it roared, the wheels of the landing gear scant inches above the heads of the soldiers staggered over the square.

Langton made an inarticulate sound. "God, what flying! See, they scatter, but they close up again. They'll never give way long enough to let the plane down.

"Janice! We must do something! Make a break. See, there's an open space on the eastern side. If we could run for it . . . divert the guards . . . ship can land—"

He pivoted on his sound leg. There was a dull smack as the nearer guard of the six went down. Janice heard a scream from the ahkin drowned by a riot of snarls of the jaguars as the bonnes of the cage dropped it.

She felt the hand of a guard roughly grasp her arm.

She twisted away and flung herself at a man whose upraised rifle was poised over the blonde head of her companion. Again the motors roared overhead. The sound of rifle fire grew.

The man she clung to went limp under a slash from Langton's fist. She saw a knife upraised in a brown fist.

Langton's sinewy hand darted out and twisted it away. A lunging native knocked her down the steps. Her wildly roving glance fell upon a discarded knife a foot from her hand.

She snatched it up as Langton burst through the twisting bodies of the guards toward her.

He gasped. "We can't get away! Try to reach the ahkin and—"

His sentence ended in a moan as a clubbed rifle hit him behind the head. He pitched toward Janice. The guard who had struck him turned his eyes, crazed with excitement, toward Janice.

Slowly—it seemed almost slow motion—he reversed his rifle. The girl knew in that instant he intended to shoot her!

She struggled backward up the steps. She was barely conscious that she had backed against the jaguar cage. Her ears were deaf to the savage growls behind her.

The rifle was raised—still with that illusion of retarded action. The native's teeth bared, the muscles of his hand tightened over the trigger guard.

CHAPTER XLIX

Janice heard a scream and a crash behind her. In an instant of dull bewilderment she realized she was not hit.

She saw an expression of stupid dismay in the face of the rifleman. His gun barrel dropped.

She shrank against the cage in time to avoid the falling figure of the little bearer who had stopped the bullet. She saw brown arms striving to reach the flopping limpness that was the body of the paralyzed high priest.

To steady herself she put up the hand that held the knife. It came in contact with the thongs tying the cage gate. A sudden desperate thought swept her mind. At any cost the area of the great square must be cleared for the landing of the plane!

Heh knife slashed at the thongs. The keen steel sliced through the leather as through grease. She was aware of snarling jaws, of yellow eyes wild with hate and frenzy.

The gate slammed back upon her. Tawny black-spotted bodies soared above as she tumbled down the steps.

She heard a deep-voiced scream. The multitude knew the cats were loose!

She was sobbing. Scarcely conscious now, she tugged at the limp body of Langton, hoping to drag him to the cage that now offered protection from the jaguars only from within. The figures were running everywhere. Suddenly the motors ceased their roaring. She heard vicious, staccato bursts, like short volleys from grouped rifles.

* * *

There was a crescendo of shouting—scattered rifle fire, then more bursts from the machine gun.

Strong arms gripped her above the waist; she struggled futilely, twisting away to reach the knife she had dropped to assist her companion. But with the arms came a voice, a voice that drew the strength from her and left her sobbing weakly.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

DRIED BEEF ADDS FLAVOR TO COMBINATION SANDWICH

By MARY E. DAGUE

The best sandwich I discovered in 1934 was one made, wonder of wonders, with dried beef. Of course, there was cheese, tomato and several other interesting items in the filling, too—but dried beef was the flavor-giver.

For that reason, and also because creamed beef is one of the best quickly prepared main dishes I know, I nominate dried beef, which you may buy in glass jars or in bulk, for your 1935 emergency shelf.

The nourishment furnished by dried beef is not particularly important. Other foods with which it is combined supply that, the beef adding flavor.

There is no waste to dried beef, however, and, pound for pound, the fuel value is 12 per cent higher than that of round steak.

DRIED BEEF GRAVY IS GOOD

Well-made dried beef gravy has a rich, delicious flavor and a warm creamy color quite different from the white, pasty-looking stuff we occasionally encounter. Serve creamed dried beef with baked potatoes and tomato salad and finish up with apple pie and cheese. Men especially like this meal.

A very good and inexpensive sandwich filling is made by combining finely chopped dried beef, minced gherkins and mayonnaise. This filling is especially good between slices of rye or whole wheat bread.

And here's the savory filling I like so much which will keep in the ice box almost indefinitely:

DRIED BEEF SANDWICH FILLING

One cup dried beef, 1 cup finely diced cheese, 1 cup sifted tomato, ¼ teaspoon dry mustard, ⅛ teaspoon white pepper, 1 egg.

Chop dried beef and combine with cheese. Put in top of double boiler and cook over hot water until cheese begins to melt. Add tomato which has been rubbed through a coarse sieve to remove seeds and cook and stir until mixture is thoroughly blended. Stir in mustard and pepper and egg slightly beaten. Stir over hot water until thickened, not more than one minute, and pour into a bowl or jar to cool.

TO-MORROW'S MENU

Luncheon: Cream of celery soup, toast sticks, Chinese cabbage salad, savory dried beef sandwiches, sliced oranges with shredded coconut, milk, tea.

Dinner: Tuna fish loaf; tomato sauce, baked sweet potatoes, canned peas in cream, cabbage and grapefruit salad, cheese cake, milk, coffee.

If you prefer a sauce to cream for the peas, melt 1 tablespoon butter in a small saucepan, stir in two teaspoons flour and when perfectly smooth and bubbly add one cup milk. Cook and stir until mixture boils. Season with salt and pepper and pour over peas which have been reheated in a little of their own juice.

Hollywood Ladies' Aid—The Ladies' Aid of Hollywood Presbyterian Sunday school are planning an evening's enjoyment in the shape of an old-fashioned party which will be held Friday at 8 p.m. in the Sunday school hall, Wildwood Avenue, Foul Bay. Mrs. W. Turner is general convener with Mrs. Taylor and an energetic committee in charge of the games and other amusements while Mrs. Hyslop and her committee will serve refreshments. The Ladies' Aid are working hard to make this party as enjoyable and successful as those held in previous years. A nominal charge will be made for admission and the proceeds will go towards the work of the Ladies' Aid.

The Benedictines, an ancient religious order of fire worshippers still existing in Persia, never bury or burn their dead. They place the bodies of the dead in the "Tower of Silence," where they are left to be devoured by huge vultures which constantly hover nearby.

PRESENT MAHLER SYMPHONY NO. 2

Gustav Mahler's "Symphony No. 2 in C Minor" will be presented by the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Eugene Ormandy with Anne O'Hanlay Gallagly, contralto; Corinne Frank Brown, soprano, and the Twin City Symphony Chorus in a broadcast over the nationwide Columbia network from 12.15 to 2 p.m. P.S.T., to-morrow. The Mahler work will be preceded by Handel's ever-popular "Water Music."

Mahler's second symphony, monumental in scope and range, was written by the distinguished Bohemian conductor and composer in 1895. At the time the work was conceived Mahler already had achieved great distinction as conductor of the Hamburg Opera. Beginning about 1890 he produced a series of elaborate and impressive orchestral works whose absolute musical qualities still are the subject of great debate. Their fine workmanship, the power and force of Mahler's ideas and their impressive strength, however, have interested many music lovers, and the presentation of the "Second Symphony" by the Minneapolis Symphony ranks as a major musical event of the season.

Stations KOL, KVI and KSL will bring this concert to Victoria listeners.

Uncle Wiggily Feeds the Birds

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Uncle Wiggily hopped out into Nurse Jane's kitchen one morning and said to the muskrat lady housekeeper:

"When you get ready to go, comes again, Miss Puggy Wuggy, please don't throw away any table scraps or crumbs."

"Why not, Uncle Wiggily?" asked the muskrat lady housekeeper. "What are you going to do with table crumbs and kitchen scraps?"

"Feed them to the birds," said the rabbit gentleman. "The birds are my friends. They catch in summer bugs and mosquitoes that might bite you and me. But in the winter when there are no bugs and mosquitoes the birds can find very little to eat. If they do not eat they will die and then when summer comes we shall have none of them to catch the bugs and mosquitoes and drive them away. So, so, to keep the birds alive in winter, I am going to feed them."

"I'll help you," offered the muskrat lady. "I love the birds, for some of them sing sweetly. Of course, there are some birds that make a lot of noise and chatter too loud."

"But even these birds catch bugs," said Mr. Longears. "So, don't forget to save the crumbs."

"Here are some now. I was just going to throw them out on the snow, Uncle Wiggily. Even without telling me I have been throwing crumbs and table scraps out on the snow all winter."

"Excuse me, Nurse Jane," spoke the bunny gentleman, "but throwing crumbs on the snow does very little good to the birds. The crumbs sink down in the snow or are covered up by more snow falling and then the birds can't find the crumbs to eat. And when that happens, unless they can peck some seeds or berries off bushes sticking up through the snow, the birds will starve and die."

"How, then, are you going to feed crumbs to the birds when there is snow on the ground?" Nurse Jane asked.

TWO WAYS

"By not throwing the crumbs on the ground," answered Uncle Wiggily. "There are two ways to do this. I will make you a board shelf which I will fasten on the back stoop under the porch roof. The roof will keep the snow off the board and the crumbs will not be covered. On each day you can put a board out on top snow in the back yard and on this board you may scatter crumbs. But each day the board must be cleared of snow that may fall in the night, or the birds can't get the crumbs you put on it."

"Then," said Nurse Jane, "as I am too busy to go out cleaning off feeding boards for the birds, you had better fix a board for me under the shelter of the back porch."

"I'll do that," said Uncle Wiggily. This he did and as soon as Nurse Jane put bread crumbs and table scraps out on the board a dozen birds fluttered down to eat. They chirped and chipped and peeped their thanks.

But this wasn't enough for Uncle Wiggily. He hopped to the woods and listened up in some trees above the ground a number of boards on which he scattered food for the birds.

"Each day, after it snows, I will come out and clean off these boards so the birds can easily pick up the crumbs I shall put on them," said the rabbit gentleman.

He was very glad to do this and you can imagine how happy the cold and hungry birds were when they didn't have to scratch in the snow to find for seeds and berries. It was easy for them to pick crumbs up off the boards that the bunny gentleman kept clear of snow. The birds fluttered around Uncle Wiggily and sang songs to him. So the birds were happy and the rabbit gentleman was happy and he twinkled his pink nose twice. And if the nose here, will stop blowing down in the open of the potatoes so they can use to get into the salad, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the Blue Jays.

Old Ontarians Hold Meeting

Ex-residents of Huron, Bruce and Grey Counties Hear Mrs. Nellie McClung

Beginning with a skirl of bagpipes and ending with square dances and reels, 200 Scotch Canadians, former residents of Huron, Bruce and Grey counties of Ontario, gathered to reminisce and enjoy an entertainment which featured an address by Mrs. Nellie McClung, Canadian authoress, in the A.O.F. Hall yesterday evening.

Old acquaintances were renewed at this annual meeting of the Bruce and Huron Old Boys' Association, when by a unanimous vote the many friends from Grey County were invited to become members of the association.

Mrs. McClung delighted and amused the audience with her tales of the days of her childhood in Grey County. She recalled many of the customs of the Ontario farmers in the old days, how they made their own soap, and the terrible task of watering the leach.

"We are fortunate in Canada," she said in opening, "that everybody is our friend — we have no enemies. We came into being by no act of violence, but by an act of parliament."

It was often said that a national background was lacking in Canada, but the authoress believed the immense size and vast resources of the country made up for this.

BAD ADVERTISERS

"In British Columbia alone we could give half an acre to every man, woman and child in Europe," Mrs. McClung declared, "though I admit some of them would have to take their acreage tilted upward."

"We are not good advertisers of this country of ours. Why, if you mention Canada in the United States they immediately begin to shiver. They think it is terribly cold up here, and that is our fault. I am glad to see they are going to advertise this island."

Immigration was a strange thing, the authoress said. Much of eastern Canada was populated on account of the famine in Ireland, and the exodus from the east to the prairies began on account of the rebellion in 1870. Soldiers brought back such vivid tales of the wonderful country they had been in, of the vast tracts of land which were just waiting for a plough, that they fired the imagination of the young farmers in Ontario and sent them on their journey to the wheat fields.

Touching briefly on the Scottish settlers in Selkirk County, Mrs. McClung claimed the Scottish national prayer was "Lord, gie us a good conceit of ourselves." And, she added, few national prayers had ever been so well answered.

SENTIMENT

Though the land was stony and the winters cold, the people of northern Ontario counties never lost a sentimental regard for their homes, the speaker observed. This was truly proved by the large gathering at this meeting of ex-residents of Huron, Bruce and Grey.

At the beginning of the meeting the retiring president, Neil Pollock, expressed his sorrow that the secretary, Percy Watson, was unable to be present on account of his being confined to the hospital.

The president declared that all the honor of starting this organization went to Mr. Watson. The members paid a standing tribute to their secretary.

The audience also paid a silent tribute to four members of the association who had passed away during the last year.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

When the election of officers was called David McCall was chosen president, with James Dinsmore vice-president. Angus Galbraith was re-elected registrar, and Charles French, G. R. Sing, J. A. Stewart, George Rinnaird, David Fair Jr., and John Murkar were voted on the executive committee.

Mr. Justice A. E. McPhillips, Mr. Justice M. A. Macdonald, the wardens of the counties of Bruce, Huron and Grey, and Mrs. Nellie McClung were elected honorary presidents of the organization.

The programme which was given was of wide variety. Robert Morrison and James Dinsmore both sang, while W. W. Bryce delighted the audience with his violin. Miss Miriam Pohlmann danced the hornpipe to the accompaniment of Pipe Major Donald Cameron, and W. Walker amused the audience with a Scottish monologue.

BOTTLE SHOULD BE USED ONLY WHEN MOTHER CANNOT NOURISH BABY

This department hopes fervently not to bore its readers by too frequent repetition of the same theme. But it seems that mothers find it difficult to keep in mind that to be a successful nurse it is necessary to give the breasts regular and thorough emptying at each and every nursing period.

A new mother writes:

"My baby daughter just twenty-three days old does not get enough breast milk. I have been advised to nurse her and part bottle feed her. I am to give her a breast feeding every six hours and a bottle feeding every six hours. At the time I bottle feed her I am to use a breast pump on the breast that otherwise would be nursed.

NURSE BREASTS EACH TIME

"It seems to me that in that case I would constantly be nursing one breast and breast pumping the other

NEW SCHOOL NOW PROBABLE

Report Assures Saanich Trustees Cadboro Bay Institution Is Necessary

A two-roomed school for pupils of Cadboro Bay became more or a reality at a meeting of the Saanich School Board yesterday evening when trustees heard a report that two busses were necessary to transport students living in the district to the Cedar Hill School.

From statements of the trustees made at the meeting by five Cadboro Bay residents who have taken an active interest in the construction of a new institution returned homeward feeling another progressive step had been recorded in their efforts to secure the building.

The board heard a report from Trustee F. G. Aldous, who was requested to make a check of the transportation facilities at present provided. The trustee gave his colleagues to understand the present quota of Cadboro Bay pupils could not be taken to school in less than two busses.

At a cost of $110 per month each, this would mean an annual expenditure to the board of more than $2,000, or nearly half the cost of a new school.

SUPPORT ASSURED

Trustee Albert E. Hull, who was appointed chairman in the absence of Chairman Walter P. Jones, assured the Bay residents that as far as he was concerned if it was necessary to have two busses provided, he, as a member of the 1935 board, would favor a new school.

Trustee William Tomes, who is a candidate at the forthcoming election, said he would, if returned, be satisfied to favor a school if he could be shown two busses were necessary.

In support of their claims, the ratepayers presented to the meeting letters from nine residents of Cadboro Bay who stated they would send their children to the new school if it was built. In each case their children were either attending other schools or were not at present eligible for elementary school.

Yesterday evening's meeting appeared to give to the ratepayers an assurance which they have been seeking for the last few weeks in various public meetings and meeting with the trustees. They are personally satisfied of the need for two busses and believe members of the board can be made to realize the need which they claim exists.

Reports from the Ladies' Aid, missionary groups, men's club, Sunday school and board of stewards were read.

Rev. Dr. E. A. Henry, pastor, was given a vote of thanks for the work during the year and thanks were also extended to C. C. Watson, organist and choir leader, and the other church organizations.

CLOSED SEASON FOR FROGS URGED

Associated Press

Jefferson City, Mo., Jan. 17.—The bullfrogs know nothing about it, but they may get a new deal, too.

A bill to allow them to convert for six and a half months each year without fear of winding up in frying pans was introduced in the House today by Representatives Frank J. Efrig and J. C. Putnam.

They propose to restrict the hunting of amphibians—and bullfrogs are that—from January 1 to June 15, with a fifteen-a-day bag limit.

Bullfrogs now have no time they can call their own.

Consideration of the purchase of more typewriters for the commercial classes of Mount View High School will be made by the Saanich School Board this year. Teachers of the school have requested additional machines, claiming the present equipment is inadequate.

are a guide to value

Experts can roughly estimate the value of a product by looking at it. More accurately, by handling and examining it. Its appearance, its texture, the "feel" and balance of it all means something to their trained eyes and fingers.

But no one person can be an expert on steel, brass, wood, leather, foodstuffs, fabrics, and all of the materials that make up a list of personal purchases. And even experts are fooled, sometimes, by concealed flaws and imperfections.

There is a surer index of value than the senses of sight and touch . . . knowledge of the maker's name and for what it stands. Here is the most certain method, except that of actual use, for judging the value of any manufactured goods. Here is the only guarantee against careless workmanship, or the use of shoddy materials.

This is one important reason why it pays to read advertisements and to buy advertised goods. The product that is advertised is worthy of your confidence.

DRAMA GROUP HERE BANNED

Local "Punch and Judy" Players Cannot Appear in Festival

Something of a sensation in British Columbia amateur dramatic circles was sprung to-day with the announcement that a ban had been placed on the participation of Archie MacCorkindale and his Punch and Judy Little Theatre players in the Dominion Drama Festival regional competitions in both Victoria and Vancouver.

Mr. MacCorkindale has risen to outstanding local prominence in amateur play writing as well as producing, and the days ago he and the players who interpret his work were awarded many tributes on the occasion of the production of three of his plays before a large crowd at the Shrine Auditorium. With that fresh in mind they went to Vancouver and captured for Victoria in provincial competition the Vancouver Little Theatre Trophy. Later in Vancouver they won second place in the Dominion finals for British Columbia.

Announcement of the banning of the Punch and Judy Theatre group, which includes some of the best-known amateurs Victoria has produced, was made in the publication of the following letter from Stuart O. Clark, secretary of the Dominion Drama Festival and the Victoria and District centre, to Mr. MacCorkindale:

"Acting under instructions of Capt. Theodore Cluxton, chairman of the Victoria committee of the Dominion Drama Festival, I return herewith your entrance fee of $5 in view of the withdrawal of the entries of the Punch and Judy Theatre from the Eliminating Contest, 1935."

SAYS NO WITHDRAWAL

This announcement was met today by emphatic denials from Mr. MacCorkindale and others of the Punch and Judy group that there had been any withdrawal. He said there had never been any proposal for withdrawal and that it was a straight case of the Punch and Judy group being thrown out. Inquiries as to the reason for the banning of the group were met by silence on the part of the local festival officials.

"Victoria can only make the best showing in outside competition by having free and unrestricted competition in the elimination contests here," said Mr. MacCorkindale. "That is what the Dominion officials have in view in holding local competitions. Just because we as a small group have been successful in the past should be no reason for barring us now. Our success should act as a stimulant to the other groups here whom we meet in competition.

"There is nothing in the Dominion Festival rules to the effect that winners in former years are excluded from subsequent competition."

The seriousness of the denial of entry to the local elimination competition was made clear when it was pointed out that only those who have appeared in the local competition can enter in the British Columbia finals. Thus, shut off the Victoria boards, the Punch and Judy players are automatically barred from the finals in Vancouver. They had applied to send three teams with their three best plays to Vancouver, but these entries there have now been killing by the action of the Victoria committee, it was pointed out.

It was pointed out by members of the Punch and Judy group that in Vancouver the Dominion regional competition is wide-open to all in the mainland district who desire to enter, with the regional committee absolutely neutral and pre-judging no plays or players.

Reports current locally in some quarters to the effect that the Punch and Judy group had been barred because their plays had been produced before the public were not taken seriously by members of the group, who stated that of the list of entries published last Monday in The Victoria Daily Times all but a couple were of plays that have been produced here at least once within recent months.

Major Bulloch-Webster, president of the annual B.C. Drama Festival, has sent an invitation to Mr. MacCorkindale and his players to participate without restriction in that competition that will open here in April.

Among the best players of Victoria amateur players banned from Dominion competition in the plays in which they have made a public success this season because of the local festival committee's attitude, are: Alan King, Dulcie Homer-Dixon, George Durham, Mary MacKay, Muriel Thompson, Stanley Shrimpton, Mabel Bailey, Faith Monk, James McGrath, Muriel Hayes, Noel Gossch, Rod Adler, E. L. Byng, Arthur Grover, Patricia Pemberton, Logan Byng, William Lewis.

LEMMAX HEADS LABOR COUNCIL

Returned For Second Term as President at Annual Meeting

The Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council yesterday evening returned Robert B. Lemmax, of the Victoria Electrical Workers' Union, as president at the annual meeting in the Trades and Labor Hall.

His re-election gave him his second term as leader of the trades union group.

F. Oliver was named vice-president, James Wilson secretary; R. W. Nunn, treasurer and R. Betts, sergeant-at-arms. The following committee chairmen were also elected: Joseph Cleary, organization; F. Penner, hall; Charles Chivers, legislative; and S. J. MacDonald, press.

After thanking the members for the confidence they had shown in him by returning him to the presidency, Mr. Lemmax gave a review of last year's activities. Referring to the decrease in membership, he attributed this to the difficult conditions pertaining to certain trades. A brighter outlook was seen by the president for 1935.

SAGGIT DISTRICT

Having started on its work as a minimum cost, the council had still finished the year with a slight deficit, caused by the reduction in membership the collections and the delinquency of member unions to use the Trades and Labor Hall, he said.

Mr. Lemmax suggested the reorganization of the worker bonds as part of the 1935 programme. That was necessary to maintain the importance of the council in the community, he noted.

He touched upon the general trend of public opinion in support of better working conditions and shorter hours of work as well as social legislation for workers and referred to the council's championship of these aims.

Mr. Lemmax expressed his thanks to the members and officers for their co-operation during last year, and expressed the hope that the same spirit of harmony would prevail throughout 1935.

Following the president's address, the officials were duly installed. Joseph Cleary, chairman of the organization committee; Charles Chivers, chairman of the legislative committee, and R. W. Nunn, treasurer, also presented reports.

LEADER APPROVES INDIA'S CONSTITUTION

Few men in British political circles could have resisted the overwhelming backing of the Conservatives in the Mother Country as did Rt. Hon. Stanley Baldwin when he landed for the approval of his party of the forthcoming India Constitution Bill at a recent caucus. Pitting his strength against a strong body of dissents led by Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill and Lord Salisbury, Mr. Baldwin pleaded with a huge gathering of delegates to approve the bill which will give India self-government with safeguards. His arguments were endorsed by a tremendous majority and India is assured a new constitution.

PLAY BOASTS STRONG PLOT

"The Late Christopher Bean" Chosen For Next Monday Evening

When Charles Ouard, who will direct "The Late Christopher Bean," the Little Theatre's next production, was faced with the task of coaching members of his cast in three dialects, he felt his job was indeed great. Welsh, Scotch and Jewish are the three dialects and each character concerned is doing splendid work, according to authentic sources.

The action of the play centres about the family of Dr. Haggett and becomes exciting and complicated when it is discovered that certain pictures, painted by Christopher Bean, an erstwhile lodger in their home ten years before, and left there at his death, have become suddenly famous and valuable. The pictures concerned are in the possession of Owenny Thomas—a Welsh servant girl and her reactions to the knowledge that she possesses famous portraits are very unusual. Betty Nethercington plays the part in her own convincing manner and rehearsals indicate that her performance will add further laurels to her reputation as an amateur actress.

Hugh Crozman has been given the role of Dr. Haggett, who is a typical country doctor—absorbed by his practice — astute - minded, kindly, though inclined to be irritable because of the high-handedness and avarice of his wife, Hannah. Mrs. Haggett's part will be taken by Evelyn Ouard, and she and Mr. Crozman form two important characters of the play. The part of Mrs. Haggett is not a pleasant one and requires real ability to swing admiration from an audience who will naturally be unsympathetic toward her role.

"The Late Christopher Bean" will be presented at the Centre Auditorium on Monday evening and many followers of the Little Theatre group are assured of an evening of excellent entertainment when this unusual play is presented to the public.

Master Allan Robinson, who has been a patient in the Royal Jubilee Hospital, returned on Monday to his home on the Gorge Road.

THE C.C.F.

tence or quotation," is a gross misrepresentation. Mr. Harold Winch, M.P.P., editor of The Clarion, wrote an editorial in its November number attacking Cole, the famous Socialist Professor of Economics at Oxford, accusing him of "silly impudence" and declaring that Cole's "attack upon the validity of the Communist Manifesto and Das Kapital is comparable to the gesture of a half-baked school boy." This manifesto (1867) is the document in which Marx broadcasted his doctrine of the bloody proletarian revolution. I commented briefly on this article in The Commonwealth. There is no essential difference between the Marxian and Biblical Fundamentalist, both being slaves to a presupposition that beclouds truth and bars vision. The editor of The Clarion begs the very question in issue between Cole and himself.

In reply, The Clarion accused me of "unmeasurable gall," and a sentence was cited from an old article of mine in order to convict me of "incoherence." I replied, pointing out that the sentence had only been rendered incoherent and ungrammatical by the omission of five words which governed the sense and construction of the whole sentence, and by adding a word which altered both its meaning and coherence, and I added: "I could make any sentence in The Clarion ungrammatical and incoherent by inserting one word and omitting five." "Imprimatur" wrests these words from their context to base thereon the palpably false charge that "I admit that I am capable of faking a quotation" and to insinuate that I faked my quotation from Marx, one familiar to all competent scholars.

I have constantly challenged Marxian Socialists to state frankly whether they propose to force Socialism on an unconverted electorate and why they belong to the C.C.F. when they repudiate its creed and preach the proletarian revolution of Marx, but they evade the issue and resort to abuse, and so I challenge "Imprimatur" as O'Connell challenged his anonymous traducer: "Come forth, thou slanderer, and let me see thy face."

A. B. SANDERS.

VOTE OF $500,000 NOT APPROVED

Canadian Press

Toronto, Jan. 17.—Four days before the administration of Premier George S. Henry of Ontario resigned that government passed an order-in-council providing for payment of $500,000 to the Dominion Construction Company as part of the construction costs of the Abitibi Canyon project, Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn stated yesterday.

This order was not approved by Hon. H. A. Bruce, Lieutenant-Governor, who said the amount was too large to be paid at such a late hour in the life of the administration.

The Marigold Hall will be the centre of attraction to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock when the Ward four Saanich C.C.F. Club No. 1 stages its regular weekly card party. There will be a novelty event with a special prize in addition to the usual prizes and refreshments.

Questionnaire Reveals Child Health Habits

Survey Points to Less Body Care Among Rural White Boys and Girls Than Among Most Other Groups

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

To get an idea of the extent to which commonsense health regulations were practised in American homes, a questionnaire was sent to 13,000 public school children by a committee working with the White House Conference on Child Health.

The questionnaire asked particularly about sleeping arrangements, the time of going to bed, eating habits, baths taken and teeth brushing.

Few children have rooms to themselves. Children of German parentage had rooms alone in 40 per cent of cases; negro children in only 16 per cent. Among children of Italian descent, 20 per cent had individual rooms and 3 per cent slept double.

The average time of going to bed varies from 9.15 for rural boys to 10.15 for boys who became delinquent. The average time of going to bed for adolescents was 9.15 for country girls and 10 o'clock for city girls. One child reported his time of going to bed as 5 o'clock in the morning!

Very few children admitted doing without baths during the preceding week, but it was quite interesting that a rural negro group was the only one that reported no child with a bathless week. The children of Italian descent had the highest percentage without baths—namely, 5 per cent.

As an indication of the extent to which the tooth brushing campaign has spread, daily brushing of the teeth was reported by most of the children. The lowest records were found among children of Italian and Mexican descent.

From 55 to 71 per cent of children in the other groups reported daily brushing of the teeth. Here, also, it is interesting to discover that the rural white group fell lower than any of the other groups, except the Italian and Mexican.

To test the extent to which these observances were an index of health, tables were constructed in which the children were grouped according to number of baths, number of times the teeth were brushed, eating habits, and sleeping arrangements.

No relationship was established. Children who are not sick at all, children who were sick in bed for a week or more, and children who were sick for just a few days have generally the same habits regarding bathing, brushing of teeth, and eating between meals.

However, there seems to be no question that ill-health when it did occur in these children, had a definite effect on their lives and on their lives and on their personalities. Ill-health seems to be as much an emotional and social handicap as a physical one.

It is necessary for parents to give attention not only to the physical condition of the child, but also to his emotional reactions.

CAPITOL THEATRE

The new film, based upon Somerset Maugham's novel, provides Garbo with one of the most colorful portrayals of her astonishing screen career. The story opens in a provincial family setting in Austria, and rises to great dramatic heights in the plague-infested regions of China.

CHINESE STAR AT PLAYHOUSE

Anna May Wong Has Lead in "Limehouse Blues" Which Opens To-day

After an absence of more than a year from U.S. pictures Anna May Wong, Chinese-American star, returns to the Hollywood screen in Paramount's "Limehouse Blues," featured with George Raft. The picture, directed by Alexander Hall, comes to-day to the Playhouse Theatre.

In the supporting cast of this picture, which is set in the sinister and shuddery confines of the most famous of Occidental Chinatowns, are Jean Parker, Kent Taylor and Montagu Love.

Columbia Shows Mystery Story

The whole north end of the new Beverly Hills home of Edward G. Robinson now starring in the First National mystery thriller, "The Man With Two Faces," at the Columbia Theatre, resembles a beautiful but impenetrable jail, with double locks on the doors, steel bars outside all the windows, and the sleeping porch screened backed by formidable steel grills.

This, is of course, is because little Eddie Robinson Jr., lives there. All this protection serves a double purpose. Little Eddie, just able to crawl, can't fall out. And an outsider, with no business in the house, will find it difficult to force an entrance.

GINGER ROGERS WILL PLAY HERE

In "Romance in Manhattan," which will open at the Dominion Theatre to-morrow, Hollywood has sent to the screen a beautifully acted drama of bitter-sweet romance, touching pathos and the struggles and dreams of two of New York's six millions who face life's eternal problems a bit afraid but with sunny optimism. It is a picture that must appeal to all ages and all castes because of its vivid human theme and its stirring, lilting spirit of courage, highlighted with episodes of delightful humor.

ROTARY GREAT PEACE FORCE

P. R. Scurrah, District Governor, Tells Club of International Service

Unrestricted by creed, race, denominationalism or any of the usual barriers, International Rotary to-day stand as one of the greatest world forces for the creation of international goodwill and understanding, P. R. Scurrah, governor of Rotary District No. 1 stated in his official address to his home club at the Empress Hotel to-day.

His appearance to-day, Mr. Scurrah remarked, was the last of sixty-seven official visits he had made in his capacity as district governor. His four months' tour of the district had left him lonesome for the fellowship of his own club.

He turned to a discussion of the Rotary programme laid down by the delegates in convention.

Mr. Scurrah stressed the international service objective, because it appeared the most interesting to Rotarians overseas. Because Canada had been at peace with its neighbor so long it might have discounted that feature. In the countries of Central Europe, torn by racial hatred and prejudices, international service was of primary importance.

PEACE MOVES

Mr. Scurrah referred to the peace moves of Rotarians in such countries, noting the value of visits by Czech Rotarians to those of Italy, and of the meetings between French and Germans in the peace huts on the border of those countries.

Rotary could not prevent war, but it could assist in fostering peace, he continued.

Giving more instances to illustrate his point, he referred to a big intercity meeting between the Hungarians and Jugo-Slavia citizens, who had greatly facilitated the creation of an amicable relationship between the two countries, which had formerly been traditional enemies.

In the Malay States similar action had been taken with equal success among the mixed races of that country.

Rotary was breaking down racial misunderstanding in that manner all over the world, Mr. Scurrah stated, showing how the club had succeeded where recognized diplomats had failed in the past. Similarly, Rotary had accomplished its peace objective where the League of Nations, undermined by unscrupulous forces, had failed. Even the Christian Church had not the opportunity to accomplish what the Rotarians were doing in promoting universal brotherhood, he said.

COMMUNITY SERVICE

In community service Rotary had done outstanding work in helping crippled and under-privileged children. The time had arrived, Mr. Scurrah said, when the so-called privileged children should be given more attention. They, equipped with education and material goods, were greatly in need of help and direction in a world which had no place for so many of them, he declared.

In a move to give boys of this Rotary district a chance to work out their own problems, he had called on all clubs to send representative boys to a youth conference in Bellingham, Wash., shortly.

Speaking on behalf of the attendance committee, he stated attendance at meetings was but a means to an end. Without attendance, fellowship, understanding and goodwill among men of all walks of life, could not be accomplished, he said.

"If ever there was a period in the world's history when business required cleaning up, required Rotary service—it is now," he concluded.

J. Morse Hatt, club president, thanked the speaker for his address.

The British Columbia Historical Association will meet on Friday, at 8 p.m. at the provincial library. The speaker will be Dr. T. A. Rickard, who will take for his subject, "Frobisher's Quest." He will describe the experiments of this great Arctic traveler. Visitors are welcome.

BISHOP VISITS ESQUIMALT

Queen of Peace Parishioners and Other Officials Welcome Catholic Prelate

Bishop MacDonald was presented with an illuminated address of greeting and good wishes by the parishioners of the Queen of Peace Church, Esquimalt, yesterday evening, when he paid his first official visit to the parish.

The bishop also received greetings and promises of co-operation from Reeve Alexander Lockley on behalf of Esquimalt Municipality; Commander G. C. Jones, M.C.N., on behalf of the Naval Barracks, and Major-General R. C. Ashton, C.M.G., V.D., on behalf of the garrison. Each of the speakers testified to the excellent influence wielded in the community by the church and the pastor, Rev. Father A. B. Wood.

In replying to the welcome tendered by the parishioners and the official guests present, the Bishop of Victoria congratulated those present on their fidelity to the church and urged them to continue to play a useful part in the community by lending assistance, where possible, to their neighbors regardless of class, creed or color.

The annual reports of the various departments of the church were read for the benefit of the guest of honor, who complimented the members in turn on the gratifying work accomplished during the last year.

Father Wood, in presenting his report, told the gathering that the church was now entirely clear of capital indebtedness.

SPLENDID YEAR AT CENTENNIAL

Annual Meeting of Church Hears Good Reports For Year

Yesterday evening the Centennial United Church held its annual meeting, which was well attended and enthusiastic in character.

The various reports of the work of the year showed that progress had been made. There was a net gain of nine members. The most noteworthy feature was in the sphere of finance. The church met all its obligations and was able to apply a substantial surplus to an amount still outstanding on the new manse. The missionary giving alone exceeded the amount raised last year.

Votes of appreciation were given to those who had made outstanding contributions to the work of the church. A unanimous resolution was passed voicing appreciation of the services of Rev. C. G. MacKenzie and Mrs. MacKenzie and pledging the loyalty of all the members in the continued work.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by the Women's Guild.

RACING DATES UNDER REVIEW

B.C. Thoroughbreds' Association Seeks Other Dates Than Fair Week For Meet

The City Council at its meeting on Monday evening will consider a communication from the British Columbia Thoroughbreds Association declaring its inability to stage racing in Victoria during the dates chosen by the city this year for the annual exhibition of the British Columbia Exhibition Association.

Last month the council approved the week from August 17 to 24 inclusive for the fair here.

In its letter to the council, the Thoroughbreds Association, representing racing interests of the province, asks approval for two weeks' racing at the Willows track, starting September 7.

Alderman T. W. C. Hawkins, president of the British Columbia Agricultural Association, to-day voiced the unwillingness of the Agricultural Association to postpone the fair until September this year.

MADE SACRIFICE BEFORE

For the last two years the British Columbia Agricultural Association has tried to co-operate in every way with municipalities of British Columbia in avoiding conflict of fair dates. As a result, Victoria has held its fair late in the season after the majority of the tourists have left the city and when the school children are back at their classes. The city has also run the risk of bad weather which has often cut down the gates.

Appreciating a demand by the public for an earlier fair, Victoria this year switched the dates to August.

Officials of the Agricultural Association said they can no longer take the risk of lowered revenue through poor weather and fewer visitors. The time has come, they contend, when Victoria should have its fair at a more favorable time. By choosing the August dates the city avoided conflict with both major and minor fairs in the province this year.

They point to Vancouver's action in breaking up two of the best weeks in the year in order to include two Wednesdays as well as the Labor Day holiday in their fair week. The terminal city dates this year are from August 28 to September 4.

FAIR OFFICIALS VIEW

Speaking of the difficulty voiced by the racing interests, Alderman Hawkins stated to-day.

"We consider there is no reason in the world why the racing association should not co-operate with us. They have a 10-day layover in Vancouver and could catch up on their season if they brought their horses across to the city to run during fair week." He reiterated the hamsts of holding a late fair during uncertain weather and again stated the city could not afford to take the chances entailed in a September exhibition.

ABORTION TERM IS APPEALED

Dying Declaration of Girl in Case Inadmissible, Lawyer Argues

The appeal of Carl Schwartzenhauer of Grand Forks against a sentence of five years' imprisonment for manslaughter in connection with the death of Veronica Kuve, an eighteen-year-old girl, opened in the Court of Appeal to-day, with M. A. Van Roggen for appellant and W. C. Kelley, K.C., for crown.

In the absence of Chief Justice J. A. Macdonald, the court to-day was presided over by Mr. Justice Martin.

Schwartzenhauer was found guilty by a jury at the Vernon Fall Assizes and sentenced by Mr. Justice D. A. McDonald. Mrs. Gristje Sunquest of Greenwood also found guilty in the same case, received a sentence of twenty-three months.

The Kuve girl died on October 4 after an illegal operation allegedly performed by Mrs. Sunquest at the latter's home on September 16. Death was due to septicaemia and peritonitis.

In a dying declaration the girl charged Schwartzenhauer as being responsible for her condition and deposed that he gave her $20 to go to Mrs. Sunquest for an abortion, and the charge against him was that of counselling or procuring Mrs. Sunquest to commit an indictable offence.

Mr. Van Roggen objected to admission of this part of the declaration. He conceded all necessary elements to sustain the indictment had been proven by the crown with the exception of counselling as shown in the dying declaration, but, apart from the declaration, he charged the case against Schwartzenhauer fell down. Dying declarations, he submitted, were only admissible in cases of homicide.

Counsel further submitted that the trial judge erred in his charge to the jury, when, although warning them of the danger of convicting on uncorroborated evidence of an accomplice, in further instructing them that it was their duty to convict if they believed accomplice's uncorroborated evidence. The trial judge, Mr. Van Roggen, pleaded, should have refrained from giving such advice to the jury.

Schwartzenhauer, counsel stated, last saw the girl on September 16, or two weeks before the illegal operation took place, and the dying declaration should have been rejected as cause of death and actual circumstances immediately surrounding the transaction resulting in death.

The application involving the right of W. C. Woodward of Vancouver to run for the office of director of the new Bank of Canada is due to be heard at the conclusion of the Schwartzenhauer case, probably Friday.

After the service, the remains were forwarded to Vancouver for cremation.

J. V. FISHER IS APPOINTED

A third B.C. municipality to-day was placed under the direct control of J. V. Fisher, assistant to the deputy Minister of Finance.

Mr. Fisher was appointed official commissioner for the city of Fernie, which went into receivership by court order on Monday.

To serve as acting commissioner Mr. Fisher named J. C. Connick, Fernie city clerk, who will have charge during his absence. Mr. Fisher will be unable to go to Fernie immediately.

In the meantime, E. R. Bridgeman, supervisor of municipalities for the province, will have past week to serve in an advisory capacity to Mr. Connick.

First thing to be carried out by the new commissioner will be a complete survey of the city's finances to determine its ability to pay its debts, Mr. Fisher said. This will be preliminary to any reorganization.

Mr. Fisher is also the official commissioner for the city and district of North Vancouver. He has an acting commissioner in each, but retains control himself.

HUMANE EDUCATION IN SCHOOLS SOUGHT

At the monthly meeting of the committee of the Victoria branch of the B.C. Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals the members stood in silent tribute to the memory of Miss Herning, who was a life member and an active worker in the cause of humanity.

The president reported that he and the secretary had interviewed the superintendent of education with respect to humane education in the public schools in conjunction with nature study, which already has a place on the curriculum. This system is in vogue throughout Ontario and the Maritime Provinces, while in the United States humane education is compulsory in thirty-three states. The superintendent of education expressed himself as sympathetic with the objects of the society and promised to give the matter his serious consideration.

The inspector's report dealt principally with attendance on ailing or injured animals, fifty-nine having been attended and 876 inspected since the last meeting.

Cases of cruelty or neglect should be reported to the inspector, G. A. Allen, telephone E 3051, or to A. R. Sherwood, secretary - treasurer, telephone E 7626.

NOTES TREND TO LIBERALISM

Old Tory Statesmen Radicals Against Bennett, Says B. C. Nicholas

The monthly meeting of Ward Five Liberal Association, held yesterday evening, was featured by an address by B. C. Nicholas, editor of The Victoria Daily Times, in which he reviewed the highlights of Canada's political history during the last century.

The speaker devoted special attention to the conditions which led up to the establishment of responsible government and the union of Upper and Lower Canada in 1841, and also of the creation of the Dominion under the B.N.A. Act twenty-six years later.

The gradual extension of self-government culminating in the Statute of Westminster of recent times, under which all of the dominions are equal partners in the whole commonwealth and for purposes of government, independent of one another, with the King as the common tie to all, was dealt with in some detail.

The speaker significantly noted that regardless of the party label of the various Canadian administrations there was a definite and consistent trend towards the adoption of Liberal policies throughout Canada's whole political life—a trend which arose out of the natural aspirations of an essentially democratic people. This, he pointed out, was obvious in even some of the policies of Conservative governments, as well, of course, as the general policies of Liberal administrations.

The sharpest reaction towards time-orientated Toryism, he said, had occurred within the last four and one-half years when Premier Bennett, by his high protective tariff, his lack of appreciation of the rights of Parliament and his concessions to special privilege and powerful minority interests, had given Canada a dose of Toryism of the old school which Sir Robert Borden, Sir Charles Tupper and Sir John A. Macdonald never would have dreamt of. In comparison with the present Prime Minister these three Conservative statesmen were almost howling radicals.

Mr. Nicholas pointed out that Liberalism was not a label or party, but a set of principles applicable to every activity of human life, based upon the freedom of thought and legitimate action, and the greatest good to the greatest number. These principles provided the real test of the actual quality of Liberalism, however promoted or espoused, and upon them also depended the preservation of the whole Liberal idea.

ROTARY SHOW NETS $313.22

Financial Statement on Minstrel Performance and Revue Given Clubmen

Net profits of the Victoria Rotary Club from its charity show, "Step and Go," at the Royal Victoria Theatre on January 7 and 8, amounted to $313.22, with the possible deduction of another $50, Duncan MacBride told the clubmen to-day.

As chairman of the group in charge of the production, he presented a financial statement showing the gross receipts to be $1,229.75. From that had been taken $489.13 in play expenses and $491.90 in the theatre percentage, leaving the club $313.22 from which had come another $489.13 for club expenses, leaving a net $313.22. From the latter sum another disputed claim for $50 might be taken, he said.

WORKERS THANKED

The show had been of great benefit to the club from points other than the financial end, he said. "We hope the minstrel show, now it is started, will be held together," he added, before voicing the club's thanks to Rotary Orchestra, Frank J. Sehl, Jack Truss, Frank Shandley, Tom Kelvey, Ernie Fenton, the Boys Point Company and Carl Pendray, Vic Clarke, J. V. Johnson, the boys, the Artsmen Club, Alex Gandy, Alf Dowell, outsiders who had assisted in the production and the membership at large for its co-operation. He also paid a tribute to T. F. McContell, club secretary, and the ladies of Rotary who had also assisted.

J. Morse Hatt, club president, thanked Mr. MacBride and Mrs. MacBride for the part they had played in making the show the success it was.

CLUB REPORTS ACTIVE YEAR

Annual Meeting of Victoria West Liberal Organization Reviewed

Chief officers were re-elected by acclamation and appreciation of their services which made the Victoria West Liberal Social Club such a live organization, was expressed at the annual meeting held yesterday evening.

The officers elected were:

G. A. Renton, president; W. H. Kinsman, honorary president; Major S. Hanson, honorary vice-president; W. E. Graham, vice-president; C. F. Randell, secretary-treasurer; J. Fryer, E. Brown, W. Sloan, Mrs. W. Jones and Mrs. P. Willis, executive officers. W. Minty and W. Wilson were elected honorary members.

The president thanked the members for confidence placed in him and presented the annual report. He expressed the hope that the coming year would surpass the last. He presented a token of appreciation on behalf of the club to the secretary-treasurer and to E. Brown and J. Fryer for their services during the year.

In the course of his report the president mentioned the club had a membership of eighty and a substantial bank balance, a presentable clubroom and assets to the value of $50.00 and above all, no liabilities. The activities of the year were reviewed and special mention was made of the card games and social which drew fifty or sixty players each week, and the weekly dances at Liberal headquarters. Thanks were extended to those who helped organize the functions.

"The activity in sport is highly commendable to our club," said the president. "We have directly been responsible for the financing and operating of the following sport during the past year—junior boys' basketball team, two junior boys' roller hockey teams, young ladies' softball team, senior men's softball team, and at present a boys' basketball team. The expenditure for the operation of these teams has been high and to some extent advantage taken of the club's good-will. In the coming year it would be advisable to reduce considerably in the financing of sport."

Thanks were extended by Mr. Renton to officers of the club.

REVELATION OF PYRAMID TOLD

John S. Eason of Vancouver Is Speaker Before British Israel Association

That the symbolism of the revelation of the Great Pyramid definitely portrays that mankind had repeatedly rejected Divine guidance, was the claim made by John S. Eason of Vancouver, editor of The Periscope, in his address last Tuesday evening in the Foresters' Hall, under the auspices of the Victoria and District British-Israel Association.

Mr. Eason expressed the belief that such was especially the case on January 10, 1776 A.D. (Paine's Day); January 10, 1920, when Britain joined the League of Nations, and on December 2, 1934, when Britain deliberately returned to the gold standard.

Illustrating his remarks by diagrams on the blackboard, the speaker asserted that the geometrical design, including the period between 1920 and 1933 A.D., the plane of "the times of the restitution of all things," showed two definite processes at work leading to the removal of the phase of man's rejection of Divine guidance towards an entirely new phase, the acceptance of Divine guidance through the benign influence of Jesus Christ as the spiritual magnet by which the Divine kingdom of Heaven should eventually become established as man became more and more submissive to the will of God.

Mr. Eason claimed that the symbolism also indicated this stage of submission becoming sufficiently advanced within the British race by September, 1936, to permit the removal of the current economic tribulation. From that time onward, Britain as a race, entered a final period of correction, discipline and tuition in the principles and practices of the Kingdom of God upon earth.

National Baseball League May Have To Take Over Boston

THE SPORTS MIRROR

IT WILL be the most surprising and a remarkable team feat of 1935 if Moncton Hawks, Canadian senior amateur hockey champions of 1933 and 1934, do it again. Perhaps amazing, because no team has ever won the Allan Cup three years in succession. Out of a hurtling muddle in maritime hockey, the Hawks have emerged on the side of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, chiefly because that is the only way they can get another shot at Canadian supremacy. No doubt they are less interested in the title than in an overseas trip to the Olympic Games.

* * *

But having spurned commercial hockey in favor of the C.A.H.A., the Hawks stand very close to the top of any list of prospective Canadian Olympic teams. There are the Hamilton Tigers, the Toronto All-Stars, the Ottawa Senators, Montreal Royals or Canadiens, Winnipeg Monarchs, Port Williams, Prince Albert Minton, Regina Aces, Kimberley Dynamiters—and then there are the Hawks.

* * *

Moncton's team is likely to be less strong than the Hawks of the last two years, since Sammy McManus, Aubrey Webster and Bert Connolly have turned professional. Nevertheless there is a feeling the Hawks could have left any three players outside the rink and still won the Allan Cup in 1933 and 1934. They were seldom extended. This season, as the season from Charlottetown to Vancouver are fighting from an Olympic point of view, the Hawks will be extended everywhere. Charlottetown and Halifax Wolverines may be too much for the Hawks before the campaign gets out of the maritimes. Or Montreal or Ottawa may overcome the champions.

* * *

Hamilton, Toronto and Oakville Villas, Ontario intermediate champions last season, are capable of making it tough for any of them, even Moncton. Port William actually won the first game of the 1934 Allan Cup finals from the Hawks. They might do better against a finalist without McManus, Webster and Connolly. Toronto and Winnipeg have divided Olympic honors in the past, Granites and Varsity Grads winning the world title for Toronto in 1924 and 1932, and Winnipeg Falcons and Winnipeg conquering the world's amateurs in 1930 and 1932. The big towns are among those to be considered this season.

* * *

In an effort to produce a winner, Toronto has thrown the best of its talent into one team. It may be this team will develop sufficient cohesion before long to become really dangerous. It has first to upset Hamilton and Oakville, regarded as every bit as powerful as the All-Stars. Winnipeg Monarchs will be back from a European tour in time for the playdowns. They bowed last season to Port William. British Columbia has high hopes for Kimberley's Dynamiters and both Alberta and Saskatchewan may turn out surprisingly strong champions.

* * *

Any of these might prove capable of beating Moncton. Yet the Hawks retain Jimmy Foster in goal, Bill Gill and Len Burrage on defence, Bill Miller and Dud James at centre, and Walter Irvine, Duke McDonald and Monty Muckle on the wings. They were members of the titular brigade. The reserves may be weaker, but the Hawks seem to have retained a great deal of the Allan Cup wallop.

Golf for the million is the latest aim of the London County Council, which has decided to increase the facilities for municipal golf in London. About eight acres in Hainault Forest are to be given up to golf and the present nine-hole course will be extended to eighteen holes. The county council has received $675,000 in fees from the Hainault Forest course during the last three years. Since April 21, when Beckenham Place Park was opened for public golf, 32,000 tickets have been issued there, excluding "seasons," while on the Forest course during the same period the number of tickets has totaled 45,000.

Homeless Braves Are Big Problem To Major Circuit

Nobody Wants Club That Is Without Park and in Financial Difficulties

League Moguls Rush to Meeting

New York, Jan. 17. — Possibility that the National Baseball League might take over the Boston Braves and run the club until a purchaser could be found loomed today as league directors rush here to join President Ford Frick to-morrow in his struggle with the toughest problem baseball has faced in years.

With the Braves Field apparently gone to the dogs, the team disposed, President Emil Fuchs close to the end of his financial rope, and Charles F. Adams, who holds the mortgage, unwilling to take over the team, the new battle of Bunker Hill resolved into a weird but desperate chase for a man with a lot of money who is interested.

Failing that—and failure is virtually admitted at the start—there seems nothing for the league directorate to do but take over the club, settle with Adams and Fuchs, attempt to regain possession of Braves Field, and thus maintain an eight-club league until a purchaser is found.

SIMILAR SITUATION

Only once in baseball history has anything remotely similar arisen. The precedent established there was close enough to be followed, as a last resort, in this case.

About 1903 an accident in Philadelphia that cost eighteen or twenty lives forced the league to take over the Phillies, pay the players' salaries and run the club for most of the season until a new owner was found.

During a ball game there a rumpus started in a street outside the park. The crowd rushed down a wooden runway between the bleachers and grandstand to see what was going on. The runway collapsed, and the damage suits resulting from deaths and injuries forced the owner, James Potter, into bankruptcy.

Baers to Fight On Miami Card

Associated Press

Miami, Fla., Jan. 17.—The performing Baers, Max Baer, boilermaker heavyweight champion of the world, and his lively curtain brother, Buddy, start training at Miami Beach to-morrow for the ring show next Thursday in which Barney Ross will defend his welterweight title against Frankie Klick. Max will box four rounds with Jim Maloney, a Miami traffic policeman. Buddy will take on Frank Davenport, Chicago, for six rounds.

COAST RINKS DOING WELL

Lead in Majority of Events at B.C. Curling Association Tournament

Nelson, Jan. 17. — Vancouver curling rinks skipped by Dundas, Braden and Cornett seem heading for victory in several of the cup competitions in the fortieth annual bonspiel of the B.C. Curling Association. The Cornett rink was the only coast entry to meet defeat, and that at the hands of the Bostock rink of Nelson, in the Rossland Cup series.

Play has narrowed down to the grand aggregate, but Dundas, Cornett and Braden are heavy favorites, although one must fall by the wayside, because Cornett is drawn against Braden. Nelson has two rinks left in this event, with Kimberley and Rossland still represented.

Ice conditions continue favorable. The coast rinks are leaders in the grand aggregate, and have a substantial hold on the all-comers' event. Play in the British Consols event, B.C. championship series, has not started.

Lott and Stoefen Make Nice Profit

New York, Jan. 17.—With fame behind them and fortune as their goal, George Martin Lott Jr. and Lester Stoefen, latest recruits to professional tennis, earned slightly more than $6,000 each in their first week as pay-for-pay racquet wielders.

Promoter Bill O'Brien announced that the gross receipts thus far of the three months' tour, which opened in Madison Square Garden here a week ago, amounted to $60,000.52.

LONG SHOTS ROMP HOME

Dominate Card at Santa Anita Plant; Puako Biggest Surprise of Day

Los Angeles, Jan. 17.—Jovius, five-year-old son of Stimulus, saved the form players from an almost complete rout yesterday when he staved off the challenge of Nipped to win the fifth race of the Santa Anita programme here by a head, running the mile and an eighth in 1:54 1-5, on a slow track.

It was the fifth time Clyde Phillips had sent the thoroughbred to the post and his first victory, which was worth $5.60, $4.20 and $2.80 in the mutuel machines. Rego, formerly of the Phillips stable, but recently claimed, was third, five lengths back.

CLOSE RACE

The black gelding went to the front early, stood off the challenge of Nipped on the back stretch and held to the slight advantage in the closing rush. Jovius went to the post with two pounds overweight.

It was a great day for long shots but hard on the form players. Blind Barney started it off in the first race, winning by a neck to pay nine to one. In the second, Justice Logan paid $11.60 on $2 tickets to win, and Chief Evergreen placed at the fine price of $36.80 for $2 wagers.

Puako topped the field, however, with a price of twenty-eight to one in the third, with Sun Caprice a six to one winner, and Bran Muffin in front at eight to one.

Y Swimmers Defeat Pacific Club Team

Association Stars Nose Out Rivals in Friendly Duel Meet in Association Pool; Win Gala With Victories in Final Events

Coming from behind to win the last two events, Bob Smirl's Y.M.C.A. swimming club just nosed out the Pacific Swimming Club, 56 to 52, in a dual meet at the association pool yesterday evening.

The Flying Y squad took first and second places in the men's and women's plunges to secure their margin after the Pacific team, including Molly Wallis, Ernie Peden, Bev Honor and Ann Davidson, had nicked the majority of firsts in the other events on the programme.

Molly Wallis took the first contest, a sixty-yards freestyle race for women, beating out her clubmate, Lilian Stokes, and Ruby Davidson, Y.M.C.A., who finished second and third respectively.

Ivor Fuller staged a comeback to beat Jack Mutton, also of the "Y," and Bev. Honor, Pacific Club performer, in the men's 100 yards freestyle.

Audrey Adam, Y.M.C.A., flashed her old form to win the women's breaststroke, before Ernie Peden took the men's similar event for the Pacific Club.

RELAYS SPLIT

Honor won the 100 yards freestyle from F. Wight for the Pacific Club before Olive French and Audrey Adam nicked the first two places for the Y.M.C.A. in the women's backstroke.

Don Davidson showed the way in the men's 100 back and the Pacific Club went into the lead with a victory in the mixed relay.

Judges for the swimming were Ron Lowndes, Al McKinnon, Bill Robertson and Wilson Billingsley. Georgia Sludge was recorder.

PORTLAND AND CALGARY TIE

Deadlock 2 to 2 in Northwest Hockey League Game; Goalies Brilliant

Calgary, Jan. 17.— Portland Buckaroos halted to-day for a breather in the middle of a grueling pointe trip that will send them onto the ice four times in five nights but confident they ate out more than the lone point they added to their Northwest Hockey League standing as a result of yesterday evening's 2 to 2 overtime tie with Calgary.

After the first period yesterday evening when both teams scored all their counters, two of the league's star netminders, dynamic Andy Aitkenhead, Portland, and lanky imperturbable Sam Timmins, Calgary, kicked out shot after shot through fifty minutes of play.

TOUGH BREAKS

Just a freak shot robbed them of at least a tie decision at Edmonton on Tuesday night, so did a couple of breaks keep the Runs out of the win column yesterday evening.

Poacher Lyons and Art Neville banged in Portland's markers in the first seven minutes of the opening play, Lyons taking a pass from Gordon Fraser and Neville netting unassisted. Calgary counted both their scores in the last half of the session, and both on face-off drives.

Jimmy Jampson started the play for the first one, passing out to Steve Adams who whipped the puck goalward. The rubber bounced back to Adams's stick before Aitkenhead had a chance to smother the shot and the Calgary player-manager slid it to Chuckey Reach who caught the Portland goalie unprepared.

Calgary—Timmins; McFarlane and Lowrie; Jampson; Adams and Scott. Subs: Pridham, Harris, Cuthbertson and Shepherd.

SUMMARY

First period—1, Portland, Lyons (Fraser), 2:04; 2, Portland, Neville, 7:10; 3, Calgary, Scott (Adams), 11:20; 4, Calgary, Scott (Jampson), 17:04. Penalties: Adams, Minutes.

Second period—No score.

Third period—No score. Penalties: Jampson, Lyons, Scott, Fraser, and Lowrie and McFarlane (five minutes each).

M'LARNIN HAS GREAT LAUGH

Smiles at Offer of $10,000 By Jack Allen to Fight Gordon Wallace

Vancouver, Jan. 17.—Vancouver boxing circles buzzed yesterday as Promoter Jack Allen announced he would offer Jimmy McLarnin $10,000 to meet Gordon Wallace in an exhibition bout here and bumped the ante to $15,000 when the welter king and his manager, Pop Foster, shook their heads with a smiling "no, thank you."

"I'm here for a rest and don't intend to fight until this summer," Jimmy said. "Besides, why fight for $10,000 when I can get $60,000."

Pop, the genial but canny mentor who has guided the smiling Vancouver Irish-Canadian lad from the ranks of the prelim boys to the top of the heap, was more emphatic.

"What," he exclaimed. "Fight for $10,000 here when he's resting for a $60,000 match in the east in the summer? That's business. It would only be an exhibition and wouldn't mean anything to Jimmy. And what would it mean to Gordie? He'd get knocked out, and that might hurt his career. It's taken Jimmy eleven years of hard work to get where he is to-day. Wallace has quite a way to go yet and he can make good money fighting at home until he is ready for the topnotchers. I'm not saying he is not a good prospect, but I believe I've explained that the difference between Jimmy and Gordie shows how unwise it would be to stage such a bout just now."

"Okay, Pop," Allen barked when he heard the McLarnin-Foster attitude, but the added inducement will hardly tempt the titleholder into a Vancouver ring.

Pop plans to leave in a week or so for California, then eastward to arrange for Jimmy's title defense in the summer against Barney Ross, of Chicago, or "someone else if Barney doesn't get by Frankie Klick."

Cleveland Holds Second Place Tie

Cleveland, Jan. 17.—Cleveland Falcons cruised along in second place in the International Hockey League to-day, tied for the position with Detroit Olympics.

They gained the second-place berth yesterday evening with a 5 to 0 shutout over Buffalo's Bisons. It was the Bisons' first appearance here this season and victory for Falcons left them three games behind the league-leading London Tecs.

GAGNON TO CANADIENS

Boston, Jan. 17.—Resale of Johnny Gagnon, French - Canadian right-winger, to Montreal Canadiens, by Boston Bruins, was confirmed yesterday evening by General Manager Art Ross.

CRICKETERS IN PROTEST

Members of Nottinghamshire Club Object to Apology to Australians

London, Jan. 17.—The Nottinghamshire Cricket Club was torn yesterday by a controversy arising out of bodyline bowling, long a contentious question.

A special meeting of 2,000 members carried a no-confidence vote in the club committee, following the Notts apology to Australian cricket authorities over a bodyline bowling incident in the last test match series. William Voce, Notts player, was the offending bowler.

The committee maintained that it had followed the only course open to it. It was explained that the committee had never doubted the fairness of the leg-bowling theory, of which Harold Larwood, another Notts player, was the first exponent. This should not be confused, however, with a direct attack upon the batsman.

CHARGES PROVED

Two charges against the club of unfair bowling, lodged by the Australians and by the Middlesex Club, had both proved, while a third, by the Lancashire Club, had not been proved, the committee explained. In the view of the concurrence of the umpires and the M.C.C., governing body of cricket, that the bowling was a direct attack upon the batsmen, the committee felt the club could only apologize. It was decided the club must not again be placed in such a humiliating position.

As the former Notts captain, A. W. Carr, had stated he would allow the bowlers to bowl as they pleased, the committee contended it was justified in appointing a new captain. Both Voce and Larwood had been signed to play for another three years. It expressed hope that Voce would play for the county for many years and that the incident now would be forgotten.

NEED NEW SPIRIT

The committee, however, realized that the club was on the brink of disaster unless a new spirit was created. He felt there might be a general refusal of other counties to play against the Notts club.

The opposition to the committee was headed by former Mayor Whitby, Nottingham. He urged that the apology to the Australians be expunged from the records and that the committee be asked to resign. When the chairman said the meeting had no power to deal with such a resolution, the no-confidence motion was put and carried.

Mid-week Soccer Games Postponed

Postponed yesterday on account of the inclement weather and the dangerous condition of the playing fields, opening fixtures in the Feudeny Cup soccer series for clubs in the Wednesday Football League will be played next Wednesday, league officials announced yesterday evening.

Classy Bon Marche Will Play Ribbons

Aggregation of Seattle All-star Basketballers to Meet Tea Merchants in Feature Tussle at High Gym on Saturday Evening

Figured the best team the Ribbons have drawn this year, Bon Marche hoopsters will journey to Victoria from Seattle for an exhibition fixture at the High School gym on Saturday evening. A combination of stars from such squads as the Delbiley outfit, the Seattle Union Oil and other leading Sound City squads, the visitors should give the locals their stiffest fight to date.

In the other game on the two-fixture card, Dunlaix, city Intermediate A champions, will play the Bon-Bons, senior C title holders in what should prove an interesting engagement.

In a letter to the local basketball officials Gail Parfitt, manager of the Bon Marches, spoke as follows of his squad:

STRONG CLUB

"Our club representing the Bon Marches is a hand picked team, representing stars of every league in Seattle. Our forward line consists of Johnny Geffrey, leading scorer in the Community League for a number of years and last year chosen all-star forward in the tournament, and Bob Dickie, star of the crack Delbiley team. For centre we have Paul Prudon, six feet six and the highest man in the field house league in his position. In the guard position we present Dick Foster demon guard of the Union Oil and Harley Jackson, star in the Commercial League. As reserves we have Chet Kingsburg and Fran Dickie, players on a par with those previously mentioned. Already this season you have seen two of the members of the club in action.

UNBEATEN TO DATE

"To date we have not lost a game, having taken the strong Italian A. C. and Union Oil into camp, also a number of weaker teams in the city.

"Talking with Chuck Durgan the other day he mentioned the fact that our club would give your boys a very close battle and suggested my writing to you as we are primarily a traveling team."

With that outfit against them, the Ribbons will probably have to step their prettiest to gain a decision. Beaten by the Delbiley outfit, the locals know the scoring power of at least one of the visitors and should tighten up on their defensive for the engagement.

LOCAL LINE-UP

Art Chapman will start at pivot with Red Martin and Funky Andrews flanking him. Chuck Chapman will team up with rangy Doug Foden on the defense and Alex McKinnon, Johnny Craig, Norm Florence, Rudman and Wallace will be ready for relief duty.

The first game is scheduled to start at 8 o'clock with the second following shortly before 9.

HOCKEY TEAMS TIE

Providence, R.I., Jan. 17.—A 2 to 2 tie with New Haven Eagles before a small crowd here yesterday evening gave Rhode Island Reds second place in the Canadian-American Hockey League.

Jackie Keating, Mitchell, McManus and Speyer were the scorers.

LIGHT HEAVIES WILL WRESTLE

Red Lyons Will Meet Ken Hollis in Main Event of Saturday's Card Here

Light - heavyweight wrestlers will return to the Tillicum gymnasium on Saturday evening when Promoter Fred Richardson stages another of his popular professional cards. In the eight ten-minute-round main event Red Lyons of Joplin, Mo., will go up against Ken Hollis of New Orleans. Both these boys have appeared here before and in previous performances put up great bouts.

In the semi-windup, slated for five eight-minute rounds, Carl Martin, who is now making Vancouver his home, will tackle Abdul Khan, Afghanistan, in a bout that promises to be a thriller. Two local preliminaries will also be on the programme.

The Martin-Khan affair is expected to keep the fans on their toes all the way. Martin, in his former bouts here this winter, has demonstrated he is a mighty clever performer. Although beaten last Saturday by Herbie Parks, Martin had it all over his Vancouver rival until Parks got in one of his punishing drop kicks.

Khan, since arriving on the coast, has made the boast that the wrestler does not live who can make him teach him. Strong, smart and colorful, he has gone over big in his matches in Seattle and is expected to get a big hand here.

Johnny Pease will be the third man in the ring and the first bout will start at 8.30 o'clock. Tickets may be secured at F. B. Richardson's, 706 Yates Street.

Blackburn Wins Cup Soccer Game

London, Jan. 17. — Blackburn Rovers defeated Middlesbrough 1 to 0 to-day in a third round English Football Cup game. The game was a replay as the teams tied Saturday.

MONCTON OUT OF CIRCUIT

Champion Hawks Quit Newly-formed "Big Three" Hockey League in East

Halifax, Jan. 17. — The two-week-old Maritime "Big Three" Hockey League went on the rocks early yesterday when Manager Jack Cann, of the Halifax Wolverines, announced that Moncton Hawks, Allan Cup holders, had dropped out.

At the same time Cann said he had assurance from President James R. Wry, of the Maritime Amateur Hockey Association, that Wolverines would be eligible for the Allan Cup playdowns, having done everything possible to qualify under trying circumstances.

Moncton's decision was believed to have been influenced by the loss of big Bill Gill, defenceman, who played with Hawks in two Canadian championship series, who will join Syracuse in the International League.

Hawks, Wolverines and Charlottetown Abegweits formed the "Big Three" two weeks after the C.A.H.A. and the M.A.H.A. demanded a clean-up of ineligible players in the Maritimes.

Pantorium Girls Gain Series Lead

Double Score on Unitys in First of Two-game Women's Hoop Play-offs; Hoyle-Brown Boys Beat West Road; Lake Hill Down U.S. Team

Doubling the score of Wally Yeomans's Unitys, Allie Letherquand's Pantorium girls set up a twenty-two point lead in the first of their two-game total point series for the city senior B women's basketball championship at the High School yesterday evening.

The closeers played sparkling ball throughout to have the floor on the long end of a 44 to 22 count. Lake Hill boys downed the visiting United States team from Bend, Oregon, 41 to 32, in a home exhibition encounter, while Hoyle-Brown boys unearthed all their tricks to take West Road into camp 35 to 18.

Led by Mary Wilson and Ruby Bethell, Pantorium girls turned in a clever exhibition as they set up their margin over the Unitys. As the score would indicate, the game was all in favor of the Pantorium five as the Unitys lacked the polish and experience of their opponents.

The winners started to go places from the first whistle and were soon sitting on the crest of a substantial lead. This lead they increased to 20 to 9 by the half.

Unitys found it impossible to penetrate their opponent's defence and with Pantorium packing too much speed and shooting ability, slipped well behind in the scoring.

Mary Wilson and Ruby Bethell led the scoring with 15 and 12 points respectively. V. Edwards with 6 points was high scorer for the losers.

WEST ROAD Vs HOYLE-BROWN

The West Road-Hoyle-Brown game was a thrilling battle from start to finish. The visitors from West Road turned in their best performance of the current season and handed the undefeated league leaders their biggest score of the year.

Both teams played a strictly defensive game during the first period and baskets were few and far between. Hoyle-Browns found it next to impossible to evade their checks in the initial period with the result Caddell was the only player on the local five to find the hoops for two field baskets. West Road were little better off than their opponents in their shooting and Clarence Sluggett scored their only field basket in this half. Nine free shots, however, were good for five points and the half found the visitors leading 7 to 4.

The game speeded up considerably during the final twenty minutes of play and the fans were brought to their feet continually by sparkling plays. Hoyle-Browns pounded away at their opponent's lead and baskets by Levy, Patterson and Caddell sent the locals to the front. With three minutes to go both squads were running neck and neck with the score tied at 17 all. Charlie Sluggett sank a free throw to put the West Readers in the lead 18 to 17. Meanwhile potted a long one for the locals. A final rally forty seconds from time netted Hoyle-Browns six more points and the game 25 to 18.

LAKE HILL WIN

Piling up a 20 to 12 lead in the first half, Lake Hill held off a desperate second period rally to defeat the visiting team from Bend, Oregon. The visitors fielded an exceedingly young and light team, with a defense like tissue paper. Their forward line was particularly effective and tricky, but their back division permitted their opponents to get in close for easy setups repeatedly. That was really the deciding factor in the game.

Lake Hill turned in a very creditable performance, and although they were not quite so tricky with their ball handling they held a distinct advantage in shooting.

The locals opened with a rush to take the lead from the start, and were soon out in front 17 to 5. Gradually finding their bearings on the large floor, the U.S. boys combined beautifully, and with Mouser on the receiving end of the plays brought the score to 7 to 10. Mouser was the outstanding player on the floor, and, aside from leading the scorers with nineteen points did noble work on the defence. R. Mitchell boosted Lake Hill's total to 20 to 12 as the boys walked off the floor at the half-way mark.

The Bend boys were seen at their best at the opening of the second period, when they started to cut into their opponents' lead. Lake Hill came back strong, however, and had the game well in hand by fifteen points. Mouser went on another scoring spree just before time, and his buddies left the Oregonians trailing by nine points at the bell.

TRINIDAD IN MATCH LEAD

Perform Brilliantly in Cricket Match Against M.C.C.; Maynard Batting Star

Port of Spain, Trinidad, Jan. 17.—Led brilliantly by Maynard's double century, Trinidad were able to declare their first innings after running up a score of 372 for seven wickets against the Marylebone cricketers' 348 in a fast-moving match here yesterday.

At the tea recess Trinidad stood 298 for six, and Maynard had come through with 170 runs. A great ovation was given Maynard, who had scored thirty fours.

Of their total, 139 runs were scored yesterday for the loss of only three wickets. Treating the bowling lightly, Maynard had piled up 106 of the runs himself, aided by Captain Jack Grant, Learie Constantine and Merry.

Constantine, fresh from a season in English county cricket, disappointed the crowd. However, he shied out to Holmes for only nine, off Paine's bowling.

CONNIE MACK IS HOPEFUL

If Young Hurlers Come Through Athletics Will Be in Baseball Title Race

Philadelphia, Jan. 17.—Connie Mack is dreaming another pennant dream of his Athletics, and only his pitching staff, he says, can turn it into a nightmare.

"My team," the diamond patriarch said, is "as good as any in the American League." Then he tied a string to that: "Exclusive of the pitchers."

"It is not impossible for us to win the pennant by any means," he asserted. "Our position depends on what the hurlers do."

And he made it clear he's going to have a lot to say about what those hurlers do, or know the reason why.

Unless his youthful flingers show up well in a hard pre-season test of twenty-nine games, he indicated they'll be back among the unemployed.

SETS SWIM MARK

Toronto, Jan. 17.—Bob Pirie, Toronto's sensational young swimming star, yesterday evening knocked 8 3-5 seconds off his own Canadian record for the 300-yard freestyle. Pirie covered the distance in 3.15 2-5. His previous mark, set last year, was 3.23 1-5.

When Baer Cut Down Levinsky

Coming out in the second round with a contemptuous sneer, Max Baer, heavyweight champion, who had absorbed a beating in the first round, knocked out the gutsy Kingfish Levinsky before 14,500 spectators in Chicago. The bout, variously reported as putting Baer's crown at stake in Illinois in event of a knockout by the Kingfish, was said to have been the champion's greatest display of victuousness. Photo shows Levinsky on the floor, with Baer on the way to a neutral corner.

CANADIENS TO MEET TORONTO

Flying Frenchmen Will Be Strengthened By Return of Gagnon to Line-up

The word is going round that Chicago Black Hawks are slipping and may yet be beaten out of a place in the Stanley Cup playoffs. Hawks, who have given over first position in the National Hockey League's American section to Boston, will have a chance to prove it isn't so bad as all that to-night, when they meet Eagles in St. Louis.

The world champions are in second place, two points ahead of Detroit, and if the latter defeat Americans in New York will have to down the Eagles to keep undisputed possession of first place.

Canadiens' fans will be out in force to-night at Montreal to welcome back Johnny Gagnon, the "Chicoutimi Black Cat," who returns to the Habitants after spending the first half of the season with Boston. Canadiens regretted the deal that lost them the popular player, and paid cash to get him back.

Organize Football Eleven at Meeting

At a well-attended and enthusiastic meeting held Monday evening in the Colquitz Hall, Wilkinson Road, arrangements were completed for the organization of the Strawberry Vale Football Club. Charles Fulton was appointed team captain, and Albert Pellizzaro, vice-captain.

The officers elected for the ensuing year follow: H. D. Booth, president; T. Baker, vice-president, and Charles Newman, secretary-treasurer. Those elected as members of the directorate were H. Huntington, J. Fulton, Ralph Mackie, W. Rowlands and J. Campbell.

The club is arranging a card party to be held early next month.

Levinsky Sold To Chicago Ice Team

New York, Jan. 17.—New York Rangers of the National Hockey League, late yesterday announced the sale of Alex Levinsky, defence player, to Chicago Black Hawks. Terms of the deal were not divulged. Levinsky, formerly with Toronto Maple Leafs, will report with the Hawks to-night at St. Louis.

OUR MAIL BAG

CRICKET UMPIRES' ASSOCIATION

To the Sports Editor:—It has doubtless been noticed, by recent reports in the local press, that an effort is being made to establish an Umpires' Association in Victoria. There is little or no doubt that, with good umpires, the game of cricket will be very much improved. This is not meant to reflect in any manner upon those gentlemen, frequently playing members of the local clubs, who are willing to officiate during an afternoon's cricket.

Many times a change is made during the game owing to the fact that a player, acting as umpire, has to leave the game in order to go into bat; if two or three wickets fall quickly there is doubt whether he will be ready, when called upon to take his place at the wicket. This all adds to confusion and is not fair on the players if it can possibly be avoided. It will be admitted that it is far better for umpires to take charge of the game in its entirety, without change, unless absolute necessity arises.

I am quite sure there must be many gentlemen in this city who have a first-class knowledge of the game. From the crowds, each Saturday and Wednesday, watching the matches at Beacon Hill Park and elsewhere, there must be many old cricketers amongst them, who would be willing to volunteer their services in the interests of the game—if not regularly each week, then part of the season. The players themselves I honestly believe are doing everything in their power to provide the best type of cricket, that is according to their ability, and they cannot do more. They are not all "Jessops" or "Bradmans" but their desire to "play the game" occupies first place, and it is hoped that by the formation of an Umpires' Association, the public will be helping the players' efforts to no small extent.

I therefore sincerely trust that any gentleman willing to help in the matter of getting such an association started will kindly send in his name to R. H. Moffatt, honorary secretary, Victoria and District Cricket Association, 410 Sit. Charles Street, at a not too distant date, so that steps may be taken to complete details before the cricket season commences.

HUBERT LETHABY,
President Victoria and District Cricket Association.

Grand Forks, N.D., Jan. 17.—Frankie Martin, Moose Jaw, Sask., scored a technical knockout over Biff Bapp, Kingsland, Montana, in the third round of a six-round battle that topped a boxing card here yesterday evening.

Rookie Threatens In Hockey Scoring

Bill Carse, Edmonton, Moves Into Second Place in Northwest League With Sixteen Points; Clint Smith, Vancouver, Still Leads With Twenty-five

Calgary, Jan. 17. — With Clint Smith, Vancouver, still away out ahead, a points rookie bobbed up in the Northwest Hockey League scoring race this week to assert second place and shove a quartette of Vancouver and Seattle players into a four-way tie for third place.

The rookie, Bill Carse, Edmonton, did some heavy swipe to run his total goals up to fourteen, which with two assists gives him a total of sixteen. But that was still a long way in the rear of Clint Smith's total of twenty-five, fifteen goals and ten assists.

Cam Proudlock and Harold Tabor, Seattle teammates, and Smith's winger, Bobby Kirk and Bryan Hextall, all had fifteen points. Proudlock's twelve goals gave him the nod for top position. Tabor and Kirk had ten goals and five assists apiece, while Hextall figures his total on nine goals and six assists.

Gordon Fraser of Portland rose to a contending position for the doubtful bed built Boston with forty minutes in penalties, but was still short of the forty-nine minutes Proudlock had spent in the cooler.

DOPEY DEAN IS LATEST

Rookie Pitcher With St. Louis Browns Answers Denial of Famous Dizzy

St. Louis, Jan. 17.—Jack Dean, young pitcher from Texas, who will work out with the Browns this spring, is about ready to-day to call out the family Dean-o-logist.

It's just "too bad" if the better known Deans—Dizzy and Daffy—have never heard of him, says Jack. Dizzy recently denied relationship with Jack, who asserted he was a cousin of the Cardinals' famous pitching brothers.

In a letter to Dizzy, published here, Jack said: "So you've never heard of me before? Well, that's too bad, but people in this part of Texas don't think you and Paul are the only pitching Deans. Open your ears, for you are going to hear plenty about me from now on."

NO N.H.L. FOR NIGHBOR

London, Ont.—A highly successful minor league manager, Frank Nighbor, one-time National Hockey League "great," has no desire to return to the N.H.L. as a manager. "I don't want to go up to the National League and I don't intend to," he said here. "I love working with boys and helping them to get somewhere—in fact I'd like to make it my life work for the rest of my sport career."

Winnipeg Futures Upturns Extended In Closing Rally

Canadian Press

Winnipeg, Jan. 17.—A pre-closing burst of buying shot wheat prices to the session's highs and shook the market out of its previous lethargy on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange to-day. Values closed ¼ to ⅞ cent higher, May at 89⅝ and July 86⅝ cents.

The last minute gains featured the fourth day of interesting trading on the exchange. Monday and Tuesday of this week prices fell to the "pegged" levels but yesterday saw May bounce well over its minimum and to-day's further gains evidenced better faith on the part of traders.

Argentine wheat shipments this week, it was estimated, would total 3,000,000 bushels, compared to 4,328,000 bushels exported last week.

Cash grains were quiet but cash coarse grains were enlivened by export of barley. Coarse grains futures trading also was dull, prices closely following the trend of wheat.

INDUSTRIALS ON UP SIDE

Canadian Press

Toronto, Jan. 17.—The industrial section of the Toronto exchange indulged in a breathing spell to-day while sentiment trading kept prices on a fairly even keel. Interlisted stocks gave the market a suggestion of leadership on the up side but the general list was inclined to await developments.

Bids on liquor shares were raised and the whole market stiffened up in sympathy at the close.

The financial group was less steady to-day.

Wall Street List Is Little Changed In Quiet Session

New York, Jan. 17. — A sluggish stock market showed few signs of life to-day as most traders seemed content to wait for a more stimulating brand of news. The President's social security message to Congress did not stir the speculative pulse unduly.

Among Canadian issues International Nickel was a trifle improved, but Dome, McIntyre and Canadian Pacific each sold slight fractions lower. Dominion Government bonds were narrow and quiet. Canadian funds held unchanged at 100 1-32 cents.

Grains recovered moderately and cotton improved on the Bankhead quota limitation figures for 1935. Foreign exchanges were somewhat higher in terms of the dollar. Bonds were rather mixed, although most U.S. government securities were firm.

Shares of General Electric attracted a late following for an advance of more than ¾ point. A number of specialties got up two to three points in the forenoon, but shaded their gains before the close. Homestake Mining, ex-dividend, moved up 13. American Tobacco "B" lost a point.

J. R. Nicolson, C.L.U., Is Named President of Victoria Life Association

J. R. Nicolson, C.L.U., manager of the Great West Life Assurance Company's Victoria branch, was elected president of the Victoria and Island Life Underwriters' Association at a sparsely attended annual meeting of that body in Spencer's dining-room at noon to-day. He succeeds R. A. Semple.

Mr. Nicolson has had a wide experience in the underwriting business, including ten years of field work and a term as member of the provincial executive of Saskatchewan.

D. C. Dispecker of the Monarch Life Assurance Company was re-elected to the position of secretary for his second term; J. W. O'Keil of the Mutual Life Assurance Company of Canada was chosen vice-president, and Vernon Ridgway of the same company, treasurer.

The executive committee for the coming year was named as follows: H. M. Motherhead, Confederation Life; H. W. N. Moorehouse, C.L.

Tarzan of the Apes

The morning after the Bwana-dum, the tribe started slowly back through the forest toward the coast. The body of Tublat lay where it had fallen, for the people of Kerchak do not eat their own dead. The march was but a leisurely search for food. Once old Sabor crossed their path.

This sent them scurrying to the safety of the higher branches. Tarzan sat directly above the Bwana—and hurled a pineapple at their ancient enemy. Into his mind a great plan sprang. He had killed the fierce Tublat; now would he track down the crafty Sabor and slay her likewise!

At the bottom of his little English heart lost the great desire to cover his nakedness with clothes. He had learned from his picture books that all MEN were so covered, while APES and every other living thing went naked. So he desired the skin of Sabor, the Bwana.

On this day he had other things to attract his attention. Suddenly it became so midnight. Palmly came a hot, red morning. The great trees took Vivid and blinding lightning flashed from the whirling, inky clouds above. Roaring thunder belched forth its fearsome challenge.

The tribe huddled in shivering fear from the cold rain at the base of great trees. For hours it raged—raging suddenly. To Tarzan came a dawning light to explain the mystery of clothes. How easy he'd have been towards Sabor's heavy coat! So he added a further invention.

The Gumps

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a married woman with two children. I have a husband who is good in every way except for one fault. He gives money that we cannot afford to his brother whenever he asks for it. We are poor, working hard trying to pay for our own home, and I save every nickel I can to help. I get so discouraged when I see the money that I have slaved and pinched pennies for being handed over to some one else, but if I say anything to my husband he gets angry. I have brothers and sisters who are worse off than his brother, but I do not think that I would be doing right if I gave his hard-earned money to them, and he would be furious if I did. My husband admits that his brother is a waster. Do you think it is fair for my husband to do this, or am I selfish in objecting to it? I would like your opinion.

PUZZLED WIFE.

Answer: You are perfectly justified in resenting your husband's impoverishing you for the sake of his brother. He has no right to take the money that you have helped earn and that you have saved, penny by penny, in order that you may have a home and some protection in your old age, to give to any one else, and when he does so he is giving you a rotten deal.

Of course, he thinks that the money belongs exclusively to him because he brings in the pay envelope, but the wife who cooks and washes and scrubs to make a comfortable home; who walks miles to save a cent on the price of groceries and butcher's meat, and who does without all the pretty things that a woman loves in order to help her husband get along, has earned the money just as much as he has and has just as much right to say what shall be done with it.

No man has a right to sacrifice his wife to his family. When a man marries a woman the Good Book says that he should leave father and mother and sister and brother and cleave only unto her. Her well being and her safety should be first with him and he should not take the support that rightfully belongs to her to give to his family unless there be a helpless old father or mother. Certainly he should not make his wife slave and economize to support able-bodied sisters and brothers.

Yet many men who think they are good men and who really love their wives are so obsessed by their families that they never consider the cruel injustice they do their wives when they let their families bleed them of every cent.

I have in mind now a case in which a thrifty and industrious man married a woman who was a veritable go-getter and filled with ambition for him and her children. But, although the man was a successful business man and made good money and the wife was a marvelous manager who made every dollar do the work of five, they could never get ahead because the man's brothers, who were idle and extravagant, kept him dragged. They were always getting into debt, always starting schemes that failed and they always came to brother to pay them out of trouble.

Always the wife saw the money she had worked for going to waste. Always she saw her children denied the advantages that they should have had. Always she was shabby and hard-worked because the money that would have bought the pretty things she craved and the servants she needed had been given to brother.

And I always wondered why she didn't have enough wit to beat brother to it and spend the money on herself before brother got his greedy hand into the family pocketbook. You may take a tip from this, and if your husband is going to give all he makes to his brother, realize that there is no sense in your trying to work and save.

This problem of a husband or wife sacrificed to the other's family is a very common one and one that takes a lot of courage and a great sense of justice to solve. Because the husband or wife must realize that while he or she might be willing to work and support brother or sister, the wife or husband does not feel the same way about it. They have no love for in-laws that makes them willing to go hungry and shabby that the other may feast.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am a young girl working in an office. Another girl who works in this office wears a riding habit to work. The men tell her she is cute and when she is gone they make fun of her for wearing it around the office. She wants me to wear one, but I don't think it is the proper costume. But the girl says I am old-fashioned. What do you think?

A GIRL IN DOUBT.

Answer: Well, you needn't be in doubt about a riding habit being the proper garment to wear to work in an office. Any girl who does that makes herself a figure of fun and a laughing stock for all who see her, and I can't understand why her employer permits her to do such a silly thing.

Whenever you are in doubt about what to wear, consider suitability first. Your own sense of fitness will tell you that the only time when it is proper to wear a riding habit is when there is a horse at least in the vicinity, and that for a girl to stand behind a counter and sell goods, or pound a typewriter, dressed for a canter must make everybody who sees her think that she not only doesn't know anything whatever about clothes, but that she lacks a sense of humor or she would know how ridiculous she looks.

It is very proper for a business girl to be properly dressed, since most of us are judged by our appearance, but this does not mean that she should be dressed out as if she were going to a costume ball or an afternoon party. She should wear as pretty clothes as she can afford, made along good lines and of the colors that flatter her, but these should be plain and dark.

She should not be loaded down with beads and chains and trinkets and give the general impression of having just dropped in for a minute on her way to tea. On the contrary, she should try to look her part, that of a sweet, practical, efficient business woman.

You can't imagine anybody taking a girl in riding togs in an office any more seriously than they would a man who came down to business in a dress suit.

DEAR MISS DIX—My husband works days and on the side plays in an orchestra at night, sometimes two and three nights a week. He plays at parties and dances, and when I think of his being out where things are gay while I am at home it makes me feel as if I am missing something. When he tells me about the places where he has been playing I get all choked up. My husband can't understand why I should feel this way, for he says he only takes these extra jobs for the money. I have no children. What would you do if you were me?

MUSICIAN'S WIFE.

Answer: I would try to use common sense in dealing with the situation and thank Heaven that I had a husband who was enough of a go-getter and industrious enough to be willing to work overtime to make more money for me.

You seem to think that at these parties he is dancing around and having a grand time with the girls. He isn't. He is working like a dog hard making the music for other people to dance to.

The best thing for you to do is to have a baby. Then you would have something to do of an evening and you wouldn't have time to worry over nonsense.

Marvellous Plastic Surgery Revealed in Damage Suit in England

Buckingham, Eng., Jan. 17.—Doctors and nurses prayed that twelve-year-old Cynthia Wilson of Farnham might die, so severe were her facial injuries when she was knocked off a bicycle by an automobile.

This was testified at Buckingham assizes yesterday in a damage suit brought by the girl, who recovered, against the driver of the car. The action was settled for $9,000 and costs after her counsel said: "This is the finest work, I think, that Sir Harold Gillies has ever done. He has built up her face and the dentist has built up her mouth so that her appearance is now absolutely normal."

WASHINGTON TO HAVE NEW TAXES

Associated Press

Olympia, Wash., Jan. 17.—Governor Clarence D. Martin, in his message to the twenty-fourth Washington Legislature, yesterday asked that $20,000,000 be raised by additional taxes, but was optimistic about the state's economic situation.

Agriculture, industry and labor were in better circumstances, he said, and the relief rolls had been cut 25 per cent.

He asked for luxury and gift taxes, consolidation of state departments, preservation of high standards in the common schools, re-enactment of the state's "Little A.A.A." law, and improvements in the state patrol to curb crime.

In spite of the inclement weather there were fully 200 dancers present, and a good number of card players. The first prize for the spot dance went to Miss Ella White and Mr. George Bescott, and the second to Miss Gladys Phillips and Mr. Ian MacDonald.

In the card games the winners were: First, ladies, Mrs. F. W. Smith; second, Mrs. M. Shelley; consolation, Mrs. M. Pebernat, while among the men the winners were Mr. W. Mintyne, Mr. R. W. Ockwell second, and Mr. Harry Frost consolation.

Lumber Is Moving Offshore Steadily

Freighters Imperial Valley and Oak Range to Succeed Umberleigh on Berth at Ogden Point For United Kingdom Loading; Other Ship Fixtures

Lumber is continuing to move steadily from the Ogden Point assembly plant, according to Ted King of King Brothers, shipping agents.

Ships are taking the lumber at the Ogden Point docks as fast as it can be delivered there by rail and ferry from the up-Island mills.

Vessels expected here to load are the Imperial Valley, due to-morrow or Saturday, and the Oak Range, looked for by January 22. Both will complete cargoes here for delivery in the United Kingdom.

The British freighter Umberleigh, Capt. O. G. Price, was still alongside Ogden Point to-day, taking on 1,400,000 feet of lumber for the U.K.

HEAVY STOWAGE

Norwegian motorship Belpariel, which has been fixed to load lumber for the Orient, will stow better than 6,000,000 feet of British Columbia timber. The entire cargo of the Belpariel is being loaded at B.C. mainland and Vancouver Island ports.

The Belpariel holds the record of 8,200,000 feet loaded by the Canadian American Shipping Company some years ago for Europe, but she will not approach transpacific totals of some 5,000,000 feet held by the British freighter Chief Capilano. The heavily-laden freighter is expected to get away to sea from this port for Japan January 22.

The British steamer Porthbridge is loading a full cargo of B.C. lumber and will sail about February 1 for the Orient. The Japanese freighter Shunlen Maru, which has been loading on Puget Sound, will complete at B.C. ports, and will sail about January 30 for Japan ports.

Ss. Brandon, which is expected at the Tacoma smelter with a cargo of ore from Russia, has been fixed by the Anglo-Canadian Shipping Company to load at B.C. ports January 28 for Liverpool.

Other ships listed on account of this company include the Benledi for London, Ms. Nordhavet, Ss. Rossington Court and Eveleigh, all scheduled to go on berth next month.

Three charters to Australia are listed by B.C. Shipping Agencies Ltd. Ss. Kaisha Maru, Ms. Nepturian, loading January 21, and Ss. Sheafholm, due February 5 to stow lumber for Sydney and Newcastle.

Around the Docks

A large party of travelers is aboard the Furness motorship Pacific Enterprise, which is expected in port to-morrow from England via the Panama Canal.

These ships usually bring in three or four passengers for this port, the balance having landed at California ports, but there are nine aboard the vessel on this occasion, five making the round trip.

CHILDAR FOR SALE

The Norwegian freighter Childar, which has been lying in Esquimalt Harbor since she arrived here last May after being aground on Peacock Spit, mouth of the Columbia River, is again being offered for sale in Norway.

Since the adjustment of difficulties between owners and underwriters, the damaged motorship was sold, but the new owner since died, and the vessel is once more in the market.

TRAVEL SOUTHBOUND

Winter trek of western Canadians to California is now in full swing, according to William M. Allan, Victoria agent for the Pacific Steamship Lines.

The first two sailings of this month have had capacity bookings, not only of passengers, but also of automobiles.

The third sailing of the month will be the Ruth Alexander, and it too is booked to capacity with passengers and cars.

A large percentage of the travelers are from western Canadian points, and it is anticipated that the movement will continue throughout the winter.

CANADA AT HONOLULU

R.M.S. Empress of Canada, Capt. A. J. Hoskyn, reached Honolulu at 7 o'clock this morning, bound from Victoria to Yokohama, Shanghai and Hongkong. The ship carried a large number of passengers from this city, who will holiday at Honolulu.

RUTH ALEXANDER DUE

Ss. Ruth Alexander, of the Pacific Steamship Lines, is expected to arrive alongside the Rithet Docks about 10 o'clock this evening from California ports.

She will land passengers and discharge freight before proceeding to Seattle.

Ship In Tow Making 100 Miles Each Day

Disabled Langleecrag, Aided By Sister Ship Langleebrook, Expected To Make Victoria About January 26; New Propeller Will Be Shipped in Drydock Here

Unless she is held back by adverse weather, the disabled freighter, Langleecrag, at her present rate of speed in tow of her sister-ship Langleebrook, should arrive off Victoria about January 26, it was learned here to-day.

Genuine radio station reports that the Langleecrag, at 8 o'clock last night, was 911 miles west of the Swiftsure Lightship, making slow but steady progress on her way to Victoria.

With the helpless vessel in tow the Langleebrook is making about 100 miles a day. The two ships were battling strong easterly gales last week and some 100 miles was lost in two days on account of the heavy weather, but the conditions are now more favorable, it is reported. It is not expected that the Langleecrag will need any other assistance, but in that event, the salvage steamer Salvage King is held in port here to take care of the emergency.

VESSELS RUNNING LIGHT

When the Langleecrag lost her propeller she was about 2,500 miles out from this coast, bound here light from the Orient. The Langleebrook, also running in ballast, fortunately happened to be in the vicinity and promptly answered the wireless call for assistance. Both ships had recently delivered cargoes at Oriental ports and were returning light to take on other cargoes on this side of the Pacific. This accounts for the decision of the owners in ordering the Langleebrook to tow the disabled vessel here, for the ship was nearer to Japan than Victoria when she met with her mishap.

Following the arrival of the Langleecrag she will be floated into drydock at Esquimalt to have a new propeller shipped and effect any other necessary repairs.

Sleeping Cars Are Air Conditioned

First air-conditioned sleeping cars, the first to go into transcontinental passenger service in the northwest, left Monday evening from Seattle, Tacoma and Portland for Chicago on the Great Northern Railway's Empire Builder, it was announced here to-day by Harry Clark, local agent. One of the Pullmans is named A. A. Denny, in honor of the late Seattle pioneer.

These cars are forerunners of a hundred similarly equipped sleepers which the Great Northern and other northwest lines will use on their trains this year. Day coaches and tourist sleeping cars will also be equipped with this modern travel luxury, which maintains a comfortable temperature winter and summer, regulates humidity and seals the cars against noise and dust. Observation cars and diners were air-conditioned in 1934.

First Steel Ship Masts Built Here

Yarrows Rivetting Together New Masts Which Will Be Stepped in Freighter Benlawers, Repairing Storm Damage; Esquimalt Plant Busy

Two steel masts for the storm-battered British freighter Benlawers, the first steel masts ever built by a Victoria shipyard, are now taking shape at the Esquimalt plant of Yarrows Ltd.

These mats will be stepped on the Benlawers in place of those carried away when the ship was battling with a terrific storm in the north Pacific recently, and which caused other extensive damage aboard the vessel.

FLOATED FROM DOCK

The Benlawers was floated out of the Songhees drydock at Esquimalt yesterday, and is now lying alongside the fitting-out dock. While the vessel was in dock her tail shaft was drawn for inspection and the stern bearing was rewooded.

The contract for repairs to the Benlawers is giving employment to about 100 workmen at the Yarrow shipyard. It was stated at the plant to-day that the repair contract will be completed about the middle of February, when Capt. John Drummond will again take the Benlawers to sea.

Other ship repair work is going on at Yarrows Ltd., which is a busy plant these days. The tug Burnett Chief, of the Island Tug and Barge Company, has been hauled out on the marine ways to have her propeller changed.

The refitting of the R.C.M.P. Arctic patrol vessel St. Roch is nearing completion, and the craft will shortly be ready to sail again for the north.

Group of Britishers Forbidden by Government to Purchase Ss. Belgenland

New York, Jan. 17.—A London dispatch to The New York Times says: "In charge of a skeleton crew, the 27,000-ton liner Belgenland sailed down the Thames from Tilbury last week on her last voyage under the British flag.

"When the ship reaches New York she will be taken over by the Panama Pacific Line to be rechristened the Columbia and put into service on West Indies cruises.

"Her departure was a sad occasion for the British public, especially for a group of Englishmen whose proposal to purchase her, with other Red Star vessels, was blocked by their own government. Although the loss of the Belgenland will mean unemployment for 500 British seamen, the government refused to consent to her purchase as it would have involved competition with the Cunard-White-Star fleet.

"Except for a short cruising season the Belgenland has been laid up at Tilbury over a year. For the last month 900 men have been cleaning and refitting her, but in New York she will undergo further redecoration by the same company that decorated the liners Manhattan and Washington."

Woman Cleared Of Murder Charge

Associated Press

Sacramento, Cal., Jan. 17.—Mrs. Constance Kohler, thirty-three-year-old Sacramento mother of five children, was acquitted here yesterday of murdering a sixth a few minutes after it was born.

A crowd in the court room broke into hand-clapping and cheers as the jury returned the verdict, two hours and fifty minutes after it had received the case. Mrs. Kohler turned pale, then began to sob.

Mrs. Kohler's baby boy died from ammonia burns. She contended they were accidental, while the state, basing its case on an asserted confession of the woman, held the baby was deliberately murdered.

HUGE FRENCH PLANE READY

Giant Air Machine Has Luxurious Accommodations for Many Passengers

Bordeaux, France, Jan. 17.—A huge French cabin seaplane designed for transoceanic service and capable of carrying seventy passengers made its first trip into the air Tuesday afternoon.

The thirty-seven-ton ship, christened the Lieutenant de Vaisseau Paris and called here the largest aircraft in the world, sailed gracefully over Lake Biscarosse in its trial flight. The crew numbered seven.

The seaplane, propelled by six motors of 950 horsepower each, is 104 feet long, has a wingspread of 162 feet and stands thirty feet high.

Housed in its duraluminum and stainless steel fuselage, arranged with two decks, are twelve de luxe cabins, as large as those on transatlantic liners, each of which has two beds and a private bathroom. There are accommodations for ten other first class and forty-two second class passengers.
